DISAPPOINTING.

Grover Cleveland grows more cautious with the advance of years. The same message he has just committed to congress he would eight years ago have characterized as idealistic, if written by any one else. Whether his wonderful individuality has lost from the buffetings of political life or whether he has been chastened by his comparatively recent domestic relations, the fact remains that his last message is not the sharp, clear, ringing, incisive document that of old he was wont to formulate. Those who have been looking forward to it in hopes that it would allay apprehension and in a measure restore confidence, will be disappointed, for beyond a clear exposition of the causes and conditions of the present monetary troubles, and the statement of his belief that the Sherman law should be repealed, he makes no suggestion of what is advisable or expedient, and throws the burden entirely upon congress. The sole remaining point of merit is his suggestion that whatever is to be done, "it were well it were done quickly." He lays special stress upon the point, urging that that greater portion of the body politic, the wage earner, is the most unhappily affected by continued delay. The nation will voice a sincere amen to this, though there is little hope that the final measures will be as promptly arrived at as could be wished. On a question of this kind, with so cosmic an assemblage, perhaps no two can be found who will have identical views. Nearly all will want to be heard, and have a right to be, and the time lost in listening to speeches which will have no practical value, and in motions, in filibustering, in adjournments, in committee work, and the thousand and one annoyances which are well known to every speaker of the house or president of the senate, all will conspire to delay the solution of the important question.

The following comment on methods employed by large corporations of reducing running expenses is from the Shoe and Leather Review: "Why should one class of men bear the brunt of present distress? One railway system discharges 1,800 employees; another reduces the time of its men, works them in shifts, thereby giving all a chance to earn a living, if nothing more. Is not the latter course far more equitable? It is more than that; it is good business judgment, for it keeps together skilled employees who are conversant with the requirements of that employ; and when business revives—which is only a matter of time—the cost of breaking in green hands has not to be borne. Let all share alike in reduction, but give every laborer and mechanic a chance for bread."

It is surprising that any sane individual outside of the silver producing states can entertain the idea that free coinage would be an advantageous policy. If such were adopted silver would pour into the United States from within and without, and gold would soon have to give up the unequal struggle of standing good for it, on account of its greatly-increased quantity. And either gold would be permanently withdrawn from circulation or silver would bring about its own ruin by falling to its actual value, 55 cents.

Cascade Locks.

Lieutenant Taylor, of the United States engineers, who is overseeing the work on the Cascade locks, was in the city yesterday. He says the contractors, Day & Co., have 200 men employed, of whom 94 are stone-cutters, and that a large amount of stone, 25,000 cubic feet or more, is now cut ready to put in. The water is slowly receding and will have to fall about five feet before the work of pumping out the lock pit can be begun. He thinks they will probably be able to begin work in the lock chamber about September 1st. The work will require 46,000 cubic yards of concrete. There are 5,000 barrels of cement on the ground, and 10,000 more will be on hand inside of two weeks.—Oregonian.

Crop Weather Bulletin.

WESTERN OREGON.

Weather: The past week has been cooler than the preceding week, the mean temperature being from 64 to 68 degrees, as against 68 to 72 degrees of the week before. Cloudy and cool weather prevailed on the 5th, 6th and 7th, with a sprinkle of rain in the north-western portion and rain on the north-west coast on the 5th and 6th.

Crops: Fall wheat and oats harvest continues and the general opinion is that both are turning out better than was expected. The most serious complaints in regard to late spring grain which will hardly make more than 60 to 70 per cent. of an average crop; possibly not that much. Excellent reports are rendered concerning the hay crop, both as to quality and quantity. The warm weather of ten days ago caused the fruit to ripen; and now the apples, peaches and plums are coming into market. The codlin moth and hop louse have been developed under the influence of the warm weather, and spraying is being generally resorted to. The hops have been remarkably clean so far this year and many growers hoped to secure their crop without spraying; but for clean hops spraying will have to be practiced. Grasshoppers are becoming numerous in Jackson county, and they are doing some damage. In parts of Douglas county some of the fruit is falling to the ground without apparent cause. The crop conditions are not all discouraging, rather the reverse, and as a rule the farmers are pleased with their crops.

EASTERN OREGON.

Weather: The week opened with very warm weather; but the temperature fell on the 7th, since when it has been cooler; the mean for the week varied from 68 to 72 degrees, as against 70 to 78 degrees, of last week; a sprinkle of rain fell in the northeastern counties during the week; no other rain fall is reported.

Crops: Harvesting the fall wheat, oats and barley is in progress in the Columbia river valley; east and south of the Blue mountains, haying is being finished, while grain harvest will not begin for two weeks yet. The warm weather was injurious to the late sown oats and wheat, but beneficial to the fall grain. There appears to be a prospect for a general increase in the total grain product, due to the increased acreage, though the yield per acre will not be up to that of 1891. From special reports it is estimated that Wasco county will ship 400,000 bushels of wheat, an increase of 100,000 bushels, the wheat is averaging 15 bushels per acre. Sherman county will ship about again as much, the average is 18 to 22 bushels per acre. Gilliam county will ship about one-half million bushels; in Morrow county the wheat is averaging from 8 to 15 bushels per acre, and there will be for shipment about 800,000 bushels. In Umatilla county the estimates are variable; but it can be said that fall wheat will average for the county 22 bushels per acre and spring about one-half that much. The county shipped in 1891, 1,800,000 bushels and this year will ship about two million bushels. No reliable estimates can be made for Union, Wallawa, Baker and the interior counties. The grain is not in such good condition in Union and Baker counties as it was two weeks ago; the latter two counties will ship about 800,000 bushels, possibly more. The hay crop is good throughout all the counties and the fruit prospects continues to be good.

The following from the Chicago "Prairie Farmer" of July 22d, is given to show what the Oregon Weather Bureau is doing to advertise Oregon's climate and crops at the world's fair.

"The Exhibit of Oregon—Quite a novel, interesting and attractive feature of the exhibit made by the state of Oregon in the agricultural building at the world's fair is the weather-crop bulletin of Oregon, as it is telegraphed each week from Oregon, by the weather bureau and posted on an immense blackboard in the Oregon pavilion. This affords the inquirer an admirable opportunity to draw his own conclusions."

"Beauty without grace is a hook without a bait." That's what the French think. Whether it be true or not, there are many American women who do not even possess the hook—beauty and attractiveness are denied them. Why? Because they're languid, cross and irritable. They know not what it is to be without pain or discomfort half the time.

That's it; suffer in silence—misunderstood—when there's a remedy—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—at hand that isn't an experiment, but which is sold, by druggists, under the guarantee that if you are disappointed in any way with it, you get your money back by applying to its makers. A signal service to weak womanhood is the finding of lost health—the building up of a "run-down" system. Nothing does it so surely as the "Favorite Prescription." None like it! For overworked, debilitated women, teachers, milliners, seamstresses, "shop-girls," nursing mothers—one and all are cured by it.

WINANS
 THE NEW TOWN has been platted on the old camp ground, at the Forks and Falls of Hood river, with large, slightly hilly and steeply rising, good soil and pure water, with shade in production, perfect drainage, delightful mountain climate, the central attraction as a mountain summer resort for all Oregon, being the nearest town to Mt. Hood. It is unparalleled as a manufacturing center, being the natural center for 140 square miles of the best cedar and fir timber, possessing millions of horse-power in its rushing streams and water-falls, easily harnessed. Where cheap motive power exists, there the manufacturer will center, surrounded by soil and climate that cannot be excelled anywhere for fruit and agriculture, and with transportation already guaranteed you will find this the place to make a perfect home or a paying investment.
