The Dalles Daily Chronicle.

HAS A FAMILY OF 2000 READERS.

They read The Chronicle to get the latest and most reliable news. And they read every line that is in the paper. That is what makes the Chronicle an invaluable advertising medium. The newspaper that goes to the family firesides is the one that the advertisers of today patronize when they desire to reach the people. When they want your trade their announcements will be found in the paper. Look over our columns and observe the verification of the truth of this assertion. Remember, a trade of a family of two thousand is worth asking for through these columns, especially so at our very

GEN. LEW WALLACE.

The Most Distinguished Literary Man of the Hoosier State.

Gen. Lew Wallace, whose new novel, "A Prince of India," has just appeared, was born in Brookville, Ind., on the 10th day of April, 1827, and with James Whitcomb Riley and Maurice Thompson makes up the trio of distinguished literary names which the Hoosier state is proud to claim as her own. His father, David Wallace, was well-known as a lawyer and a speaker. A graduate of West Point and afterwards mathematical professor there, he resigned from the army to practice law in Indiana, and became influential there as lieutenant governor, governor and judge. His son Lewis, inheriting from his father his military and judicial qualities, has joined to these the talent of a writer. As a soldier and as a novelist Lew Wallace has achieved a noteworthy record. He was lieutenant in the Mexican war, serving as a volunteer. He afterward resumed the practice of law in Covington, Ky., and then in Crawfordsville, Ind. He was four years in the state legislature, and at the beginning of the civil war was appointed adjutant general of Indiana, soon afterward becoming colonel of the Eleventh Indiana volunteers, whom he commanded in West Virginia. He displayed such ability that he was promoted to the rank of major general in 1862. One of the most useful of his military exploits was the defense of Cincinnati, which he saved from capture by the late Gen. E. Kirby Smith. In 1865 he returned to the practice of the law in Crawfordsville. He was governor of Utah in 1878-81, at the end of which term he was appointed United States minister to Turkey. There he gathered material for the Oriental coloring and detail which have enriched his writings. "The Fair God," which appeared in 1873, is a story of the conquest of Mexico, the inspiration for which may be traced to his Mexican experiences as a young man. His masterpiece is generally acknowledged to be "Ben Hur: a Tale of the Christ." Opinions differ upon the greatness of this book, some intelligent critics pronouncing it in execution and interest far inferior to its scope and conception. Popular opinion, however, has rendered a verdict in the more than 200,000 copies sold. He has also written a life of Benjamin Harrison, and "The Boyhood of Christ."

GEN. LEW WALLACE.

It is said that "Ben Hur" is one of the four novels that have attained the widest sale in these times. The other three are "Robert Elamere," "Tess" and "The Little Minister." It appealed to people of all kinds, to the uncultivated as well as to the cultivated; in fact, its success was essentially popular. The chariot race is the most famous scene in the book, and is a favorite one with elocutionists. If it were not for that and "Aux Italiens" the professional reader would feel her repertoire quite scanty.

His wife has proved a congenial companion to him in literary matters. She was a Miss Elston, and was born and brought up in Crawfordsville.

Longshoremen Attack Italians.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Striking longshoremen along Water street began an assault on the Italians this afternoon. A wagonload full, which the Mallory line people brought over the Williamsburg ferry at 1 o'clock, was captured by the strikers. They surrounded the wagon, and, standing on the spokes, began to punch the Italians. "Kill the dagoes," they yelled. Several Italians reached for their knives, but before they could use them the police had arrived. When the Italians alighted, the strikers made a rush for them. They scattered and did not reach the Mallory line.

The success of Mrs. Anne M. Beam, of McKeesport, Pennsylvania, in the treatment of diarrhoea in her children will undoubtedly be of interest to many mothers. She says: "I spent several weeks in Johnstown, Pa., after the great flood, on account of my husband being employed there. We had several children with us, two of whom took the diarrhoea very badly. I got some of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy from Rev. Mr. Chapman. It cured both of them. I knew of several cases where it was equally successful. I think it cannot be excelled and cheerfully recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, Druggists, 1m.

THE DALLES

Wasco County, Oregon.

The Gate City of the Inland Empire is situated at the head of navigation on the Middle Columbia, and is a thriving, prosperous city.

ITS TERRITORY.

It is the supply city for an extensive and rich agricultural and grazing country, its trade reaching as far south as Summer Lake, a distance of over two hundred miles.

The Largest Wool Market.

The rich grazing country along the eastern slope of the Cascades furnishes pasture for thousands of sheep, the wool from which finds market here.

The Dalles is the largest original wool shipping point in America, about 5,000,000 pounds being shipped last year.

ITS PRODUCTS.

The salmon fisheries are the finest on the Columbia, yielding this year a revenue of thousands of dollars, which will be more than doubled in the near future.

The products of the beautiful Klickitat valley find market here, and the country south and east has this year filled the warehouses, and all available storage places to overflowing with their products.

ITS WEALTH.

It is the richest city of its size on the coast and its money is scattered over and is being used to develop more farming country than is tributary to any other city in Eastern Oregon.

Its situation is unsurpassed. Its climate delightful. Its possibilities incalculable. Its resources unlimited. And on these corner stones she stands.

THE DALLES CHRONICLE,

It now leads all other publications in Wasco, Sherman, Gilliam, a large part of Crook, Morrow and Grant counties, as well as Klickitat and other regions north of The Dalles, hence it is the best medium for advertisers in the Inland Empire.

The DAILY CHRONICLE is published every evening in the week Sundays excepted at $6.00 per annum. The WEEKLY CHRONICLE on Fridays of each week at $1.50 per annum.
