AUGUST ANGLINGS.

Small Fry Hooked by Persistent Chronicle Reporters.

In rural spots with urban and/or city dirt with the city country mind. Who is to expect a demure than slyer than a slyer seems won by the bold display. But never believe her, this artful deceiver. Which is numbered quite high in the things that you buy. When you liquidate ere you depart.

All freights will now carry passengers.

U. P. Attorney Thurston says there is not as much travel over the road now as there was before the fair.

Saltmarsh & Co. shipped last Saturday night from their stock yards two cars of beef cattle. One of them was for Portland, and the other for Port Townsend, Wash.

The two threshing machines mentioned the other day in these columns, were taken out to the grain sections today. Threshing will commence the day of next week.

A few pale streaks of aurora borealis were seen in the northern heavens last night from 9 to 11 o'clock. The streams reached near the zenith and seemingly danced over quite an area in the firmament.

The "school mams" at the teachers' institute, which is being held at Hood River, had a holiday on Saturday and put in the time to good account by going to the Cascade Locks by steamer Regulator.

Circulars are out by the Oregon State Horticultural society, requesting a generous response from all fruit growers, to secure a fine state exhibit this fall, to be afterwards sent to the California Mid-winter exposition. The plan deserves hearty co-operation.

Mr. D. H. Roberts, who lives near this city, showed us a box of peach or Columbia plums that were a marvel to look at, they were so large and firm. They were shipped to the world's fair to be placed with Oregon's exhibit of fruits. Oregon is noted for its big red apples. What about the plums and other fruits?

Quite a large flock of sea gulls were seen flying around on the river yesterday. Their visit to these waters so early in the season is supposed to be an indication that the heated term is a thing of the past, and that cool nights and pleasant days are to be enjoyed by the stay-at-homers, as well as the sea-side goers.

A preacher cannot be too careful in discoursing to his congregation. One of them in Joliet, Ill., recently remarked in a Sunday morning sermon. "God made the earth in six days and then rested. He then made man and then rested again. Then he made woman, since which time neither God nor man rested." The preacher is now out of a job, as the female portion of the congregation have struck.

Only one passenger train each way and they both pass through in the night. This renders traveling more or less of a hardship. It should not escape the observation of the traveling public that they can now reach Portland sooner by boat than by the freight train, which, we understand, will leave this city every morning with a passenger coach attached. The fare is less, and the ride infinitely more pleasant.

A Kansas editor and a rich widow were engaged to be married, when the neighbors began to talk about it, charging that he was marrying her riches. The young editor was vexed at this of course, and in order to show up its untruthfulness persuaded his affianced to turn all her worldly pelf over to her grown daughter that he could prove to the world the sincerity of his affections. The trusting widow did so, and the first night after the editor and the girl eloped, and in the morning the widow pined the forms of the office and would have pined the editor could she have found him.

O. N. G. Matters.

Major E. Everts, of the First Regiment, O. N. G., is in the city today and will inspect the part of the Third that are subject to duty at this place. Lt. Col. Thompson expects to be able to report the formation of a new company in his regiment, the Third, in the near future. The resignation of Col. Lucas places Col. Thompson in command, and The Dalles is the headquarters for the regiment for the present. Mention is made that a regimental band is to be organized. It is a good opportunity for our musical young men to distinguish themselves. They should accept the situation and get to work at once.

Real Estate.

C. W. Magill to John R. Cunningham, home and farm in sections 32 and 5, tp 6 south, range 12 east, $2,000.

A. H. Curtis and wife to W. Lucinda Wheelton, lot 1, block 6, Meyer and Gibbons addition to Dalles city; $1 and other valuable considerations.

Card of Thanks.

We hereby avail ourselves of the opportunity of tendering most sincere and heartfelt thanks to all who so kindly assisted in recovering the body of our dear son, Ray, from a watery grave, and to the many friends for loving expressions of kindly regard to the family during the interim of the recovery of the body and the last tender and sad obsequies.

MR. AND MRS. J. H. CROSS, THE DALLES, AUG. 7, 1893.

GENTLEMEN.—I am subject to periodical attacks of sick headache of the worst possible type, and commenced taking Krause's Headache Capsules last summer. They cure it in every instance, and since that time I am enjoying splendid health and have gained ten pounds in weight. Yours very truly, F. S. DANIELS, Corwith, Iowa.

On Suicide Bent.

John Husgrin, aged 33 years, attempted suicide last night, and was confined in the city jail. About 8 o'clock in the evening he was at the company's shop, talking in a despondent manner about his inability to find work and said he guessed he would end his existence. Smiting the action to the word he whipped out a pocket knife and cut himself slightly on the neck. The boys pacified him temporarily, but in a little while he again placed the knife behind his ear with a remark that he would cut himself from ear to ear. He was dis-suaded again and the individual, still on suicide bent, went to the creek, followed by one or two of the shop men, who, however, kept out of sight. Arrived at the edge of the water, where the bank is steep and the water deep, he cast himself in the water, and had almost disappeared from sight when he was grabbed by the leg and pulled out. An officer was sent for and he was put in the city jail.

A Masquerading Freak.

An individual not a thousand miles from The Dalles, particularly the elevated portion of said city, advertised not a thousand years ago for a wife. Hundreds of pictures of his fair countenance were demanded, as a result of his advertisement, and quite recently an engagement was made to meet a fair correspondent on the hill. He met her on a moonless night in an unfrequented part of the city where the darkness is rendered yet more impenetrable by tall trees and luxuriant grass. He began his lover-like attentions, when he was startled by a smothered laugh near by, and later by an unquestionably masculine snort, and then he discovered he had been duped by a youth in female attire. Several witnesses enjoyed his discomfiture, though such a practical joke is truly of a low order of merit.

THE GYPSIES.

Description of Alma Miller's Captors and Their Mode of Living.

The band of gypsies who have had Alma Miller in their possession for so long a time are known as the Smith, Stewart and Sherlock gang of gypsies, who have been known to be in Seattle, Gate City, Tacoma, Chehalis, Centralia, Portland, The Dalles, Pendleton, Milton, Walla Walla, Dayton, Moscow, Spokane, Vancouver, Wallace, Eugene City, all through Oregon in fact, as well as Washington, and the larger cities of Colorado, Utah and Northern California. They vary their pursuit with the same ease they do their habitation. Two years ago they had a show, and had gaily-painted carts, hacks and buckboards, and a few animals. The show, however, has since broken up. In some places they tell fortunes, in other places will play hand organs and sing; sometimes they will beg; sometimes grind scissors and knives; mend tinware, peddle or trade horses.

James Smith, the leader, was in the city last winter, and picked up a good many dimes grinding scissors. Many will remember him. He is about 40 years old, square-faced, has brown eyes, heavy nose and chin, eyes deep set, massive high forehead, heavy black hair, generally cut short, and 5 ft., 10 inches tall, weight 175 to 200. He has a malicious look, and his countenance once seen, will never be forgotten. In talking he has a peculiar side jerk of the jaw. He was the man in question when living here with the little girl.

Bart Smith is about 35, has the same general description, barring the vicious look and peculiarity of jaw, but like the elder Smith, is dark and heavy set.

Stewart is probably 50, slender, medium complexion, dark hair, and 5 ft., 10 in. high.

Sherlock is an Englishman and is about 55 years old. He has a red complexion.

Robt. Sherlock, his son, is aged 35, has a birth mark over right eye, a red spot with black specks in it; Roman nose, rather peaked face; red complexioned; about 5 feet, 11 inches; 165 or 170 pounds and drinks a great deal.

John Crougher, age about 32, 5 feet, 7 inches, heavy set, medium dark, rather sharp chin, nose perfectly straight, and high forehead. He is a good looking man.

The women are all dark and have black hair and black or brown eyes. The woman who had the child has a large quantity of black hair, black eyes, speaks with a foreign dialect, weighs about 150 pounds and is strongly built.

The recovered child can doubtless tell many interesting facts concerning her experience with the gypsies. From all information at present available, her captors were not harsh to her, but her rough mode of life has retarded her growth, and she is very thin and sun-burned. It is reported she went through on the train to her Summerville home, where she will be joyfully received by her parents, from whom she has been so long separated.

"The American Soldier."

The August number of the above magazine even exceeds the promises of the July number. The battle for the old veterans and pensioners of the civil war, is waged with trenchant pen, Copperheads and traitors are arraigned in no meek and mild manner.

Cleveland, Hoke Smith and the "veteran hunting" administration are shown up with a fearlessness which is refreshing. The absurd charges of frauds in the pensions of the old heroes, is riddled and ridiculed. The malice, hatred and unfairness of the assailants of the old union soldiers demonstrated. Articles from writers like Col. John A. Cockerill and Benjamin R. Davenport add to its literary merit. A magnificent colored photograph of Gen. U. S. Grant, 10 1/2 x 13 1/4 inches, accompanies this August number, similar to the Lincoln picture in July number, The American Soldier.

One of such pictures will accompany each issue. For September General Sherman's picture will be given. Twelve such magnificent portraits will be given in one year, making a collection worth many times the price of the subscription for a year, which is only one dollar.

The American Soldier is published by the National Publishing Company, Mail and Express Building, 203 Broadway, New York.
