SEPTEMBER SHORTS.

City and County News Notes of Minor Importance.

I rose with great alacrity To offer her my seat.
'Twas a question whether she or I Would stand upon my feet.

Wheat is arriving steadily.
Kellogg, the bird warbler, Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg furnish a splendid speciality entertainment, nothing of the kind like it on the road.

"Shylock," by Irving and Terry, took away from Portland about $10,000.
Tickets were $5 each and the house was crowded.

Mr. Chas. D. Kellogg's entertainment is highly spoken of in Portland, and we are assured on all hands it is one of the best ever given.

The new sewer at the west end of Second street is nearly completed, and promises to be an improvement greatly needed and desired by the residents in the vicinity.

George Thompson, a woodchopper, living about one-half mile east of the 7-mile post, near Portland, on the Base Line road, cut his throat from ear to ear with a pocket knife, and will probably die.

The light rain of Monday night and Tuesday, amounting in the country to only about six-hundredths of an inch, did not injure the wheat, as was feared by some, and heading is progressing uninterruptedly.

The subject of the sermon at the Christian church tonight is "The Baptism of the Holy Ghost." What was the design of this baptism? Are there any subjects of this baptism now? Come and let us see what the Scriptures teach upon this important subject.

A runaway team and spring wagon rounded up at A. J. Anderson's place on Chenoweth yesterday morning, and as yet the owner of them has not put in an appearance. The tracks were followed back until a plain road was reached when it was impossible to track them farther. It is apprehended that the unknown driver has met with an accident, perhaps fatal.

The railroad boys amused themselves this morning trying to harpoon a couple of stray salmon which had got entangled in the shallow waters of Mill creek above the bridge. Continued practice and vocal encouragement from the crowd enabled one of the boys to transfix a salmon with a spear. After this amusement was over, the crowd dispersed to gather again at the sound of the Regulator's whistle.

The Union Pacific has an abundance of rolling stock these days. This morning there were sixteen engines in the round house, a few of which were being repaired, but the most of them were awaiting the return of busy times.

Some of the engineers and firemen who have been waiting all summer for work, hope to obtain it soon with the moving of the wheat crop.

Just received a scow load of choice oak wood.

Strange Surroundings.

They were very diffident and not all self-sure when they walked the Regulator plank this morning. They were young and may have been brother and sister, though their actions were more like the bride and groom of a country precinct. While he was thoughtful of her comfort, he was more afraid of doing something wrong and not acting just right, under the battery of eyes he felt sure was directed upon them. Not wishing to intrude, he kept the lower deck, and when a truck of freight, wheeled by a deck hand, came thundering behind them he convulsively drew his companion aside, and both backed up against the side of the boat allowing the load to pass, both blushing as red as poppies. He was asked why they didn't go up on the upper deck and this was the first time it dawned upon him that he had any right up there. Seizing the girl's creature by the arm, he hastily made his way up the companion way and, upon reaching the top, again stood undecided what to do. A lady realizing their difficulty advised them to go aft and enter the cabin. He acted upon the advice, but the prettily varnished furnishings once more intimidated him, and seeing only ladies present, he left his charge and went forward again. Just as the boat started he followed a number of men to the cabin by the stern wheel, and as the huge boat turned in mid stream to go down the river, a last look revealed him standing beside his companion, and both faces wore such a look of radiant rapture and contentment as is seldom vouchsafed this side of heaven.

A WONDERFUL BIRD-WEAVER.

How the Baltimore Oriole Builds His Cozy Swinging Nest.

The Baltimore oriole is a prince in a house of princes, says a writer in Scribner's Magazine. The family to which he belongs is composed of birds remarkable either for plumage, note, nest, eggs or habit. Each can claim something curious and original; but the Baltimore shines in every one of these particulars, for in plumage, song and nest alike he is an especially remarkable bird. When the curl of Baltimore became the lord of Maryland his followers quickly noticed the correspondence between his heraldic livery of orange and black and the orange and black of the splendid bird that so abounded in the new estates, so that, very naturally, the name "Baltimore bird" was suggested and has been borne ever since.

His nest is one of the most wonderful examples of bird-weaving in existence. It is made of separate threads, strings, horsehair or strips of bark, closely interwoven into a sort of sack, and so firmly knit together that it will bear a weight of twenty or thirty pounds. In the southern parts of this bird's range the nest is suspended from two or three terminal twigs for protection from numerous enemies, such as snakes, opossums and the like; it is also made six or seven inches in depth to prevent the eggs being thrown out by the high winds. But in the colder north, where tree-climbing foes are rare, it is hung, not at the extremity of the branches, but in a cluster of twigs that affords shelter. It is much shallower than when exposed to the wind, but is very thickly woven and lined with soft, warm materials. The oriole's loud, fire-like notes ringing from the high tree-tops in the morning are an ample refutation of the old theory that melody and bright plumage have never been bestowed on the same bird.

Captain Sweeney, U. S. A., San Diego, Cal., says: "Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy is the first medicine I have ever found that would do me any good."

MAKING ROADS.

Six Men Getting Out Rock to be Crushed
Next Week.

Six men are now engaged in getting out rock for the crusher, and the machine will be started up next week. It was the intention of the council to give employment to as many men with families as possible who are now out of work, a commendable action and a very wise one, since the great utility of the work to be done dispenses with the claim of charity. The committee on streets and public property, comprising Messrs. Kreft, Lauer and Butts, are very efficient and are directing work the most important since our streets were graded up to a level above high water mark. It is the intention of the city to supply crushed rock at all street crossings, the bad places in the road between corners to be filled by the owners of the lots adjoining. The crushed rock will be supplied them and the only expense will be the hauling.

After the city has used the crusher for a time the county will run it, the intention being to divide its time equally between them. The county commissioners were at great expense last year in filling up holes in the country roads with manure and straw, which soon became as bad as ever.
Now when a hole is filled it is fixed forever, and the expense is ended.

The purchase of the rock crusher is one of the wisest investments ever made.
The money expended on roads yields a higher return than it could in any other way and the benefits are immediate. It saves to the producer time, money and horseflesh, and by reducing the cost of transportation places him at once upon a footing where prosperity is easily within his reach, and when the country people are prosperous, the cities are bound to be. Given good country roads and paved city streets no danger need be apprehended of retrograding, but on the contrary, progress will be marked and rapid.

Howlers for enterprise, note our rock crusher, and stow your dismal croakings.

A Disheartened Evangelist.

Rev. Mr. Aleridge closed his meetings last night. They were not meeting with that degree of success for which the gentleman had hoped, and becoming discouraged he abandoned them. His final lecture was forcible, eloquent and entirely spontaneous, while an occasional passionate outburst showed that the speaker was suffering keenly from some cause. Whether it was because of the indifference of the church people to himself, which he claimed, the battle with his own appetite for strong drink, to which he once alluded, or a private disappointment cannot be known, but it is palpable that he possesses an impressionable disposition, which for him is unfortunate. Himself whole-souled, earnest and enthusiastic, craving friendship and as ready to give it, he yields easily to unpleasant circumstances, becomes disheartened, and cannot conceal it. His story of himself is true, and there is no occasion to doubt it, he deserves that credit which cannot be overestimated in the light of the proverb, "He who conquers self is greater than he who taketh a city." Mr. Aleridge has drunk the dregs of lowest degradation, has been the lowest in the social scale, and his risen again to worth and respectability. If, as he says, he has successfully battled with his appetite for twelve years, who among us can compare with him in firmness of purpose and rigid adherence to a path marked out. The ephemeral existence of the time-honored New Year resolution, which all have tried, is a trivial thing to what this man has done. He deserves the hearty support, moral, social and otherwise of any community in which he labors, and may the grace of God, upon which he relies, preserve him to the end in sobriety, usefulness and honor.

A Good Word.

Mr. J. J. KELL, Sharpsburg, Pa., Dear Sir—I am glad to say a good word for Krause's Headache Capsules. After suffering for over three years with acute neuralgia and its consequent insomnia, (which seemed to battle the efforts of some of our best physicians) you suggested this remedy which gave me almost instant relief. Words fail to express the praise I should like to bestow on Krause's Headache Capsules.
Gratefully Yours,
MRS. E. R. HOLMES,
Montrose, Pa.
