SHERMAN LAW FIRST Immediate Policy of President Cleveland and His Administration. ABSOLUTE, UNQUALIFIED REPEAL.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The World tomorrow will print the following: "The World is enabled today to announce authoritatively that the immediate policy of President Cleveland and his administration in regard to the approaching special congress will be briefly as follows: "First—Silver reform, by the absolute and unqualified repeal of the Sherman law. "Second—Tariff reform, to be prosecuted in accordance with the pledges of the party, as soon as, but not before, the finances of the country are again upon a stable basis."

A PREHISTORIC CITY. A Valuable Discovery Lately Made in the Colorado Desert. SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 22.—The ruins of a prehistoric city has just been discovered by a party of prospectors from Yuma when on the Colorado desert in search of the Peg Leg mine. The wind had laid bare the walls and remains of stone buildings for a distance of 420 feet in length by 260 feet in width. Gigantic pillars quaintly carved to represent dragons' heads and rattlesnakes still stood in the sand of the desert, supporting on their tops huge slabs of granite weighing many tons. The frieze ornamentation resembled Egyptian sculpture and exhibited a greater degree of skill than is possessed by Indian artisans of the present day. Fragments of pottery found underneath the debris, together with a crumbled piece of frieze, were brought by Hank Ferguson, one of the prospectors, to this city. One of his associates came to San Diego and the others returned to Yuma nearly two weeks ago, but the story of their discovery was carefully guarded in the hope that in some way they might profit by it. Ferguson called the matter to the attention of H. C. Gordon, who interested John H. Gay, Jr., a wealthy man, of this city, in the discovery, and a week ago yesterday, in company with four others, they went to explore the ruins. They were driven back by a sand storm, reaching this city today, but will make a careful examination of the ruins later in the season, when conditions are more favorable for extended exploration. From the relics exhibited, it is evident that an important archaeological discovery has been made.

Now a Serious Matter. NEW YORK, July 22.—The Sun's Indian cable says it is not too much to say that in four capitals, London, Paris, St. Petersburg and Peking, the situation is regarded as presenting greater danger than any with which diplomacy has had to deal in several years. Since the terms of the French ultimatum were made known the wires between London and Peking have been burdened with diplomatic correspondence of the highest importance. The motives and intentions of the French government are by no means clear to the other powers.

Even England did not regard the situation as serious until yesterday. It is generally believed here that Russia will take immediate advantage of the opportunity, which ensuing complications may offer, to improve her position in the Pamir, even if she does not openly assist France, in case of Chinese interference.

A Memphis Mob. MEMPHIS, July 22.—The jail of Shelby county, within the city limits of Memphis, was broken into by several hundred men at midnight, and Lee Walker, a negro, aged 22 years, was taken out and strung up to a telegraph pole, 100 yards from the jail. Afterward his body was cremated in the yard of a lumber firm near by. The negro culprit was a native of North Mississippi, and his calendar of crimes is the blackest in history. Within the past week he made four attempts to commit rape, two being successful, one victim being a small girl 3½ years old, who was badly lacerated, and the other a married woman of his own color. He made a full confession. He had just been released from the penitentiary, where he served a sentence for rape.

Wild disorder reigned about the jail as the mob gathered to wreak its vengeance. The gates of the south wall of the massive structure were forced with a bar of railroad iron, used as a battering-ram on the shoulders of the men, and after several attempts, squads of men crowded their way within the walls. Sheriff McLendon was struck over the head with a chair within the jail door. He was carried upstairs, placed in bed and received surgical attention. Most of the mob were masked, and they seemed to be mainly railway switchmen. The railway bar was, after several attempts, gotten inside the jail and two iron doors were battered down, occupying a half hour before they reached the cell where the victim was. The man was marched out amid yells from the mob, the jail door being thrown wide open, but no other prisoners were interfered with. The man's clothing was torn from his body as he moved with the mob to Williams' lumber yard, 200 yards north of the jail, where he was strung up to a telegraph pole. He was naked, the lighted gas lamp near by making him plainly visible to the throng. He was lacerated with knives and his throat was cut before being finally hanged. His hands not having been tied, he clutched at the rope when raised off his feet. The sight was a ghastly one. He was a man of powerful build, his head towering above those of the mob who surrounded him. At 2 o'clock this morning his mortal remains were only ashes among the embers of the funeral pyre from which he had been destroyed.

Ordered to Mare Island. This is the last day that the general public will be admitted to the Monterey. Early yesterday morning Captain Kempff received a dispatch from the navy department at Washington, ordering the ship to go at once to Mare Island, and there await further orders. As the arrangements for the reception and entertainment of Vice-President Stevenson include a visit to the Monterey, Captain Kempff has courteously consented to hold the battleship at its present anchorage until Wednesday morning, when she will drop down to the coal bunkers and take on fuel, preparatory to an early start on Thursday morning.

Severed His Arm. VIRGINIA, Nev., July 22.—Len Gallagher, yardmaster of the Virginia & Truckee railroad in this city, had his left arm taken off this afternoon by being run over by a locomotive. Gallagher had made the trip to Brunswick mill with a load of ore from the Kentuck mine and the train was returning to this city. When leaving Mound house Gallagher took a seat on the pilot in front of the locomotive. In a few minutes Engineer Thrall heard a cry from behind. Looking around he saw Gallagher alongside the track, holding something in the air. The train stopped and Gallagher came up to the engine and threw his left arm on the platform, which had been severed near the shoulder by the train running over it. Thrall immediately returned to Mound house and ran the train to Carson, 11 miles, to secure medical aid for the injured man. At Carson Gallagher jumped off the engine, seeing the doctor on the depot platform and threw his severed arm in front of him, exclaiming: "I have lost an arm, and there it is." Gallagher was taken to a friend's house and the stump of his arm attended to. The bones were splintered up into the shoulder. How Gallagher fell off the engine is not known. He displayed wonderful nerve, but, although a young man it is thought the reaction from the shock will prove too much for his system to withstand.

The Fighting on the Me-Kong. PARIS, July 22.—A dispatch to Le Temps from Saigon says: "A telegram from Stungtrung announces that Captain Villers, commanding the French force at Khong, reopened fire upon the Siamese the morning of the 19th inst. In the course of the day the French captured Forts Longdu, Dongo and Donhan, thus confining the enemy to Fort Donson. The last-named stronghold, though protected by three series of well-constructed fortifications, was captured the following day without loss to the French, who now occupy the entire group of islands. Only the town of Khong remains to be captured. It is estimated that 300 Siamese were killed and 200 were wounded in the last encounter. Three hundred and fifty men, under the command of a colonel, have been sent to reinforce the French garrison on the island of Khong, in the Me-Kong river."
