A QUARREL IS ENDED

So are the Lives of the Two Participants.

A HUSBAND AND WIFE ARE DEAD

An Old Grudge Between Ranchers Ends in Murder--Many Drowned by a Cloudburst.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—In a fit of anger at 3 o'clock this morning John H. Meister, aged 45, a prosperous baker of 502 Henry street, Brooklyn, put an end to a life of quarreling he led with his wife by shooting six bullets into her, killing her almost instantly, and then committed suicide. His suicide was a most determined and shocking one. He first sent a bullet crashing through his right temple. This failed to produce death, and then, crazed with the shock, he climbed to the roof of the house and made his way across the roofs of the neighboring buildings to 510 Henry street. Here he climbed down the fire-escape to the back yard, where he hanged himself by a clothesline to a pole. The couple had been married 20 years. Meister owned the corner bakery at Sackett and Henry streets, and was doing a prosperous business. The couple quarreled all day yesterday and last night.

Murder to Get Even.

LOS BANOS, Cal., Aug. 9.—Yesterday on Los Palos ranch, 16 miles from here, Tom Williams, a ranch hand, shot and killed an Italian named Vicente Moono. Williams surrendered to the sheriff and said the Italian 18 months ago gave him a terrible beating with a club, and he took this method of getting even.

Many People Drowned.

VIENNA, Aug. 9.—A cloudburst in Gratz, the capital of Syria, swelled the mountain streams to torrents, which swept down the valleys, doing great damage. A large number of persons were drowned.

Tendency of Silver Is "Upward."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The tendency of silver, according to London advices received at the treasury, is "upward." It is this morning quoted in London at $0.752 per ounce. The price paid by the treasury Monday was $0.726. This advance is accounted for here largely by a heavy demand for silver in China to move the tea crop.

Free Silver Men in Caucus.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The hall of the house was closed shortly before 12 and the friends of free silver began to caucus. The attendance was small, and up to 12:30 not more than 50 members had made their appearance. The doorkeepers were instructed to notify each one who applied for admission that the meeting was confined to "free coinage" members. Before the caucus met, Bland said the purpose for which it had been called was to organize the silver forces, appoint committees and prepare generally for the struggle before them. To the suggestion that some silver men would not attend the caucus for the reason that they did not want thereby to seem to separate themselves from their respective parties, Bland responded it was not expected much aid or comfort was to be derived from those who had not the courage of their convictions. "There will be many a scalp taken by the people before this fight is over," continued the apostle of silver. "There are men here representing free-silver constituencies who are panic-stricken, and ready to yield to the clamor against silver. The people are not affected; they will look upon the matter dispassionately when it is ended and ask their representatives what ailed them. The people do not consider the attack upon the Sherman law as sincere, for it is to them a question of first importance. They look upon it as a fight between the gold men and bimetalists, and, while they would not be willing to see the present laws relating to coinage unconditionally repealed, what they want first of all is the free coinage of silver. This is the main question."

The following resolutions were adopted: "Resolved, That we will support a bill repealing the purchasing clause of the Sherman act and concurrently providing for the free unlimited coinage of silver with a full legal tender quality on such ratio as will provide and maintain the parity between gold and silver."

"Be it further resolved, That a committee of seven be appointed by the chairman of this conference to draft and introduce such a bill and take proper steps to secure a full and free discussion and consideration thereof, and a vote of the house upon the bill and all proper amendments."

Cleveland's Letter of Acceptance.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—"The people are entitled to sound and honest money, abundantly sufficient in volume to supply their business needs. But whatever may be the form of the people's currency, national or state, gold, silver or paper, it should be so regulated and guarded by governmental action or by wise and careful laws that no one can be deluded as to the certainty and stability of its value. Every dollar put into the hands of the people should be of the same intrinsic value or purchasing power. With this condition absolutely guaranteed, both gold and silver can be safely utilized upon equal terms in the adjustment of our currency." The above is an excerpt from Cleveland's letter of acceptance, and a typewritten copy is being passed about among the congressmen by the silver men. Gentlemen like Dockery and Blanchard of Louisiana say the president's message and his letter of acceptance do not jibe, that the letter is much more favorable to silver than the message.

County Treasurer Disappears.

JACKSONVILLE, Or., Aug. 8.—Great excitement prevails on account of the disappearance of County Treasurer George E. Bloomer. The county commissioners have been investigating Mr. Bloomer's accounts. They met today, and when Mr. Bloomer was called for a settlement he failed to answer to his name. There is a deficiency in his accounts of several thousand dollars, but the exact amount has not been made known. His bondsmen are Ben Haymond, K. Kubli, Charles Nickell and Jerry Nunan. Mr. Nickell is at Grants Pass, and Messrs. Nunan and Kubli are at Cinnabar. Mr. Haymond is one of the county commissioners. The absent gentlemen have been sent for, and will be here tomorrow. Mr. Bloomer left Jacksonville last Saturday noon, going from here to Medford, since which time nothing has been heard from him. He was serving his second term as treasurer of Jackson county, was elected by the democratic party, and has always borne an excellent reputation and was a general favorite both in social and business circles, and his disappearance causes the utmost surprise and regret here. He is quite a young man and unmarried. He is the senior member of the firm of Bloomer, Cronmiller & Co., and one of the incorporators of the Battle Creek Roller Flouring Mill Company.

Smashed by Logs.

HILLSBORO, Aug. 8.—News has just reached here of the accidental death of Martin King, a young man employed at hauling logs to the pond of the Manning mill, on the west fork of Dairy creek last Friday. He had just rolled off one log and stood watching it splash in the pond, when another one, larger than the first, came rolling from the truck and caught him at the left hip, crushing his hip and smashing both legs. The accident occurred about 4 o'clock, and he died after intense suffering about 9.

Coal in the Grand Ronde.

LA GRANDE, Or., Aug. 8.—Fillings were made on 1,920 acres of coal lands at the United States land office in this city today. The land filed upon is along Beaver creek, 18 miles south of the city, and 10 miles from Hilgard, on the Union Pacific. It is claimed by the discoverers of the coal that they traced a well-defined vein, varying in thickness from 18 inches to three feet, for a distance of upward of six miles. The specimens brought in are of a superior quality. The city is much excited over the find.

Alarms Being Feit in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—In an address of welcome to the military surgeons of the United States, in annual convention today, Mayor Harrison declared there were 200,000 idle men in the city, and unless congress gives the country money there will be such riots here as will shake the country.

Marshal and Nordale Give the Officers a Lively Tussle. Portland Telegram.

Monday night United States Marshal Grady received a telegram from Prosecuting Attorney G. W. Stapleton, of Skamania county, Washington, who was stopping at Columbia beach, Or., near Dodson's, on the Columbia river, stating that there were two counterfeiters there. Marshal Grady wired him to get further information, and last night Deputy Marshal Beatie started out on the 6:30 train for the purpose of capturing the men. Before reaching Mosier he was met by Joshua J. Love, who was also tracing them. They kept their eyes open at each station because it had been learned that they were to board the train somewhere.

Their efforts were soon rewarded. At Mosier two men took the train. A brakeman recognized them and nudged Marshal Beatie. The shadowed men walked on into the smoker while Beatie and Love followed. Marshal and Nordale took seats together half way down the car. They did not notice the two men behind them, for the brakeman walked between. They were permitted to get comfortably seated. Then when there was evidently no sign of molestation Marshal Beatie, closely followed by Love, stepped up alongside the seat, and in a firm voice said: "Hold up your hands, right away," at the same time significantly pointing his revolver at them.

They did not immediately obey. It would have been better for Marshall if he had. "What for? What do you mean? What have we done? What—what—" and their mixed-up protestations were stopped short by another order to hold up their hands.

In the meantime the passengers in the crowded car were excited, but so nonplussed that they did not even offer to aid the officers. Possibly they thought it was a "scrapping" match. Love, however, managed to get one handcuff on Nordale, but the other locked before it was clasped on the other hand. This was quickly noted by Marshall. He thought it a chance to escape and gave a lunge at Beatie, and started to jump over the seat. But Beatie was cool. As up came Marshall's head, down came his gun on top of it with a heavy blow. It did the work. Marshall fell back half stunned and Beatie clamped the steel bracelets on the man's powerful wrists. Love fixed the circlet on Nordale's second hand and the two said not another word and hardly moved a muscle.

At The Dalles the party left the train and the alleged counterfeiters were placed in jail. Commissioner Schutz was awakened and the men given a hearing. He bound them over to the grand jury in the sum of $500, and they were brought to Portland on the morning train. Counterfeit silver dollars to the fictitious value of $76 were found on their persons with quite a tidy amount of legitimate coin. It is not thought that they made the quasi money themselves. It is too fine workmanship, but probably it is a portion of "goods" secured from New York.

These men may be confederates of the general supply office or others in this locality. Not much is known of Marshall or Nordale, except that the former has been seen about Dodson's, Mosier and The Dalles for some time, and was regarded as a fisherman. Their arrest may be followed by others, as there is evidence that quite a gang of counterfeiters have been at work in the north-west.

They differ apparently from the regulation dollar only in weight. The cast and workmanship are perfect. Even the little marks which almost need a microscope to be detected are in their proper places. In size they are absolute duplicates. Several experiments were tried with them this morning and no one objected to giving change for them until told that they were counterfeit.
