JULY JULEPS.

The Local News Field in Homopathic Doses.

"I would not sing away," The poet sadly cried; "Oh, let me sing one day, And then to glory glide."

The poet sang his lay, And then was taken sick. The coroner couldn't say Who threw the brick.

Another phonograph man in town. Green corn was in market yesterday from A. J. Anderson's place. A quantity was also shipped to Portland.

The boiler and smoke stack of the electric light works arrived here, and will be put in place in a few days.

Messrs. Evans and Dodson brought in to the city this evening ninety-two head of horses which they will ship to Terre Haute, Indiana, to night from Saltmarsh & Co.'s stock yards.

An exchange remarks: "It is a little discouraging to a man to carry a howling, squalling baby around for half the night and then sit down and reflect for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Phil. Brogan & Co. shipped 17 cars of sheep this morning, about 3,500 head, to Chicago. En route they will be in charge of Mr. Saltmarsh. Two horses will also be shipped with them, weighing respectively 1,334 and 1,454 pounds.

The Oregonian has published a pictorial pamphlet containing the history of the paper from its founding, 1850. Its contents are interesting from a historical standpoint, and they can hardly help being fascinating, since H. W. Scott himself is the author.

It is said that a gentleman wasp does not sting. But, as a male and female wasp wears about the same kind of a colonnade, and look as near alike as wine, the only way to distinguish their sex is to catch one and examine its argeanal. If it stings you it is a female, if not, it is a gentleman wasp.

A hobo named Harry Clark plead guilty to the charge of petty larceny today in Justice Davis' court, and after receiving a lecture on the difference between an honest and upright course through life and a dishonest and idle one, was given fifteen days in the county jail, in default of $30 fine.

Mrs. Mattie Horn, sister of Captain Humphrey, arrived yesterday to be in attendance at his bedside, and finds him getting along fine. As he related to her sympathetic ear the story of the accident she exclaimed: "Why, I don't see how it didn't kill you!" "Well," says the Cap., and his own rare smile lit up his face, "the thing I can't see is why it didn't break the car wheel."—Pendleton Tribune.

Mrs. Hugh Frazier's coyote escaped yesterday morning and she offered a boy ten cents reward to capture it again. The boy did not find it, but his coyote-ship returned of his own accord last night and killed four turkeys. The noise of the battle aroused Mr. Frazier and three dogs, who pursued the animal all around the yard, finally cornering him in an outhouse, and reducing him to inglorious captivity.

DESTROYS THE TREES.

The Worm Which is Eating Up the Most Valuable Timber.

J. M. Baker, one of the most reliable and capable timber-men of the state of Washington, and a resident of Montezano, brings intelligence of a great danger threatening the destruction of the splendid forests of Washington and Oregon. The agent of injury is the "measore" worm. It is worse than the vermin which destroys hoptines and prune trees, and may even rival the toredo in its capacities of eating wood. The measore worm is about an inch long and is doing its baneful work in Chehalis county and along the Hoquiam river. It is taking the life of the gigantic fir, spruce and hemlock trees, and already has mined the forests on a tract of land as large as two townships.

Mr. Baker carefully investigated the timber on section 32, township 19 north, range 9 west, on the Hoquiam river, and found all the hemlock, or Alaska pine, dead. Of the fir and spruce one-third was dead, one-third damaged, and the other third green. This is the best timbered section of Washington, and $20 an acre has been considered a modest price for it, but now it is not worth $2 an acre. Steps are to be taken to thoroughly study the habits of this worm, and prevent its progress if possible. Next to fires it will otherwise become the chief danger of the valuable forests.—Telegram.

Good Money in Hops.

A. D. Eglin of Yakima county was in the city this morning, en route to Warm Springs to get 200 Indians to pick hops. He belongs to the hop association of that county, which has 3,000 acres in that product. A careful estimate has placed the number of bales that will be realized this year at 40,000, which will average 200 pounds per bale. Allowing 17 cents per pound, a conservative figure, the immense sum will be realized of $1,360,000, or over $450 per acre.

A Sunday at the Seaside.

During the summer season the Dalles, Portland & Astoria Navigation Co. will make a rate of $3, Dalles to Astoria and return, and $4, Dalles to Ilwaco and return.

Cantaloupes Ahead.

Thos. Adams has a block of ground in cantaloupes at the end of the city flume and uses the waste water for irrigation. He has just 1,000 hills in this space of ground, and they will doubtless net him $1 a hill. There is simply a solid mass of cantaloupes and if they average five cents each, $1 per hill will be easily realized. Besides this he has planted beans and corn between each row. The other day he sold $20 worth of string beans. As far as heard from, this bears strawberries, prunes, grapes, and everything else for clean profits, and after they are harvested the work ends until next spring.

PERSONAL MENTION.

S. A. Clark came in town last night from the valley.
 Mr. Thomas Glavey of Kingsley called on this office today.
 Mr. J. O. Warner of Nansene, is a visitor in the city today.
 Dr. and Mrs. Rinehart returned today from a flying trip to Hood River.
 Misses Kate Heister, Miss Vanderpool and Miss Laird of Wapinitia are in town today.

SHIPMENTS TO COMMENCE.

The Fruit Rapidly Ripening and No Delay Can Be Tolerated.
 Mr. E. Shanno went among the orchards near town this morning with Mr. S. A. Clarke, who represents the Earle Fruit Co., and finds that peach plums are rapidly ripening and will be ready for shipment in car-load lots Monday. Arrangements are made with the Union Pacific railroad company to furnish refrigerator cars, and it is thought there may be eight car loads shipped from this vicinity. So far the eastern market has been firm for this fruit and there is every prospect that Dalles shipments will bring fair prices to producers.

Mr. Clark, who has had considerable experience growing and shipping peach plums, says those he has seen are good size and fine quality. It is important that growers shall know that shipments should begin, for it is necessary to pick the fruit as soon as it has its growth and shows the least tinge of color. They will be shipped in crates that hold four square tin-topped baskets. Growers can go to the Lumbering company's office, Washington street, where Mr. Johns will furnish crates and baskets for use. An expert from Sacramento will soon arrive to teach all shippers how to handle and pack fruit. He also will superintend loading cars. In the meantime Mr. Shanno will explain to those who need information whatever they wish to know. It is necessary for growers to have ladders to use in gathering fruit, and Mr. Clarke has suggested that light, serviceable and cheap ladders shall be made by the lumbering company to supply the demand.

Meantime all who have peach plums, and there are fine orchards around here, should act promptly to secure help and learn how to handle the fruit properly, which Mr. Shanno can explain prior to the arrival of the fruit expert referred to.

Lawn Social.

Yesterday evening Mr. G. W. Phelps was the recipient of a pleasant surprise given him at the home of his sister Mrs. Lida Dunham. The lawn was very tastefully arranged with a large number of Chinese lanterns dotted about, and swing hammocks swung between convenient trees. Pressing business prevented Mr. Phelps from going home until a late hour in the evening, and when he did, and the illuminated lawn and gay company there assembled burst on his vision, surprise gained the mastery, but all that the lookers on could detect was a smothered "the ———." Joining the joyous throng who were desporting themselves about the lawn, and in hammocks, with music, games and various other pleasant pastimes provided by the thoughtful hostess, the evening passed quickly. During the evening refreshments were served on the lawn. The evening was unsurpassed and the enjoyment of the guests perfect. Those present were Misses Virginia and Grace Marden, Elizabeth Fitzgerald, Rose and Myrtle Mitchell, Clara, Ettie and Auburn Story, Caddie Booth, Kate DeHuff, Ursula and Louise Ruch, Jessie Lown, Minnie Lay, Florence Lewis, Aimee Newman, Alma Schmidt, Annie and Laura Thompson, Allie Rowland, Annie Williams, Cassie Wiley, Nellie Mitchell, Grace Campbell, Ruth Cooper, Lizzie Sampson, Mollie O'Leary, Maybel Lewis and Mrs. L. Dunham. Messrs. A. Clark, J. Crossen, Jesse Allen, H. W. French, Max Vogt, Ed. Patterson, E. H. French, F. Garretson, G. W. Phelps, M. Jameson, J. Hampshire, F. A. French, G. D. Snowden, V. H. French, F. Faulkner, H. H. Riddell, E. M. Williams, W. K. Corson, H. Lonsdale.

Master News.

The farmers here have got their grain cut and mostly hauled in.
 Mr. W. A. Davis has gone to Moro, Sherman county, to work at harvesting.
 Mrs. Robinson of Portland is visiting her old home at Mr. Davenport's.
 A party of Mosierites took a pleasure trip across the Columbia, over on the Washington side. Among the company was a young lady from The Dalles, Miss Winnie Frazier, who is staying at Mr. Jas. T. Brown's to recuperate her health. She enjoyed it very much. The older Sellinger, owner of the boat, acted as captain, his son, Harry, as mate. We visited Menaluke island, the cemetery where the red men inter their dead. Nothing very beautiful is to be seen; but, yet, the scene, to the meditative mind, is impressive in the extreme. Decaying humanity, human bones and skulls laying strewn around in every direction, exposed to the rays of the burning sun and to the gaze of living man. Surely this is the final consummation of all materiality. As I gaze with awe upon this terrible sight I am constrained to cry out, "Oh Lord, what is man whose life is a hand breadth, whose age is but a span?" I. X.
