Messrs. Sylvester and Parrott are putting up a substantial awning at the Moses new store.

The fish catch these days is light, the only exception being Mr. Seufert, who averages five or six tons a day.

Mr. Moses has moved his stock of groceries and furs into the new corner store of Mr. N. Harris, on the corner of Madison and Second.

Hardy has just painted an elegant sign for Keller's bakery. It extends across the front of the building, and adds to the artistic beauty of Second street.

The county jail contains four prisoners—one for horse stealing, one for larceny from a building, one for assault with a dangerous weapon, and the fourth for attempted rape.

The attention of the land office officials is being occupied today in hearing the case of Johnson vs. Pratt. The dispute is over some land situated eighteen miles east of here, near the base line.

Messrs. Saltmarsh & Co. shipped from their stockyards six cars of sheep to Troutdale, and a car of hogs to the Sound markets, last night. Tonight they will ship one car of sheep and one car of cattle.

The kindergarten opened this morning at the Episcopal rectory with seven pupils. Fourteen are promised. Miss Ida Booth, formerly of Newport, Yaquina bay, is teacher, and comes well recommended.

The singing of the choir in the Congregational church last evening was very fine. The ladies and gentlemen comprise one of the best choirs ever heard in The Dalles and their renditions are well worthy of praise.

Those who are gathering beef report cattle very fat. This would have been a good season for our cattlemen to have sold their beef by the pound, but all those that go to Chicago were sold by the head.—Ochoo Review.

The superintendent of the Congregational Sunday school recently requested the pupils to commit the subjects and golden texts for the quarter. The only one who succeeded was little Jessie Gibbons, in Mrs. S. L. Brooks' class.

A boy old enough to break the chain or steal the cup from the free drinking fountain by the post office is old enough to know that such an action is contemptible and if he persists in such conduct will sooner or later land behind the bars.

Mrs. Barnett deserves great praise for her single-hearted efforts in building up the Juvenile Temple of this city. No labor has been too arduous for her to undertake for this cause, and she has spent much of her valuable time upon the work, for which the Temple is especially grateful.

The runaway horses and wagon which were caught at Mr. Anderson's place belonged to Walter Semple. He had stopped on the Mill creek road to see a sick child and while in the house the team started. By this time it was so dark that Mr. Semple thought the chase would be useless and, concluding that somebody would care for them, he started homeward afoot. The next day he located their whereabouts and was much gratified to find that no damage was sustained.

There was the largest audience at the Christian church last evening that has been since the revival began. Every available space for sitting or standing was taken, and many were turned away because of the lack of room. At the close of the sermon five came forward and made confession of their faith. Subject of the sermon this evening is "The Thief on the Cross." Did he ask to be saved? Did Christ promise to save him? Come, let us study the Scriptures together.

Max Vogt brought in a mammoth stock of corn Saturday that is a fit companion for that furnished us by J. H. Mosier last year. It is about the same height (14 feet) and has six ears of corn upon it, three of them being over a foot in length. There is a fine field of it. It was raised without irrigation and was planted the first of June. Other exhibits furnished by Mr. Vogt are a yellow Newtown pippin and a blue pear-main apple, which are of large size and without a blemish, and some late Rose potatoes.

ALMOST A TRAGEDY.

W. J. Jeffries Takes a Shot at His Son-in-Law.

About 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. W. J. Jeffries, at his place on 5-Mile, shot at his son-in-law, Mr. Thos. F. Gray. The charge was buckshot, but the range was so great that he was not hit, one of the shot, however, penetrating his coat.

Fears have been entertained for some time on the part of those intimately acquainted with him that he would attempt something of this nature. Ever since the death of his 7-year-old girl, who was drowned some years ago in Mill creek while carrying her father's dinner to him at the shops, he has been subject to periods of depression. Possessing a bright intellect and keenly attached to his family ties, he has never been the same man since. His affections, therefore, were more firmly bound to his older daughter, Maggie, and when recently she was married to Gray, of which coming event he was not aware, he became more than ever despondent, amounting almost to insanity. It is believed this led up to the shooting. At his preliminary trial this morning before Justice Schutz, examination was waived and he gave bonds for his appearance before the grand jury.

Walter French was compelled to undergo the amputation of his right leg yesterday morning, in order to save his life. It was amputated at the upper third. He bore the operation well, but the lapse of several days will be required before it can be said he is out of danger.

Miss Anna Sylvester, who has held a position as compositor on THE CHRONICLE ever since its inception, resigned Saturday. She is the last of the old force who began with the first edition of the paper, and her severance from the mechanical department is the cause of sincere regret to those who remain.

Rev. W. C. Curtis leaves tomorrow night for a month's visit in the east. He goes from here to Boston, Mass. and thence to his old home in Maine. Mr. Curtis is a preacher of exceptional ability and his absence from the Congregational pulpit will be greatly noticed. His many friends, among his congregation and elsewhere, will welcome his return.

AMERICAN RAILWAY UNION.

Missionaries of the Movement Hold Forth in The Dalles.

A mass meeting was held in K. of P. hall last evening for the purpose of organizing a branch in The Dalles of the American Railway Union. This organization is only three months old, but on the Union Pacific system alone extends from Omaha westward to this point and it is designed to complete it to Portland.

The missionaries of the movement are Mr. James Hogan, of Ogden and Mr. G. W. Howard, of Chicago. The former is a young man of pleasing address, 27 years old, who precedes Mr. Howard in speaking, telling of the primary principles of the organization, and introducing the veteran Howard to the audience. Mr. Howard has held positions in the railroad employ from the lowest to division superintendent, and possessing a bright mind and retentive memory, has gleaned all there is to glean from a thirty years' continuous service. His lecture last night was over two hours long, and so entertaining is he that not the slightest restlessness was manifested by any of his audience, those who went out before he concluded being compelled to do so to take out the 11 o'clock passenger train.

He pointed out many irregularities in the existing brotherhoods, and told how they were obviated in the American Railway Union. The union favors the initiative and referendum method of legislation, and includes in its membership everyone drawing wages from a railroad company. The organization has been pronounced the nearest to perfection of any of its kind by such men as T. V. Powderly, Eugene V. Debs, besides some senators and representatives, including Mr. Voorhees.

A lodge was organized at the close of the meeting and Messrs. Hogan and Howard took the train for Portland early this morning.

The Kellogg Concert.

A large audience filled the Methodist church Saturday evening on the occasion of the Kellogg concert. To say the concert was appreciated is expressing it mildly. The programme rendered was one of the best ever given to a Dalles audience. Each number was enthusiastically received and encores were hearty and repeated. The curiosity to hear Mr. Kellogg's whistling was very great, and all those who listened to his bird-like strains sat marvelling at the perfection of his art. Not alone did Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg delight the audience, but our own talent as well was greatly appreciated. The first number from Lohengren was rendered by Miss Iva Brooks. The young lady played exceedingly well and received the hearty applause of her audience. Miss Brooks deserves especial credit from the fact that at the last moment before the concert began, when the one who was to play Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg's accompaniments was unable to do so, she kindly undertook the task, and completed it to everyone's satisfaction.

The gavotte by Mr. Kellogg charmed his hearers, and his success was immediately established. His whistling is marvelous. The notes come as clear as the sound of a violin under the touch of an artist. He illustrated the different kinds of whistling and gave a beautiful imitation of the mocking bird. He was repeatedly encored.

The bass solo of Mr. Wm. Magee was well received. The piece was well suited to the gentleman's voice and his low tones were especially good.

Mrs. Kellogg soon won all hearts by her sweet voice. She sang four selections. Those entitled "Hearts Delight" and "Dear Heart" were especially pleasing.

Miss Jennie Russell has marked elocutionary ability, and gave in a simple, touching manner the "Maiden Martyr." The solo by Miss Maie Williams was sweetly sung, and the young lady was heartily encored.

Miss Aimee Newman played a solo on the piano and gave an exhibition of her superior skill as a musician. Miss Newman showed remarkable ability as a pianist. Her touch and expression were exquisite.

The audience departed well pleased with the evening's entertainment, and the young people who had worked so hard in getting the concert up may feel sure of their efforts' success. The gross proceeds amounted to $78.
