There are a great many paintings and statues at the world's fair that were evidently not designed to show elaborate displays of clothes and costumes. In fact the artist, in most cases, has almost ignored the dressmaker and tailor. He has tried to paint the truth, the naked truth, and do all in his power to inculcate a love for the nude in art. But has he been earnest in his endeavor? There are those who insist that whenever an artist is true to nature we are bound to admire his work. We believe that such is not always the case. Supposing an artist should paint a bow-legged, spindle-shank, thin-chested figure, think you the crowd would linger in front of the picture? If the average nude statue or painting was no more beautiful than—ahem!—well, than we fancy lots and lots of persons we could pick out would be, we fear that the nude in art would receive a body blow that would daze it somewhat. The nude in art is deceptive as we should know had not mother Eve set the fashion of wearing clothing. For many of us it is a matter of congratulation that we can consistently invoke the aid of the tailor in preparing ourselves to sit for a photograph. The nude in art does pretty well but it is mainly because the artists show pretty good taste in the selections of their subjects and models. But, as we said, it is deceptive. Supposing a young lady should evolve her ideal of what her future lord should be, from looking upon a statue of Apollo or Hercules.—Astoria Herald.

Lieut. Peary and party, it is reported, have made a bad start and may be subject to delays which will throw them back a year. There are many people besides those of purely scientific mind who are anxious to know what the north pole looks like. Geographers agree that the poles are flattened. A late theory is that they are hollowed out, on the principle that a revolving quantity of liquid sinks in the center. A familiar instance is found in stirring a cup of coffee. When the earth was molten the same rule might well apply to it. Pursuing this theory, its advocates claim for the north pole a tropical magnificence, unapproached short of the equator. That the ground, by its position, is struck vertically by the rays of the sun, so that the conditions are favorable for the most gigantic specimen of the palm and bulbous plants. Saurians should thrive in such an atmosphere and the largest reptiles should be numbered among its inhabitants. If this curious theory proves correct, it will be a wonderful day for natural history, as well as botany, when these mythical treasures are explored by Lt. Peary or some future adventurer. The only tangible evidence in support of a hot north pole is that navigators claim that whales swim northward in those latitudes.

Mr. McDonald's statement that fruit baskets cost the growers $15 per thousand and $9 in California contains a world of meaning. It shows that California goes in for everything on a gigantic scale. It is just as easy to conduct a big business as a little business, and does not require a whit more qualification. California has narrowed down the margins of expenses to consistent limits, which gives the producers the benefits. The vast difference in the item of fruit baskets suggests that it would be business for some good capable man to start a manufactory for them, making vast quantities, and so gain the profit to be found in numbers alone. When fruit growing becomes what it should be—the leading industry of Wasco county—all of these details will have been attended to, and the pioneers in the field will be the ones who have laid foundations for colossal fortunes.

But a few days intervene before the special session of congress. A great many congressmen have expressed their views and they are widely divergent. But by the time the message of President Cleveland has been read there will be more of one mind than before.

It is all right for Senator Mitchell to say he is a bi-metalist and is satisfied with the present ratio between gold and silver of 16 to 1, but the fact is the real ratio is about 25 to 1, and is steadily on the decline.

Mills Shutting Down.
 FALL RIVER, Aug. 1.—The directors of the Seconnet mills held a meeting today and voted to shut down next Saturday until September 1, or until the cloth market shows signs of improvement. The directors of the flint mills voted to shut down Monday for an indefinite period. The directors of the Wampanoag mills voted to shut down next week and every alternate week until the market improves. The Anawan, Metacommet, Weetamoo and Fall River manufactories will shut down next week for an indefinite period, and it is expected the American Linen Company will close its mills next Monday or later in the week. The Troy and Richard Borden mills have declared dividends, payable today, the former a dividend of $25 per share, and the latter a dividend of 1 1/2 per cent.

Eckels on Washington.
 WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Senator Squire called on Comptroller Eckels today to leave papers sent him recommending men for bank receiverships. Eckels was asked if Squire said anything about his reference to Washington's having been over-boomed and replied: "He couldn't do it. He knows that I was right, as everybody does who knows anything about the conditions out there." Eckels' article in the North American Review gives Washington as one of the states where cities have been laid out far in excess of demands and banks asked to sustain them.

Why Edison Shut Down.
 ORANGE, N. Y., Aug. 1.—The shut-down at the Edison phonograph works is only partial. Edison today issued the following statement: "The phonograph works have been shut down because we have nearly completed all orders on hand, and the proprietor, seeing that the country had resolved itself into a national lunatic asylum, has decided to wait until we have subsided somewhat."

CURE THAT COUGHS WITH SHILOH'S CURE

SHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY.

Have you Catarrh? This remedy is guaranteed to cure you. Price 50c. Inhaler free. For sale by Snipes & Kinersly.

It disappears
 —the worst forms of catarrh, with the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It's mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties effect a perfect and permanent cure, no matter how bad the case, or of how long standing. It's a remedy that succeeds where everything else has failed. Thousands of such cases can be pointed out. That's the reason its proprietors back their faith in it with money. They offer $500 reward for a case of catarrh which they cannot cure. It's a medicine that allows them to take such a risk. Doesn't common sense lead you to take such a medicine? "An advertising fake," you say. Fanny, isn't it, how some people prefer sickness to health when the remedy is positive and the guarantee absolute.

Wise men don't put money back of "fakes."
 And "faking" doesn't pay.

WINANS
 THE NEW TOWN has been platted on the old camp ground, at the Forks and Falls of Hood river, with large, sightly lots, broad streets and alleys, good soil and pure water, with shade in profusion, perfect drainage, delightful mountain climate, the central attraction as a mountain summer resort for all Oregon, being the nearest town to Mt. Hood. It is unparalleled as a manufacturing center, being the natural center for 150 square miles of the best cedar and fir timber, possessing millions of horse power in its rushing streams and waterfalls, easily harnessed. Where cheap motive power exists, there the manufactory will center, surrounded by soil and climate that cannot be equalled anywhere for fruit and agriculture, and with transportation already assured, you will find this the place to make a perfect home or a paying investment.
