A REPORT SUBMITTED.

Secretary Lamont sent to the house Saturday the report of the board of engineers on obstructions to navigation in the Columbia river between Three-Mile rapids and Celilo falls, Washington and Oregon. The report made is the first sensible method ever recommended before congress, and the first which deserves and will probably receive consideration. The methods for overcoming the obstructions brought under consideration were a portage railway from Celilo to a point below Three-Mile rapids, a boat railway or a canal. Heretofore the plan was submitted of a portage railway, not to mention a ship railway, and a canal on the Washington side. The expense of such an undertaking was so great and the end sought so temporal that congress would not entertain the proposition, and this the committee very well knew. It was merely a scheme to delay, and it worked. In the report submitted Saturday, the board was of the opinion that a portage railway will meet the urgent demands of the wheat district, will supply the present necessity of commerce and will be useful hereafter in the construction of a canal. They therefore report that the obstruction to navigation on the Columbia, from the waters below Three-Mile rapids to the navigable waters above Celilo falls, can be overcome in the most feasible, speedy and economical manner, and in that best adapted to present necessities of commerce, and to its further development, by the construction of a portage railway of a standard gauge on the south side of the Columbia from Celilo to Dalles City, the cost of which is estimated at $454,390, and that when the necessity shall arise for accommodations greater than can be furnished by a portage railway, the board recommends that the construction of a canal, located on the Oregon side of the river, be undertaken.

When the time arrives that it will be wisdom to make the river navigable, thus dispensing with the portage railway, it can be done at a much reduced cost over previous estimates. From "Terminal bay" a canal can be cut out of solid rock, like the work done at Oregon City. The walls of this canal, being nature's masonry, would be infinitely more substantial than anything man can construct. This canal would lead to the four or five miles of deep water up to the Celilo falls, when one or two locks would have to be made. The total cost would not exceed that of the Cascade locks, and the benefits are so great as to be inestimable.

The Chinese are great mimics. Observing the innumerable obstructions which can be placed in the way of American laws by Americans themselves, frequently making them void and inoperative, they have disregarded the Geary law requiring them to register. Now they have discovered that Uncle Sam means business, they are anxious for the chance to register and will willingly do so should the opportunity be again presented. Chinamen generally have been more impressed with the will of the mysterious Six Companies than by the laws of the land in which they are making their livelihood, but the recent action of the courts in California, and the announced intention of the administration have shown to them that the Six Companies have missed it, and they will not be the fetch so blindly worshipped heretofore. All the Chinese ask now is the opportunity to register, and since the government is slow to anger it will probably be given them. In the early days of California's prosperity their advent was eagerly welcomed, but now that so many thousands of our own race are in need of work they will be as gladly dispensed with.

The St. Louis Republic says that "no train robber has ever been hanged, legally or illegally." A Missouri paper ought to be an authority on train robbers, but we have an impression that the chief offense of the Reno gang of outlaws, who infested the line of the Ohio & Mississippi road in southern Indiana just after the war and were lynched, was train robbing.

The senate has confirmed the nomination of Thomas J. Black to be collector of customs at Willamette, Or., says the Buffalo Courier. Where is that—Portland-on-the-Walmet?

The copyright in "Old Folks at Home" has expired, and hereafter any one may sing it.

In view of the easier feeling in the monetary situation, Frederick D. Tappan, chairman of the clearing house loan committee at New York, was asked recently when the retirement of certificates could be looked for. He said: "There will be no loan certificates redeemed until the Sherman law is repealed. When this is done they will soon be retired."

MEDICAL SCIENCE.

WHEN the lower half of the countenance, measured from the nose downward, is divided by the mouth into two equal parts seen in profile, the indication is of stupidity.

A MEDICAL exchange figures that the United States has the highest death rate, from diphtheria, four hundred and eighty in ten thousand. According to the same authority Holland and Sweden come next with four hundred and forty each.

SCIENTISTS are now telling us that the dangerous microbe is lurking in the greenback. Those in arrears for subscription, says a contemporary, can send the amount, as he has facilities to disinfect small amounts, and is willing to take the risk.

In "Physical Education" Dr. Luther Gulick argues that by exercising certain muscles it is possible to develop certain sections of the brain. His argument has special reference to feeble-minded persons, whose mental condition, in his opinion, might be improved by the right kind of muscular exercise.

Always open —the offer made by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It's a reward of $500 cash for an incurable case of catarrh, no matter how bad, or of how long standing. They'll carry it out, too. It's one thing to make the offer. It's a very different thing to make it good. It couldn't be done, except with an extraordinary medicine. But that's what they have. By it's mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Remedy cures the worst cases. It doesn't simply palliate for a time, or drive the disease to the lungs. It produces a perfect and permanent cure. Try it and see.

If you can't be cured, you'll be paid.

The only question is—are you willing to make the test, if the makers are willing to take the risk?

If so, the rest is easy. You pay your druggist fifty cents and the trial begins.

If you're wanting the $500 you'll get something better—a cure!

Gentlemen:
 On arriving home last week, I found all well and anxiously awaiting. Our little girl, eight and one-half years old, who had wasted away to 38 pounds, is now well, strong and vigorous, and well fleshed up. S. B. Cough Cure has done its work well. Both of the children like it. Your S. B. Cough Cure has cured and kept away all hoarseness from me. So give it to every one, with greetings for all. Wishing you prosperity, we are Yours,
 Mr. & Mrs. J. F. Ford.

 THE NEW TOWN has been platted on the old camp ground, at the Forks and Falls of Hood river, with large, slightly lots, broad streets and alleys, good soil and pure water, with shade in profusion, perfect drainage, delightful mountain climate, the central attraction as a mountain summer resort for all Oregon, being the nearest town to Mt. Hood. It is unparalleled as a manufacturing center, being the natural center for 150 square miles of the best cedar and timber, possessing millions of horse power in its dashing streams and waterfalls, easily harnessed. Where cheap motive power exists, there the factories will center, surrounded by soil and climate that cannot be anywhere for fruit and agriculture, and with transportation straight ahead, you will find this the place to make a perfect home or a paying investment.
