AUGUST ANGLINGS.

Small Fry Hooked by Persistent Chronicle Reporters.

The agitator's voice is dumb—His silver thimble forgot. The crowd that blocked the corner Has vanished from the spot. The clerk has shed his coat and vest. But comfort cometh not. The mercury's about to burst. And oh, great Scott! It's hot!

The Dalles "nine" will play a game of baseball tomorrow. The Goldendale team played Saturday.

Messrs. R. Mays and sons will ship a train load of beef cattle to the Portland market tonight, having driven them in off the range.

Mr. Harry Gilpin of Ten Mile has bought a twelve horse power threshing machine from C. W. Phelps & Son of this city.

For a Saturday, this is the most quiet one of the season. Our farmers are all at work in harvest fields, and have no time to spare to go to town.

Nothing can be heard of Miller, the father of Alma Gladys, who was sent for to come to Eugene. It is probable he is out in the country searching for the gypsies.

Mr. A. Fields has shipped 38 crates of cantaloupes from his ranch at Crate's Point to Portland during the past week, and will ship over 150 crates from his landing next week.

Medford Mail: A Chicago banker predicts that by the end of next month the banks of the city will be hunting for borrowers to take the money they won't let out now for government bonds.

A fine sample of oats from the ranch of W. J. Davidson, of Eight Mile, was left at our office yesterday, which is reported to yield fifty-five or sixty bushels per acre. The sample of stalk indicates a height of five feet.

Our breezy correspondent who writes up the Hood River institute, under the signature of Two Peas, is furnishing an excellent daily report. We hope that if he does not escape detection, some lucky circumstance will save his scalp. He is having lots of fun with the teachers.

Neil McLeod paid a visit to The Dalles during the week and to him the Sentinel is indebted for a little inside history that won't appear in The Dalles papers. When the defeated baseball team returned home they were met at the ferry landing by the full force of The Dalles Broom Brigade who proceeded without ceremony to go through the pantomime of brushing the flies off them. This ceremony over they were marched to the Unatilla House banquet and treated to a dejeuner of cold water.—Goldendale Sentinel.

Our country friends are anxious that some of the piscatorial fraternity would make an effort and have an obstruction, which is said to exist, in the shape of a large rock, blown out of 5-Mile, near the mouth of that stream, believing if that was done some of the early salmon run would find themselves up 15-Mile and its branches.

A fine toned bell has been placed in the tower of the Christian church which is nearly ready for dedication, which will take place on Sunday, the 3d of September next. The edifice is an ornament to that portion of the city and the denomination deserves much credit for their energy and determination in the erection of their new place of worship.

The Columbia Hose Company held a meeting Thursday night to take some action on the matter of finances and mature plans for their part in the state tournament which meets here on the 4th of next month. It was decided that funds be appropriated to meet necessary expenses in decorations and other incidentals. The company will take part in the parade and furnish a team of twelve members to participate in the hose races, with Mr. John Hampshire as captain.

What He Knows About Horse-Raising.

A few weeks ago Editor Gourlay, of the Sentinel, sent over to his ranch in Wasco county for his driving mare. The mare arrived in due time, and she was swelled up like a poisoned pup. Gourlay assured his friends that the animal was only "grass fat" and a few days' driving would bring her down to her normal size. A few days after Mr. Donnell had a longing desire to visit his girl at The Dalles, and making the fact known in the presence of Mr. Gourlay, he at once tendered Mr. Donnell his buggy and grass fed animal. The offer was accepted, and the next morning the stable was visited for the purpose of hitching up, when, behold, some of the luxurious grass from Mr. Gourlay's ranch had turned into legs, head, eyes and ears. In short, old Dobbin had a colt. —Klickitat Leader.

In Cupid's Net.

It is reported Hymen is to give a celebration in the near future. A fine cottage was purchased a few days ago, and the Pacific Express business has increased wonderfully of late.

Faces pleasant, but blushing, pass me. Sometimes two or three in a day. And I know that while it's a secret. Their express package gives them away. Now, why should some folks be favored. And to bliss find so easy the key? I believe that the same kindly fortune Will sometime have bundles for me.

He Was Away Off.

An inquiry made about the rock crusher elicited the reply that "We don't know anything about where it is." Filloon says, "I have sent out a tracer." Another party believed it had been unloaded en route for use at some silver mine, but he was promptly silenced by a listener with the remark: "You darn fool, don't you know they ain't goin' to use any more silver after this month?"

A large coaching party, consisting of Messrs. M. A. Moody, R. Green of Portland, E. Joslyn, Mr. Judd, and Mrs. A. L. Newman, Miss Lang, Miss Bessie Lang and Miss Newman, left this morning for Cloud Cap Inn, and will return tomorrow eve.

Mr. Ed. Patterson returned from an outing last night at Clear lake and Badger creek. His companions stopped at Tygh Valley en route home. Mr. Patterson reports a fine time and as having feasted on mountain trout, which were abundant in the mountain streams. The sport of a short season of camp life was what they sought, and they had it in all its varied experiences.

Mr. Harry Liebe favored this office with a call this afternoon. Mr. Liebe returned this morning from a four years' sojourn in Aachen, on the Rhine, in Germany. En route homeward he took in the great fair in Chicago, and says the "magnificent distances" of the United States seem more than ever appalling in his journey across the continent. Mr. Liebe is the son of Judge Liebe. He has considerably changed in appearance, having grown heavy and tall, but after all looks a great deal like his father, the genial Judge.

Mr. Thos. Ward and family and Mrs. L. J. Norman and family, accompanied by Mrs. J. H. Phinman and Mrs. Sterling and family, took their departure for a week's outing on Eckels creek in the Hood river valley. Also Mr. John Filloon and family, accompanied by Mrs. Chas. Stephens, left for a week's camp life at Little White Salmon. Mr. F. expects to fill the place of the noted Isaac Walton, as he was well fitted out with rod, line, and the treacherous fly.

Krause's Headache Capsules. A remedy used with unvarying success as a cure for Headaches of all kinds. The results have been so universally good that it is no longer an experiment. It has been used for Headache resulting from Dissipation, in Periodical Sick Headache, in Headaches caused by severe labor (mental or physical), or by exposure to the sun, and in all cases with the most gratifying results. We have, after a thorough investigation, had no hesitancy in taking the agency for this effective remedy, and conscientiously recommend it to our patrons. Respectfully,

A BOY DROWNED.

Ray Cross the Last Victim of the Cruel River.

The cruel waters of the Columbia have closed over another victim. This time they have taken in their chilling embrace a life which had but just entered upon its threshold. Little Ray Cross, 12 years old, found death Friday afternoon some time after 5:30 o'clock, but the details of his drowning will remain a mystery until they are known from the other shore, which is separated from us only by a span. No one saw him drown, and the last person who saw him alive saw him still in the bloom of health, with no thought of the near approach to the great Change which must usher us all into the presence of our Creator and that world where is no death.

At the hour named Ray was standing in a boat, moored to the trestle, on the west side of Mill creek, near the mouth of the stream. On the opposite bank was Andrew Larsen, about 13 years old. Ray shouted across to Andrew to come over and both would go in swimming. "All right," was the answer, "wait until I get across." This consumed about five minutes of time, as Andrew had to climb the hill back of him, walk across the trestle and descend upon the other side. Arrived there he saw nothing of his playmate, but observed that he had addressed, as his clothes were piled up in one end of the boat.

Divesting himself of his clothes Andrew, who can swim quite well, went into the water, and thought he saw Ray underneath, but diving down to the object, discovered it was a coal oil can. He supposed then that he was hiding and shouted if he was hiding to come out or he would go home. He waited a few minutes and then went home.

He did not return until about 8 o'clock, and noticing Ray's clothes still in the boat, asked a number of other boys who were in swimming if Ray was with them or if they had seen him. Receiving a negative reply it dawned upon him for the first time that he was drowned, and the boys, now thoroughly alarmed, quickly notified his father. Mr. Cross came down, and instituted a vigorous search for his lost child, himself rowing the boat or drawing the drag hooks. Efforts were continued throughout the night and far into the forenoon today to find his body by casting about on the bottom for it.

The body of the drowned boy was recovered at 10:45 o'clock this forenoon and the remains conveyed to the house. The body was found next to the ferry boat, about forty feet distant from where his clothes lay. The funeral will occur at 4 p. m. tomorrow from the Methodist church.

The bereaved parents have had more than their share of sorrow. The grim reaper has entered their household six times and taken away their children, of ages varying from the tender blossom of infancy to mature manhood. The first was an infant girl two months old.

In 1880 Harry Clifford, aged 11 years, was killed in Ceres, Cal. While seeking his father for supper he slipped and fell on the railroad track and was run over by the cars.

Paul Ross, aged 14, died in The Dalles in 1889 of sciatic rheumatism.

Fred DeWitt, aged 23, was killed in a railroad accident in 1890 near Hood River.

Grace Ellnor, aged 10, died August 6th, 1891, in The Dalles of acute consumption.

Ray Oscar, who was drowned yesterday, would have been 12 years old the 25th of December.

Two children are left, Willie, aged 9, and Mabel aged 13.

The sympathy of the community will be extended to the parents, under the weight of a burden the severest known to mortality—the loss by death of those precious lives bound by the heart strings of parental affection. Consolation at such a time, though the heart may be aching to give it, falls inert from its own helplessness. May the parents be soothed and comforted from the promises found in the Word, of which they are both devout believers.
