SEPTEMBER SHORTS.

City and County News Notes of Minor Importance.

"Oh, help in my great extremity,"
The maiden loudly cried.
"Right in my line," immediately
The chiropodist replied.

The fish catch is lighter than anticipated.

Camping parties are nearly all returned.

The hottest part of the season has passed.

Indians are arriving with huckleberries. The crop this year was large.

The moving of the wheat will soon solve the financial stringency, for this section at least.

Two cars of beef cattle will be shipped tonight to Whatcom from Saltmarsh & Co.'s stock yards.

This year's fruit crop is better in quality than ever before, and except peaches, fully as great in quantity.

The Goldendale schools opened Monday. The pupils enrolled number 235. Five female teachers are engaged and not a male teacher is employed.

Mr. Robt. Rand of Hood River has sold his Mt. Hood hotel to Mr. Chas. Bell, of the Oregon Lumbering Company, who will take possession Monday next.

Mr. W. J. Speichinger of Dry Hollow has brought in a branch from a 3-year-old pear tree which has six fine large Bartlett's upon it, which is on exhibition at this office.

After every great calamity comes a reaction. Next year this time wheat will bring 75 cents a bushel and wool 15 cents a pound, and silver dollars will be as plentiful as flies in August.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Sealey yesterday arrested Dennis Lancton for selling liquor to Indians. The prisoner is a discharged private of two armies—the U. S. and the Salvation cohorts.

There are 50 per cent. less privy vaults unconnected with sewers this year than last, and as a consequence the foul smells that assailed the noses of citizens last summer are this year conspicuously absent.

The freight wreck was quite disastrous to the U. P. Company. Most of the wrecked cars were burned. Some of them were burned purposely, and the flames spread to others which it was not intended to destroy.

Those Adams recently counted twenty melons on one of his musk-melon vines, all larger than a cocoa nut. The variety is known as the Prolific nutmeg and from about an acre and a quarter of ground he will realize over $500.

The subject of the sermon at the Christian church this evening will be: "The Course to Pursue to Be Infinitely Safe; or, Sincerity Seeking the Way to Heaven." The design of the discourse is to answer all the puzzling, perplexing questions of infidelity and divided Christianity, so as to leave the honest inquirer infallibly safe. There will be a lot of questions answered publicly every evening. Special musical program for this evening.

Camby Post, G. A. R., of Hood River, together with the W. R. C. and S. of V. camp, will hold a camp fire and barbecue on Sept. 23d, beginning at 9 o'clock and continuing all day, ending with a grand banquet in the evening. The Post and Relief Corps of this place have been invited to participate.

It is designed that the rock crusher shall crush about 200 or 300 tons of rock where it is at present, for the use of the city, when the county will have the use of it for a month, moving it to another quarry. Every rod of good road made with it adds that much prosperity to the city or county. The rock crusher is one of the wisest investments ever made.

G. H. Riddell came in town this morning, and a black horse which has been raised as a pet, became frantic on noticing that he was left behind. Though hobbled, he broke his chains, jumped a fence or two, and flew madly toward home. He happened to come a different route than the one by which Mr. Riddell returned, and our marshal impounded him. He was afterwards released without charges upon a proper explanation.

The Kellogg Concert.

The concert at the Congregational church by the Kelloggs, husband and wife, assisted by familiar local talent, called out a large audience and a cordial one. Perhaps the greatest musical interest centered in the work of the new contralto. Mrs. Emily Stuart Kellogg, who in a way is a phenomenal singer. Her range, as illustrated by her numbers, was from bass E to high soprano A. The quality is of the heaviest contralto timbre, which is well carried upward to her superior limit without a flaw. It is full, rich and musical, masculine, but exquisitely fine and beautiful in the soft passage. The method of tone production has excited some criticism as being a style applicable only to one of her peculiar characteristics, and for her one would not have one note otherwise. Her school is French, with all the charm that obtains with the Paris bred. Her presence is attractive, her manner winsome, her mobile face delightfully expressive and she is dramatic to her finger tips.

Of course Mr. Kellogg, the whistler, the greatest living, was marvellous in his way and "held the audience spell-bound."—Oakland Enquirer.

MARKET REPORT.

A Better Outlook for Business than Since Early Spring.

FRIDAY, Sept. 15, 1893.—The last few days of fair weather has had somewhat of a stimulating effect on trade, and business has a more satisfactory outlook than at any time since the early spring months. Money is more easy, and the cloudy horizon which seemed to characterize the business interests of the past season is wearing the golden hue, and a general buoyancy in trade is noticeable in all quarters.

The drygoods market is being replenished and former prices continue unchanged. In the grocery line, there is a stiffening in some lines, especially in coffee, which, owing to South American complications and other causes, has advanced $\frac{3}{4}$ cents per pound, with a tendency of a further advance in the near future. An advance is noted in all grades of package roasts, especially so on Arbuckles.

In domestic produce the market continues in full supply, and has a fair demand for export.

Fruits, apples good, prices are offered at 40 cents per box; Bartlett pears free from blemish, 40 to 60 cents per box; Peaches, Crawford, extra large \$1.00; Salaway good, .80 to \$1.00. Plums are hardly in market, as the demand is so light that the offerings are few. The plum product will be used in drying. Prunes, such as the Hungarians, are freely offered for shipment at $1\frac{1}{2}$ to $1\frac{3}{4}$ cents per pound, and Italian find a fair sale at 1 to $1\frac{1}{2}$ cents per pound.

Vegetables, melons and etc., are in fine condition and are in liberal supply. Potatoes rule low on a steady market of $\frac{3}{4}$ cents per pound; onions are still quotable at $1\frac{1}{2}$ cents per pound; cabbage is freely offered at $\frac{3}{4}$ cents per pound. Melons are dull sale at .60 to \$1.50 per dozen, and canteloupes are in fair demand for shipment at 1 to $1\frac{1}{2}$ cents per pound.

The egg and butter market is steady with a quotation for eggs of 16 cents in trade. The poultry delivery is lighter than usual for the season, although the former quotation is adhered to.

In the feed market, hay is in good supply, and wheat hay is quoted at $10 per ton baled. Oat and alfalfa hay have the same quotation, and timothy is freely offered at $12, with a limited demand for the season.

In feed grains, oats are in fair demand at 80 to 90 cents per cental, and barley at 75 to 85 cents per cental.

The grain market has at last reached a point that quotations can be made, and it can be said that 47 to 48 cents is offered for shipment. Within the past few days, the wheat markets have shown a stimulated condition. In European markets there is a better feeling among buyers and a strong upward tendency prevails.

In American markets, there is a fluctuating tone, indicating a sharp advance to be looked for. Futures have already stiffened, and in San Francisco, May deliveries are bid up to \$1.29 $\frac{1}{2}$ per cental. Present shipping quotations are \$1.05 per cental. In Portland, buyers have opened the market in a small way for export, and but few lots have been delivered to date, and on quotations ranging from \$7 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 90 per cental for Eastern Oregon, and \$1 per cental for valley.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat says: "The latest estimates of wheat production in this country in 1893 are 440,000,000 or 450,000,000 bushels. This makes the yield nearly 50,000,000 bushels greater than was looked for a month or two ago. But even if it were 50,000,000 larger still, there would, from present indications, be a demand for it in the next eight or ten months."

The wool market is down and lifeless. Nearly all the wool on storage in this city has been shipped on consignment, and there is not to exceed 1,800 bales on hand.

The first panorama was exhibited in Edinburgh by Robert Barker about 1788, by which he portrayed a view of the city.

The first champagne was made by Perignon, a monk of St. Peter Hautvilliers, Champagne, in the seventeenth century.
