NO TIME FOR TALK.

The annexed editorial from the Oregonian deserves reproduction by every paper in the land. The same sentiment has been expressed more briefly by nearly all the editors of the coast, but there are few writers who handle a subject with so trenchant a pen as Harvey Scott, and whether on the right or wrong side of a subject, he is one of the powers of the Pacific coast. In this case he is right; he is in line with public opinion; and we will not seek to "better" his article, only as to giving it a wider local circulation.

There is absolutely no excuse for the wasting of fourteen days by the house of representatives in idle chatter, to which nobody listens, not even the members, when the trade and industry of the country is gasping for relief, which a vote of congress will furnish. There is nothing to say on the silver question which has not been said an hundred times before. Nobody will be convinced, instructed or even interested by the debate. Not a vote will be changed. The discussion has no purpose except to enable cheap demagogues to point to the Record and say to their imbecile constituents that they did all they could for silver. For this the agony of panic, the paralysis of business, the catalepsy of industry is to be prolonged.

The debate can have only one end. There is only one thing to do, and everybody knows what it is. Even the craziest silver crank in congress knows that the purchase of silver must be stopped, and that no other provision for use of the depreciated metal as money will be made at present. None of them has any hope of defeating repeal of the silver-purchase clause of the Sherman act. All they can hope for is delay. To gain time and befuddle their constituents, they are willing to leave the business of the country in the throes of a panic congress has power to stop tomorrow by a decisive vote.

The two weeks' delay in the house is not the worst. It is an evil example the senate will worsen. Folly and ignorance and selfish greed are even stronger in the upper house, which was once the worrier, than among the representatives. The silver party is numerically stronger in the senate than in the house, and that body has no rules to cut off debate and force a vote. Half a dozen iron-jawed senators from the Rocky mountains alone will waste as much time as the whole fourteen days set aside in the house. Nothing but the menacing roar of angry public opinion will force the senate to a vote anyway, and the delay in the lower house will be an excuse for consuming twice as much time there. It will be great good luck if the repeal bill shall go to the president in six weeks.

That means six weeks of poignant distress for the blood-poisoned business of the country, which might now be in healthy state but for the folly of its legislators; whose restoration might begin tomorrow with removal of the poison of financial distrust, if its legislators were wise enough to do at once what they all know must be done at last. Stoppage of purchase of silver would not immediately restore national prosperity, but it would restore the confidence whose undermining has destroyed prosperity. It would begin the cure. It would remove the poison and permit nature's restoring processes to begin. It would start the revival of business. There is patience to wait for the rest. There is no patience in the country for the mock statesmen who must gabble for weeks before acting, like a consultation of doctors who twaddle about ethics while a patient dies, or firemen who quarrel about precedence while a city burns.

Delay is not the worst, because the situation is not stationary. The situation will grow worse until it shall begin to grow better. This is in the nature of things. The distress is caused by the withdrawal of money from active employment, due to distrust. This will continue. As the stress grows greater, more and more people are hoarding money. Not only the panicky, but the ordinarily provident persons, grown distrustful of banks and fearing loss of employment, are laying aside little hoards of cash for the worst. These innumerable little hoards, in the aggregate, have caused a money famine. In some parts of the country, the main business of banking is at an end, and business dependent upon banks is nearly at a standstill. The banks that are still open will not advance a dollar, even to the richest men in the community or on any kind of collateral, simply because they cannot. They have no money. They are driven to extremities to pay what they owe to depositors. Consequently crops cannot be moved. Nobody can raise a cent on any shipment. Drafts secured by bills of lading cannot be discounted. The wheels of commerce are blocked. Wholesale merchants demand cash from retailers, retailers demand cash from customers, and the cash is nearly all gone. There is no cause for this appalling state of things except loss of confidence in the stability of money, which congress can restore within forty-eight hours, though, without such restorative action, bad as it is, the situation will grow worse. And members of congress have no more sense of what is due the country than to chatter, like a simian convocation in a cocoa grove, week after week, with no purpose on earth, except to gain cheap credit with fool constituents. It is a depressing state of affairs.

The decades ending in three are fateful for the Northern Pacific. In 1873, the road was wrecked under the management of Jay Cooke; in 1883 Villard's sun declined, carrying down with him the Northern Pacific railroad; now in 1893, down it goes again.

The Edinboro Scotchman of a recent date intimates that the great financial depression in America cannot be laid to the charge of the silver question, but to the democratic platform of last November, which foreshadowed the repeal of the McKinley law.

The Annie Faxon horror is not so much a mystery as it is either a defective boiler or the fault of the engineer allowing too much steam to be carried on the old patched shell.

Wheat Production and Requirements of The World.
 In order to show the consumption of the countries of the world and the difference between their production and the amount actually required, the following figures are presented:

COUNTRIES THAT IMPORT WHEAT.

Country	Quantity Required	Production	Imports
U. S.	241,000,000	71,000,000	170,000,000
France	125,000,000	216,000,000	30,000,000

All others	40,000,000	0	40,000,000
Total	1,125,400,000	700,000,000	425,400,000

COUNTRIES THAT EXPORT WHEAT.

Country	Aggregate Production	Home Consumption	Surplus for Export
United States	455,500,000	220,000,000	235,500,000
France	254,000,000	220,000,000	34,000,000
India	200,000,000	210,000,000	80,000,000
Russia	172,000,000	151,000,000	21,000,000
Austria-Hungary	172,000,000	200,000,000	28,000,000
Roumania	90,000,000	20,000,000	70,000,000
Canada	42,000,000	20,000,000	22,000,000
Argentina	40,000,000	25,000,000	15,000,000
Australia	30,000,000	21,000,000	9,000,000
Algeria	22,000,000	10,000,000	12,000,000
Egypt & surroundings	20,000,000	18,000,000	2,000,000
Bulgaria	21,000,000	22,000,000	1,000,000
Serbia	6,000,000	4,000,000	2,000,000
Greece	17,000,000	10,000,000	7,000,000
Uruguay	4,000,000	2,000,000	2,000,000
All others	82,000,000	72,000,000	10,000,000
Total	1,590,000,000	1,230,000,000	360,000,000

As Europe has a population of about 373,500,000, each person of whom consumes over four bushels per annum, its present requirements must necessarily be not less than 1,460,000,000 bushels, and of this it can produce even with good crops only 1,230,000,000, thus making a deficit of 230,000,000 bushels.

Stockholders' Meeting.
 THE DALLES, Or., July 28, 1893.
 Notice is hereby given that there will be a stockholders' meeting of the Wasco Independent Academy, at the Academy building on Monday, August 28th, 1893, at 3 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of electing seven directors, and transacting such other business as may properly come before said meeting.
 By order of the board.
 S. L. Brooks, Sec'y.

NOTICE.
 Inasmuch as my wife, Georgie Anna Brooks, has, without just cause of provocation, left my bed and board, against my wishes and consent, and refuses to return or further live with me, I hereby warn all persons not to give her any credit on my account, as I will not pay any bills of her contracting after this date.

Making Glad the Waste (Waist) Places.
 "That's what I call making glad the waist places," said Smithson, as he put his arm around a lady's waist. But Lilly won't care much for this show of affection if Smithson doesn't get rid of that disagreeable catarrh of his. Won't somebody tell him that Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will cure him.
 By its mild, soothing, antiseptic, cleansing and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Chronic Catarrh in the Head, as though it can testify. "Cold in the Head" is cured with a few applications. Catarrh of the Headache is relieved and cured as if by magic.
 In perfect faith, the makers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy—the World's Dispensary Medical Association, of Buffalo, N. Y., offer to pay $500 to any one suffering from Chronic Catarrh in the Head whom they cannot cure.
 Now, if the conditions were reversed—if they asked you to pay $500 for a positive cure you might hesitate. Here are respectable men, with years of honorable and successful careers, and a great name bank of them. Let it be your own case. Isn't any trial proffered?

WINANS
 THE NEW TOWN has been platted on the old camp ground, at the Falls and Falls of Hood river, with large, slightly elevated, broad streets and alleys, good soil and pure water, with shade in profusion, perfect drainage, delightful mountain climate, the central attraction as a mountain summer resort for all Oregon, being the nearest town to Mt. Hood. It is situated on a manufacturing center, being the natural center for 150 square miles of the best cedar and fir timber, possessing millions of horse-power in its rushing streams and water falls, easily harnessed. Where cheap motive power exists, there the manufacturing center, surrounded by soil and climate that cannot be excelled anywhere for fruit and agriculture, and with transportation already assured, you will find this the place to make a perfect home or a paying investment.
 See me on the ground, or address me at Hood River, Wasco County, Oregon.
