FRIDAY, JULY 28, 1893

The trouble between France and Siam has been brewing for months, and the active hostilities date back to the early part of the present year. They grew out of the disputes over the border line between Siam and Annam, over which latter country France has a protectorate. At one of the border towns in the spring a force of Annamites and Frenchmen was attacked and routed by Siamese troops. For this France demanded reparation, as well as a settlement of the boundary difficulties, and sent a gunboat to Bangkok. The Siamese government immediately began to act on the defensive and sunk a number of scows on the Menam river to prevent the near approach of French vessels to Bangkok, the capital of Siam. Siam has a population of about 7,000,000, which in Lower Siam is clustered about the rivers and canals. The Portuguese were the first Europeans to establish any intercourse with Siam. This was in 1511. English traders were in Siam early in the 17th century. The treaty of 1836 with England practically gave Europeans free admittance to Siam, and the English, owing to the nearness of their Indian dependencies, have had a strong diplomatic influence in the affairs of the country. So strong has this been that many believe that a war with France will ultimately result in an English protectorate.

Mr. Reedy, a Washington horticulturist, is convinced that the planting and caring for the trees which yield nuts can be made very profitable. All the principal nuts of commerce, with probably the exception of the Brazilian, can be raised here. One may see in Mr. Reedy's orchard some nut trees seven years old. His black walnut and butter-nut trees are in bearing. English filberts, pecans, hickory, Scillian chestnut, Japanese hickory and other varieties of nut-bearing trees are included in his experiment. Alluring advantages of nut culture are held out. It is claimed that after the trees are grown they require no plowing, that insects do not trouble them and that they harvest themselves, as the wind blows the fruit down. It is estimated that from $300,000 to $400,000 worth of nuts are consumed annually in Washington, says the Review, and that it will not be very long when the sum expended for nuts will exceed more than $1,000,000. Here is another home demand which can be met by the home product.

Cholera is making insidious and regular advances in the old countries, and before the summer is over may find lodgment on our shores. But the death rate cannot be so great, conceding that it gets a start, as it is in some of the larger cities of the old world. Our largest city, New York, is so thoroughly in hand by the health authorities, that cholera will be deserted by its chief ally, filth. And there is reason to hope it would be stamped out entirely, as it was last year. Americans are more particular about their surroundings than any other people, and as a rule exercise more care in a time of danger of contagion.

When Edison has begun something new he has no peace until the work is either completed or abandoned for good. In the case of success he immediately conceives a hatred for the invention. Recently he said: "I haven't used a telephone in ten years, and I would go out of my way any day to miss an incandescent light."

Drunken Medicine Man.

GOLDENDALE, July 26.—W. R. Dunbar, an Indian interpreter, gives information that Pli Lacost, an Indian and a homesteader at Tumwater, on the Columbia river, was in town today seeking redress and desiring to place Dr. Bill, an Indian medicine man, in the hands of the law. It appears Dr. Bill, with another medicine man, had stolen several bottles of wine from Joe Gillenwater's wine cellar at Columbus and with that they became gloriously drunk. Later they stirred up an old feud with Lacost and Dr. Bill fell upon and beat him in a frightful manner.

To Delinquent Taxpayers.

All property upon which taxes are not paid by the 1st of August, will be levied upon and sold according to law.

T. A. WARD, Sheriff.

The Portland Bank Failures.

Additional particulars of the failure of the Portland banks are reported in The Telegram last evening:

The assets of the Northwest Loan & Trust Company are in the neighborhood of $800,000, while the liabilities are something over $500,000. The assets will exceed the liabilities about $250,000 or $280,000.

The liabilities of the Oregon National bank are greater in proportion to the assets than those of the Northwest Loan & Trust Company.

The officers of the Northwest Loan & Trust Company are: President, George R. Markie; vice-president, H. Thielsen; treasurer, J. L. Hartman; secretary, W. G. Dillingham. The paid-up capital is $250,000.

The officers of the Oregon National bank are: President, George R. Markie; vice-president, E. B. McFarland; cashier, D. F. Sherman. The paid-up capital is $200,000.

The closing of the doors of these banks affects the finances of the county in the most vital point. The Oregon National bank was one of the depositories of the county funds, and the whole collection of the recent taxes has been placed in that bank by Sheriff Kelly.

Charles A. Malarkey, county treasurer, stated that in his opinion there is over $300,000 of the county money in the Oregon National.

"Mr. Kelly has paid me $425,000 in round numbers and turned over some county warrants," said Treasurer Malarkey. "The total tax roll is $1,243,000, and I don't think the delinquent list could exceed $240,000, for last year it was only about $60,000. So I estimate that the total tax collection for this year must be fully $1,000,000, if not more."

"I have done my utmost to get this money out of the sheriff's hands, having resorted to the courts on two occasions, but was met with technical objections each time which threw me out of court."

"I suggested to Mr. Kelly, when the mortgage tax law was sustained by the supreme court, that he pay over all these collections directly to me and take my receipt as county treasurer. But he didn't do it, and I suppose the money is in the closed bank. I feel that I have done my duty."

Sheriff Kelly was seen this afternoon, but absolutely refused to make any statement for publication.

NOT ENOUGH ELECTRICITY.

A Murderer in New York Had to Be Shocked Twice.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 27.—A ghastly tragedy, the sequel of another tragedy, was enacted in the prison here today. Murderer W. G. Taylor, who out of the throat of a fellow-convict, was placed in the electric execution chair and received a shock of 1,800 volts. The contact was not long enough, and when it was sought to turn on the current again the dynamo would not work. The man came slowly back toward consciousness, to prevent which morphine was administered while preparations were being made to get a supply of electricity from the city dynamo. Meantime he was placed on a cot, and conveyed back to the corridor, where he continued groaning, with his pulse growing stronger. Finally the electrical machinery was re-adjusted. Taylor was again placed in the chair and the current turned on successfully.

Notice.

All city warrants registered prior to July 2d, 1893, will be paid on presentation of the same at my office. Interest ceases after this date.

This device is used for the treatment of various ailments, including rheumatism, kidney issues, and general weakness. It is a non-invasive and effective method of medical treatment.

Turn to the right medicine, if you're a weak or ailing woman. It's Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If you're overworked or "run-down," it builds you up; if you're afflicted with any of the distressing derangements and disorders peculiar to your sex, it relieves and cures. It improves digestion, invigorates the system, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, melancholy and nervousness, produces refreshing sleep, and restores flesh and strength. In the cure of all functional disturbances, weaknesses, and irregularities, it's guaranteed to give satisfaction, or the money is refunded. It does all that's claimed for it, or it couldn't be sold in this way.

It is a legitimate medicine—not a beverage. Contains no alcohol to inebriate; no syrup or sugar to sour or ferment in the stomach and cause distress. As peculiar in its marvelous, remedial results as in its composition.

WINANS

THE NEW TOWN has been platted on the old camp ground, at the Forks and Falls of Hood river, with large, light lots, broad streets and alleys, good soil and pure water, with shade in profusion, perfect drainage, delightful mountain climate, the central attraction as a mountain summer resort for all Oregon, being the nearest town to Mt. Hood. It is unparalleled as a manufacturing center, being the natural center for 150 square miles of the best cedar and fir timber, possessing millions of horse-power in its rushing streams and waterfalls, easily harnessed. Where cheap motive power exists, there the manufacturing will center, surrounded by soil and climate that cannot be exceeded anywhere for fruit and agriculture, and with transportation already assured you will find this the place to make a perfect home or a paying investment.

See me on the ground, address me at Hood River Wasco County, Oregon.
