THE DALLES OREGON

KEEDICK'S TYPEWRITER.

Caught by His Better Half in a Plain Act of Deception.

When Mr. Keedick reached home the other evening, says the New York Mercury, he was confronted by a very angry wife. He had scarcely got inside the door and hung his hat on the nail rack before she blurted out: "You've got a new typewriter!" "Well, yes," replied Keedick. "How did you find it out?" "Oh, I'm up to your goings on, I can tell you. You got your new typewriter yesterday." "I did. Who told you?" "Well, if you must know, it was Mrs. Gaskett. Her husband told her. You needn't think you can keep things from me." "I have no desire to, dear." "Don't dear me. Your typewriter is only about eighteen years old!" "As nearly as I can judge of ages, I should say that was about right." "And has melting brown eyes?" Mrs. Keedick went on, indignantly. "Possibly, but I haven't noticed them doing any melting." "Oh, no! Of course not. With a soft voice and charming manners?" "You are nearly right." "Nearly right! I know I'm quite right!" exclaimed the jealous woman. "Now, I want you to tell me the name of the forward creature." "You want the name of my typewriter?" "Yes, I do." "What for?" "Never mind what for. I want your typewriter's name!" "It is John Henry Simpson. What are you going to do about it?"

CAMEO CARVING A NEW WHIM.

How Fashionable Women Cut the Delicate Shells.

The latest whim is nothing more nor less than cameo carving, according to the New York Recorder. Many a dainty boulevard has a little table in one corner where "gravers," "scopors," and various other mysterious instruments of the craft are kept. "How do they manage it and do they make real cameos?" some one asks. O, yes, they are real and they are pretty. The shells used for the purpose are "black helmets" brought from the West Indies. There are also red and yellow helmets found on the coast of China. The shell is cut with little gravers and scopors, and half a dozen of these, of various sizes and degrees of fineness, are all that are needed. When the cameo is cut the process of polishing begins, and this requires patience and still more patience. First, the groundwork is polished by rubbing it with pumice stone and water; this takes out the scratches made. The shell is then washed with warm water. The second polishing is done with pumice dust and oil and with a small boxwood stick. It is again washed. The third and last polishing is given with fine rotten stone and sulphuric acid. A very high degree of polish is thus obtained, and after being once more washed, the work is done. The shells cost from two to five dollars each. From a good shell as many as three or four pieces can be taken.

THE DALLES

Wasco County, - - - Oregon,

The Gate City of the Inland Empire is situated at the head of navigation on the Middle Columbia, and is a thriving, prosperous city.

ITS TERRITORY.

It is the supply city for an extensive and rich agricultural and grazing country, its trade reaching as far south as Summer Lake, a distance of over two hundred miles.

The Largest Wool Market.

The rich grazing country along the eastern slope of the Cascades furnishes pasture for thousands of sheep, the wool from which finds market here.

The Dalles is the largest original wool shipping point in America, about 5,000,000 pounds being shipped last year.

ITS PRODUCTS.

The salmon fisheries are the finest on the Columbia, yielding this year a revenue of thousands of dollars, which will be more than doubled in the near future.

The products of the beautiful Klickitat valley find market here, and the country south and east has this year filled the warehouses, and all available storage places to overflowing with their products.

ITS WEALTH.

It is the richest city of its size on the coast and its money is scattered over and is being used to develop more farming country than is tributary to any other city in Eastern Oregon.

Its situation is unsurpassed. Its climate delightful. Its possibilities incalculable. Its resources unlimited. And on these corner stones she stands.
