A VIEW ON DRUNKENNESS.

The simplest things are not the most simple when studied. The good and sincere total-abstinence advocate has a high moral aim in view, and shows his loyalty by his sacrificial spirit, and thinks his case so clear and simple that he never doubts it.

A circular of information compiled by Arthur McDonald, specialist in the bureau of education, U. S. government, has the following:

"To insist on total abstinence from wine in France and beer in Germany is like objecting to the use of coffee and tea in England or America. The question of total abstinence is manifestly a local one; it is relative to the country, or even state, city, or town. To insist that drinking is either right or wrong in the absolute sense is an attempt to make the relative absolute, which is a contradiction.

The city council in employing family men to work, are doing a righteous and patriotic act. Many other cities are doing likewise.

In Louisiana the fagot and torture rack are prepared, waiting for the victim, and law, although forewarned, is powerless to prevent the outrage.

Cleveland was hung in effigy in California for his supposed indifference to the Geary act. Now if those zealous Methodists of Oregon who want to keep the almond-eyed heathen at home would do the same thing, what should Cleveland do? The insult is senseless.

To oppose free coinage of silver one does not oppose the use of a reasonable amount of silver as money. Silver as a metal has been upheld and petted long enough by the government. If any one needs any petting, now it is the farmer who raises at present 40 cent wheat.

The capital of Brazil is about to be bombarded with its own guns, and the chances are favorable for a restoration of the monarchy. Great is war. Scarcely two years ago Brazil was a monarchy and in arriving at the same condition again thousands of lives have been sacrificed, and millions of property destroyed.

Eighty-six years ago Robert Fulton was ascending the Hudson river for the first time by steam power. The "Clermont" steamed from New York to Albany in thirty-two hours. Two years ago the Empire State Express ran on the New York Central railroad from New York City to Buffalo, a distance of 436 1/2 miles in 420 minutes. These are two notable events which have transpired through the inventions applying to steam power. They cover the entire period of locomotion by means of steam, less than one century. To traverse 1400 miles on the Hudson in 1807 it took Fulton thirty-two hours, or less than four and one-half miles an hour. The Empire Express in 1861 traversed 436 1/2 miles at the average rate of more than a mile a minute.

The truth is, the greater the genuine consequence of the man, the surer he is not to take offense because his views are asked for publication. He knows that he is not obliged to give the requested interview, and that to ask him is a compliment. The request implies that his opinions are important, or his knowledge unusual, or the reporter would not be sent to him. The application for an interview suggests distinguished consideration. A representative of so powerful an engine of public opinion as a great newspaper, who comes bearing a request so complimentary, is not treated as an interloper or a beggar by anybody expect a fool. It is the petty fellows, not the abler men, who pretend to be offended by such a mark of distinction.—New York Sun.

The NEW TOWN has been platted on the old camp ground, at the Forks and Falls of Hood river, with large, slightly lots, broad streets and alleys, good soil and pure water, shade in profusion, perfect drainage, delightful mountain climate, the central attraction as a mountain summer resort for all Oregon, being the nearest town to Mt. Hood. It is unparalleled as a manufacturing center, being the natural center for 150 square miles of the best cedar and fir timber, possessing millions of horse-power in its dashing streams and water falls, easily harnessed. Where cheap motive power exists, there the factories will center, surrounded by soil and climate that cannot be anywhere for fruit and agriculture, and with transportation almost anywhere you will find this the place to make a perfect home or a paying investment.
