AUGUST ANGLINGS.

Small Fry Hooked by Persistent Chronicle Reporters.

He didn't like smoking—so I quit. At her request for a little while—but she said I must not quit. I found my reward in her sweet smile. I've taken it up again once more. I seek no reason for stopping when she laughed at the tender love I swore. And kept on flirting with other men.

Cooler weather prevails. Blood in Colorado is not yet up to the fellocks.

A three-week-old populist paper has been attached at Oregon City for wages due employees.

Hood river strawberry shipments this year amounted to 8,270 crates, about double last year's output.

At a ball game yesterday between the Commercial and Dalles nines, the latter won by a score of 19 to 6.

Chinese pheasants and grouse are said to be not so plentiful this year as last west of the mountains.

J. W. Loretz, a former resident of Eugene, suicided recently in Colusa, Calif. He blew out his brains with a shotgun.

A sheriff's sale of the merchandise of A. J. Wall took place this afternoon. They consisted of wines and liquors, glasses, canned meats, fixtures, etc. Bidding was not very spirited, and all who purchased secured bargains.

Thirty-two ships are en route to Portland to carry away the fall crop. Among them are the Paetolos, Belle of Bath, Tillie E. Starbuck and Santa Clara from New York. Others will arrive from San Diego and San Francisco, as well as from foreign ports.

Mr. and Mrs. La Mott of Albina, formerly of The Dalles, came up a few weeks ago on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. White. The La Motts had three children who were exposed to diphtheria in the family of White. A 3-year-old child died in Albina recently and the other two are ill.

Mr. Bowers of California made a speech Saturday for free coinage, and as an instance of the scarcity of silver, said that he went into a drug store to get something which cost 15 cents and could not get 10 cents change. A man who will drink all alone does not deserve the national support of the country.

A lawn social will be given by the Juvenile Temple on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the academy grounds for the purpose of raising funds to secure an appropriate banner for the Temple. Ice cream and cake will be served, for which 10 cents will be charged. Everyone is invited.

John Carlson, a Swede, was drowned at the Cascades Saturday. He was found beneath the water standing up against the wall in the canal below the lower lock. His clothes were found on the bank, and it is supposed while bathing he was seized with cramps and slid down the incline to the spot where he was found. He was 22 years old, and was a heavy man, weighing 200 pounds.

Win Gram, who was on Mt. Adams recently, reports that he found a card with the names upon it of Rev. Thos. Condon, 1856, S. L. Brooks, 1859, and Henry Coe, Carey Johnson, Alfred Booth, Miss Kate Aubrey and Miss Julia Johnson, of the same year. The names were written with an ordinary lead pencil and deposited in a sardine box, and it is surprising that the names are still legible, considering the action of the elements for twenty-four years.

LAST OF HOP CHUNG.

But His Spirit Marches on to Celestial Glory.

The first Chinese burial for about two years in The Dalles took place yesterday. Hop Chung, who died Saturday, was buried with all the peculiar ceremonies customary with the Chinese. Several citizens, drawn by curiosity, were in attendance, and some there were, with whom all subjects furnish material for airy jests, who made sport of this death of a heathen. However, they could scarcely be more indifferent to death than the Chinese themselves. Their future state troubles them but little, and they meet their last enemy with apparent unconcern. In everything that relates to death and sepulchre, the customs of the Chinese are very singular. This will be readily believed when, with them, a coffin makes a suitable present and is frequently given by children in China to their parents. "To be happy on earth," say the Chinese, "one must be born in Su Chow, live in Canton, and die in Lianchau"—Su Chow being celebrated for the beauty of its women, Canton for its luxury, and Lianchau for furnishing the best wood for coffins. Banquets are offered to the dead and pathetic speeches addressed to them.

At the funeral yesterday a Chinaman rode on the hearse with the driver, and kept throwing papers in the air until the grave was reached. These were about the size and shape of a greenback and light brown in color, with nine holes punctured in them. At the grave the coffin was lowered into the ground and while the grave was being filled, their ceremonies were in progress. Candles were lighted and placed upright in a box. A fire was built, upon which all the personal effects of the deceased were burned. A feast of roast chicken, pork and rice was offered to the deceased at the foot of the grave. Each of the living acquaintances of the Chinaman then made obeisance over the remains, pouring into miniature cups, water from a bottle and sprinkling it over the ground. They made three bows, retreating while doing so, and giving place to the next. The casting of papers en route to the grave is for the purpose of enticing the evil spirits to collect it, they believing it to be money, and thereby they neglect to meddle with the spirit of the dead man. The candles are to furnish light to enable the spirit to distinguish the road in its upward flight, and the victuals for needed nourishment on the way. His effects were burned because he had no relatives here, and there was no person to whom they properly belonged. After the ceremonies were completed mementos were distributed, consisting of 5 cent pieces.

The Chinamen had given their comrade a decent burial, and on the homeward ride they chattered away as volubly as ever.

Some day the bones of Hop Chung will be removed and sent to China and preserved in an earthen jar.

All the large cities in China are provided with "baby towers. All infants who die under the age of one year are not honored with burial, but are done up in a package, with matting and cords, and thrown into the tower, or rather well, as it is sunk some distance below the earth. The top, which rises about ten feet above the ground, is roofed, but an aperture is left for casting in the bodies.

The Annie Faxon Blown Up.

It is reported the Annie Faxon was blown up on Snake river this morning and nine persons killed—three of the crew and six passengers, among them a woman.

Heavy Sheep.

Mr. Fred Young of Bake Oven, who, with his father, Mr. Geo. Young, is one of the most prosperous sheep men of this country, returned last evening from the east. Mr. Young bought and brought home with him 52 head of Shropshire bucks, which were bred and raised on the stock farm of Mr. A. O. Fox of Oregon, Wisconsin. They are all registered in the national stock register, and to us are the finest lot of blooded sheep we ever saw. They are all yearlings. We noticed one that weighed 220 pounds gross. As a mutton sheep they are at the head for profit, as the wool clip is at an average and the carcass is above, and with it comes the profit of the sheep industry. Mr. Young says he has changed the sheep business from that of wool to mutton for the block, on account of necessity. The democratic party must eat, even if they go in sackcloth and ashes on account of the democratic platform, which must stand.
