Repeal the Sherman Law and Substitute Free Colnage.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 .- As soon after congress meets as it become practicable, Representative Bland, the leader of the silver forces in the house, will introduce a bill embodying the views of the silver Garon Win THE DALLES, - OREGON men. It will provide for the repeal of the Sherman purchasing act and substitute therefor the free coinage of silver, at the present ratio of 16 to 1. "That," said Mr. Bland today, "will be the ground upon which we will make the fight, although there has been no definite plans agreed upon." He recognized that the men could honestly differ as to the ratio, but that was a matter that should be settled in the party itself. Upon the use of both gold and silver as money, at a parity, the democratic party, according to his way of thinking, could not differ. If a compromise measure increasing the ratio was reached, he said, he saw no reason why the present dollar should not be kept in circulation as it was now. He proposed, however, with all his power, to resist any increase in the ratio.

Drowned in Snake River.

Lewiston, Idaho, Aug. 4 .- Jack Kenyon was drowned in Snake river this afternoon. He had been working, and complained of a bad headache; said he would go down to the river and take a a bath. About 2 o'clock someone passing saw him jump into the river. It is thought that plunging into the cold water in his heated condition brought on cramps. A few minutes later he was seen to sink and rise twice. Assistance was procured and the river dragged for his body, which was found soon after 4 o'clock. Kenyon's legs and arms were twisted, showing he had suffered great pain. Kenyon was one of the deckhands on the Annie Faxon. He was about 30 years of age. His family live at Camas

Teachers' Institute.

HOOD RIVER, Aug. 4, 1893. In the absence of any public gathering the teachers separated last evening and sought enjoyment in various ways. Most of the gentlemen were either in the water or on it. Some of the ladies took a boat ride, and afterwards a buggy or coach ride. The most notable being that of twelve school ma'ams in the elegant, commodious and easy four-in-hand Mt. Hood stage coach, furnished for the occasion by F. M. Broadbent, a very Union special says the name of the clever gentlemanly commercial traveller. On their return, they reported having author of "The Bridge of the Gods." sons aboard from Fourteen Mile island. The account of the many interesting sights to be had, so aroused the curiosity of one of the gentlemen that long before Hall, Miss Worden, Mrs. Mitchell and others were astir he started afoot this son and an unknown lady. All the morning to explore the country along above named were from Troy, Brooklyn the road to Mt. Hood. He returned and Hoboken. It is said the party was shortly before seven o'clock with greatly composed mostly of New York and enlarged views of the possibility of this to-be-famous Hood River country.

"After the Ball."

The following parody on "After the Ball" being picked up on the Regulator wharf, it is thought the talented writer must have finished the task and immediately committed suicide. However, be it said, with all due respect, that for the good of the community it is hoped such is the case. The base ball boys may find some consolation in it at least:

Nine handsome Dalles boys, in a wagonette, Crossing the mountain after sunset. Where are they going? why look so glad? They thought they'd beat them, it was too bad. They had a challenge: Goldendale they'd show. How they could play ball you will soon know. Listen the story, I'll tell it all: They were badly beaten atter the ball.

After the ball is over: after the game was played; After the boys were beaten: after the score was made,
Many a shin is aching, if they would tell you all;
Many a pocket was empty after the ball.

The sun was shining on the diamond bright; The boys were looking quite out of sight. But they were beaten by a bad score: Such a poor record they'll have no more. The crowd was yelling for Goldendale. Max tried to beat them, but had to lail. Art. Hal and Ireland really were all Cheering the Dalles boys after the ball.

Bright lights were flashing in the grand ball room;
Softly the music playing sweet tunes.
There came the Dalles boys, ready for fun.
That's where they each one got in a run.
They took the floor there, while the rest stood back; Not a fair partner did they all lack. That's why they're happy, not sad at all. They were fairly "in it" at the grand ball.

After the ball is over: after the boys returned,
This was the little lesson they had so sadly learned:
They would have gotten the game sure; never been beaten at all,
If they had taken the Dalles girls when they played ball. The success of Mrs. Annie M. Beam, of McKeesport, Pennsylvania, in the treatment of diarrhoea in her children will undoubtedly be of interest to many mothers. She says: "I spent several weeks in Johnstown, Pa., after the great flood, on account of my husband being employed there. We had several children with us, two of whom took the diarrhoea very badly. I got some of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy from Rev. Mr. Chapour lunch baskets conveyed to the land- man. It cured both of them. I knew of several cases where it was equally successful. I think it cannot be excelled

> Mr. Thomas Batte, editor of the Graphic, Texarkana, Arkansas, has found what he believes to be the best remedy in existence for the flux. His experience is well worth remembering. He says: "Last summer I had a very severe attack of flux. I tried almost every known remedy, none giving relief. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoa Remedy was recommended to me. I purchased a bottle and received almost immediate relief. I continued to use the medicine and was entirely cured.
