A FARMER TALKS.

Cost of Producing Hay—The Marshal and Farm Stock, Etc., Etc.

EDITOR CHRONICLE—Some of us in the road districts would like for you to publish the city ordinance relating to the impounding of stock, so that we may know if the jurisdiction of your city marshal extends for miles east, south and west. The time is near at hand when the farmers of Wasco will step to the front and protect themselves. I am reliably informed that stock has been run in and sold on the streets without ever entering the pound. It seems to me that it should be the duty to advertise stock taken up for the violation of a city ordinance, so that the owner may know where to look for them.

Our school has opened with a fair attendance, with Miss Addie Omeg as teacher.

Harvest is over and the yield was fair, far beyond the expectations of many. There has been a fall of rain, sufficient to start the plough for fall seeding, of which there will be a large amount.

Despite the hard times, this community keeps on going ahead. There has been some more homes taken and there is room for a few more on the best producing lands of Wasco county.

Mr. T. A. Obrist will soon be ready to move to his new house. It is not very large, but is second to none for convenience and beauty.

If we could only get hold of a few dimes or a few shiplasters, or anything to make a rattle or a jingle, we would feel happy.

A part of the Oregon press would have the farmers believe that they are happy and prosperous. If they are they must be millionaires and have a large reserve fund, and those that want their products seem to think the same. They have their prices on their goods, and would like to set the price on the products of the farmer. They do not consider the cost of production, of which the following is a fair estimate:

Cost of land	$2.50
Clearing and tending	5.00
Ploughing	1.50
Seed and seeding	.75
Harrowing and rolling	.30
Cutting, raking and shocking	1.00
Hauling and stacking	1.00
Baling	2.50
Hauling to market	2.50
Total amount	$17.00

The total cost of the production of one ton of hay is thus $17.

Verily the generosity of the farmer is so great that it is sufficient to oil all the machinery of this great nation. It has been said that it is "a long lane that has no turn," add the turn is just a little ahead.

FAIR VIEW, Or., Sept. 8th, 1893.

Fresh oysters served in every style at Columbia Candy Factory.

Kicking on Principle.

Once upon a time two frogs, living in comfort and ease in a pool of clear, cold water, were accidentally scooped up by a pious milkman in a bucket of water which he poured into his can to give his milk more body and thereby increase his revenue. The frogs found themselves in an unknown element in which they could not live, and so they had to do some vigorous kicking to keep their heads above milk. One disheartened at being shut up in the dark in an element new to him, said: "Let's give it up and go to the bottom; it's no use kicking any longer." But the other said: "Oh, not a little bit! let's keep kicking as long as we can, and see what the outcome will be; things may take a turn presently." So one gave up and went under; the other kept kicking, and when the pious milkman got to town and opened his can, behold, the frog had kicked out a lump of butter that was large enough to float him, and he was sitting on it very comfortably.

Moral—In hard times never give up, but keep on kicking.
