Cool mornings and evenings give notice to the festive hostess that he should begin thinking of his future existence.

The farmer scratches his head and wonders what is the difference in a good crop of wheat and 40 cents, and a poor one and 90 cents.

A business meeting of the finance committee of the Christian church will be held this evening, at which the pastor for the ensuing year will be selected.

Hon. C. M. Cartwright has brought down from his Hay creek ranch 235 Spanish merino bucks, which will be shipped to various sheepmen in the upper country.

The nightly meetings at the Christian church closed with the Sunday evening service. The membership has more than doubled, the number on the church rolls now being 77.

The Moody party will be the last at Cloud Cap Inn this season. The summer has been unprofitable to this hostelry, owing to the financial stringency and the attractions at Chicago.

The first carload of fruit ever shipped from Hood River left on the 23d ult. It was shipped by Messrs. Perry, Warren, Rand and Blythe, and bore this legend: "I'm full of prunes from Hood River, Oregon. What's the matter with you?"

The ladies of the Congregational church will give a musical social on Wednesday evening of this week in Schanno's hall, over Brown's grocery store. A program has been prepared for the occasion, and refreshments will be served after the concert. Admission 25 cents.

A very queer-looking worm was brought in by Judge Liebe this morning. It is about the shape of an adder and is an inch in length. The head looks like a bull dog's and the markings of the eyes in brilliant colors make it look spectacled. It is of a chocolate brown color and has eight short thick legs.

The Union Pacific has put on the Has-salo on the Portland-Bonneyville route on the lower river in place of the Astorian.

People with bills were hopeful that the October collections would be good, but find that money is no more plentiful than it was a month ago.

Herr August Aamold, the Norwegian violinist, who is to play in the Methodist church October 13th, is not unknown to our people. Shortly after the big fire two years ago he played in the court house and was well received. Those who attended will remember that he is a very skillful musician.

According to the Dispatch, Miss Rose Michell received the thanks of the Press Association for sending a badge to the handsomest man of the convention. If true, the heroism of man finds no more fitting example than this, where 200 editors vote themselves inferior in personal charms to one of their number. The Spartan boy who allowed the fox to gnaw his vitals or the Roman who held his hand in the flame till it was consumed is tame compared to the reported action of the editors. However, we are inclined to doubt the report, for Miss Rose says she would have been compelled to give a badge to each, to be honest with herself, if asked to choose the handsomest man.

Remember the Fair.

The district fair begins October 10th, and comprises the counties of Wasco, Sherman, Gilliam, Crook, Morrow and Umatilla. In this comprehensive district there is ample field for the display of almost every product that can contribute to the comfort of man. Any individual having anything movable in his possession which is a good representative of his calling, whether it is the output of a mine, the product of the field, skill of any nature or stock animals should exhibit it at this fair. Fifteen hundred dollars are given by the state for agricultural exhibits, which is a generous sum and should of itself stimulate rivalry. Aside from this it should be everyone's pleasure who has a becoming local pride, to place on exhibition those products which will reflect credit to his home. It is gratifying to state that, notwithstanding the hard times, every indication points to a successful fair this October.

Another Hanging Jury.

The jury in the case of State vs. Wm. Watson disagreed, resulting in three for acquittal and three for guilty as charged. The case, which has cost about $300, over one of the simplest points of law, will thus have to be tried over again, with no more assurance of a result than before. The Fox case was also tried twice, being a mere question of assault. There was no more evidence adduced in the second trial than the first, but five men out of six thought differently the second time than the first. Jury trials as a whole would thus seem to be of a hit and miss policy, and not dependent at all on judgment. Wm. Watson removed a fence he supposed to be on a county road. Was he guilty or not? It seems, with two days given to evidence, six men ought to unanimously determine the question in five minutes.

Saturday night three bears killed four of E. Gilhousen's sheep at the camp on upper Mill creek near Johns' mill. One of the two herders in charge commenced shooting with a rifle and the other, having no better weapon, commenced hurling rocks. All of a sudden the bears assumed the offensive and the gun refusing to act for some reason the boys fled to camp. They are reinforced by this time and will have it out with the cheeky lords of the Cascades.

The Earth's Motion.

That the earth's motion has an appreciable effect upon artillery fire, deflecting the projectile from a straight course, may be news to many, and as such would probably seem a novel notion. It has, and the exact nature and extent of the effect is an important point of study with artillery experts. An English army expert told of the results of many interesting experiments along this line in a paper read before the Royal Artillery Institution the other day. Firing from north to south there is a divergence of projectiles to the left due to the earth's rotation, and firing due north the divergence is to the right. The extent of the "pull" varies at different points on the earth's surface, and with projectiles fired at different speeds and elevations. In England a deflection of five inches is found to occur with the projectile of a twelve-pounder in a four thousand-yard range.

A FINE EXHIBIT.

The Hood River Fair Especially Good for Apples.

The Oregonian, in speaking of the Hood River fair, which it calls really an apple show, says:

"The exhibit of apples was simply wonderful. More than 100 varieties, all of more or less excellence, were to be found upon the various tables, and to each lot was attached a card giving the common name of the apple and the place where it was grown. The fruit varied in size from the smallest crabs, which resemble good-sized currants, to the variety known as the Gloria Mundi, some of which, by actual measurement exceeded 15 inches in circumference. The color of each was rich and beautiful, and as far as could be seen from outward inspection, not a single apple was marked by a blemish or eaten by worms. Of all the varieties, the Gravenstein, a fall apple, is held in the highest esteem on account of its fine flavor. The Twenty-Ounce is the best apple for cooking purposes, and, as its name implies, it is a big one, yet not so large as the Gloria Mundi, which reigns supreme for size. The King is the finest apple for both eating and cooking. For winter use the Yellow Newtown Pippin stands above all of its fellows as an eating apple. These are the principal varieties now sent east to supply the demand for fine fruit, and they appear to fill the bill. M. B. Rand, a fruit-raiser living on the Washington side of the river, had on exhibition a half-dozen Maloms, a new variety of apple recently brought over from Germany. They were very similar to Gravensteins in flavor and somewhat harder. An exhibit of seedless apples, grown near Hood River, attracted great attention. A feature of the show, however, was the exceptionally large number of fine, hardy seedlings on exhibition. They indicate that most of the orchardists have been very careful in the selection of seed and in caring for the young trees."

Mr. Herbring Returns.

Mr. H. Herbring returned last night from his eastern trip. He combined business with pleasure by stopping at Chicago after buying his fall and winter stock of goods in New York. He informs us the stringency is more severe in the east than on the coast and money hard to get on any terms. A friend of his who pays out $5,000 a week for help has to pay 3 per cent. discount on his checks to get the coin, as the banks with which he has deposited have not the money on hand. Speaking of our exhibit at Chicago, Mr. Herbring said he felt humiliated and ashamed to acknowledge to anyone who frequents the fair that he was an Oregonian. The fruit is badly decayed, and while it may have been good when it first arrived is so no longer. Fresh beautiful fruit arrives in the California building every day. The only creditable display of Oregon was its timber. Oregon has no building at the fair, and no one knows where the state headquarters are, and altogether, Oregon's candle is entirely hid in the bushel. The meagreness of the exhibit is worse than none and Mr. Herbring thinks the people of the state have been penny wise and pound foolish.
