OCTOBER OLIO.

A Savory Mess From Miscellaneous News Bits.

A nabber from the city tripped lightly mid the trees, and sniffed the pungent odor that floated on the breeze. "Ah, tell me ancient farmer with arms so brown and bare, What is that wondrous flower that scents the morning air?" And laughed the ancient farmer "till the tears rolled down his cheek. "Why, does you that's a potato, I've smelled it for a week."

The Regulator took 529 sacks of wheat below this morning. This load is in luck to get out of the rain.

Rain falls alike upon the just and the unjust, but both would be willing to postpone it for a month or so.

French & Co's bank was closed in respect to the memory of Walter French, whose funeral occurs today.

Rev. P. H. McGuffey has been called to the pastorate of the Christian church in this city for the ensuing year.

Milton Aiken was bound over to the grand jury under $200 bonds, charged with taking articles from Mrs. Benzley's house, while occupying the upper rooms.

An annular eclipse of the sun occurs tomorrow. The almanac says it will be visible over the western half of North America, but we doubt it if this rain keeps up.

The rainfall since 8:30 Thursday night 2:10 p. m. today has been 2.1 inches. The fall over this area is unprecedented in the history of meteorology so early in the season.

The handsome white dog belonging to Al Bettingen was found dead in the yard this morning. The cause is unknown, unless it was from disgust with the weather and a democratic administration.

Never let up on advertising, is the secret of success. Advertising that does let up never pays. To stop and see how it works is like throwing a double eagle in the water to see if it will float; you solve the problem but lose your gold.

The Mignonette club gave a whist party last evening in Fraternity hall. Five tables were occupied and the evening spent in cards and dancing. As most of the young people prefer dancing to whist a larger crowd will be on hand at the next meeting.

The young man Campbell, who lost his leg in the threshing machine, near Wanic and afterwards suffered amputation, died the next day after the operation. The shock of the operation followed closely by the amputation, was too great for his system to bear.

The fellow named Blandford, whose name should be Blaine-fraud, sends us this telegram, setting forth today's weather: "Occasional rains, slight temperature changes." It's good we don't plan picnics according to government prognostications. The temperature and forecast on the Oregonian tower must be different from what it is on earth.

The funeral of Walter French took place this morning from the family residence. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Whisler. He spoke of the heroism the boy displayed throughout all his sickness. No courage could have been greater than that with which Walter French met death.

August Arnold, the violin virtuoso, gave a very enjoyable concert last night at Andrus Music Hall. The programme consisted of familiar selections of chamber music, many of them exceptionally fine. His technique goes a good way beyond what the majority of solo players are capable of, and his conception is artistically correct, and he is undoubtedly one of the greatest violinists.—Kansas City Times, October 8th, 1890.

Disastrous Rains.

There is now no doubt that the late heavy rains will be very destructive to the farmers' interests. The weather conditions of this year have conspired to defeat them, while all the time holding out alluring promises of a bountiful harvest. The spring was a full month behindhand, making harvest time that much later than usual, while the heavy rains just in threshing time are ahead of time for the fall season. Some of the farmers have been fortunate enough to finish their threshing, but many are in the midst of it and will lose a large per cent. of their crop. The rains, however, are beneficial to the stock interests.

A Popular Firm.

Pease & Mays enjoy a trade all the year round equal to the best in the city. The reason is because they have made their name a household word by keeping it continually before the public, which, combined with good business methods and a desire to please their patrons, form the keystone to their success. It is impossible to pick up THE CHRONICLE for the last two years which does not contain their name boldly displayed in the advertising columns, with a description of some serviceable or novel goods which they carry in stock. The junior member of the firm agrees with P. T. Barum and A. T. Stewart on the advertising proposition, and it is bearing its legitimate fruits in giving them a popularity second to none in the state within their field.

In response to the solicitation of a goodly number of citizens of The Dalles I have decided to make this my home for the winter, at least, and hereby offer my services to those who are interested in music as instructor in both vocal and instrumental music. Am prepared to use French, Italian or German methods. Can give the very best of references. For terms and particulars as to time and place, call at the residence of Mr. C. E. Bayard or Mr. Geo. W. Rowland.

MISS CLARE A. MOORE.

SHARPSBURG, Pa., July 27, 1892.
MR. J. J. KEIL,
SHARPSBURG, Pa.
DEAR SIR—I have used Krause's Headache capsules for some time and want to testify to their value. I tried various well recommended medicines, but got no relief until I used these, and now would not be without them for ten times their cost.
Yours respectfully,
CHARLES F. SEDGWICK.

Baker City's MIRTH.

Lieut. Riddell returned this morning from Baker City, where he had been with Col. Thompson to examine the qualifications of Captain Leader Fuch and Lieut. Ellis of F company. They passed a very creditable examination. Col. Thompson came back as far as Pendleton, where he took the next train for Weston to inspect the company there. Mr. Riddell speaks highly of the treatment they received at the hands of the citizens of Baker City, and says there are a whole-souled, generous and hospitable community. The Baker company is the only one in Oregon which has been in actual service, as they were called out last spring to suppress the Malheur riot. On this occasion they acquitted themselves with honor to themselves and the state, and Baker City is justly proud of her company.

This extract from the Baker City Democrat would indicate Messrs. Riddell and Thompson enjoyed themselves while absent: "Col. Thompson and Lieut. Riddell were met at the depot on their arrival by Major W. S. Blowers and escorted to the Hotel Warshauer, where during the afternoon the gentlemen had the pleasure of meeting many citizens of Baker City and their visit made quite enjoyable.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. Lewis and Miss Lewis returned from a trip to Astoria last evening.

License to wed was granted Edward Fair and Irene Ganger by the clerk today.

Miss Mary Frazier departed for Hood River this morning for a short visit in that place.

Mr. Fletcher Faulkner went to Portland yesterday, where he will remain over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. McAllister were passengers on the Regulator for Portland this morning.

Mr. Amos Underwood of White Salmon came to the city last evening to be present at the district fair.

Mr. Maurice McKem, of the law firm of Cox, Teal & Minor, is in the city on his way to Portland. He has been attending court at Moro.

Mr. Frank Sharp, having completed his contract of surveying the Tillamook country, returned last evening with a veritable "Tillamook Goat." Mr. Sharp intends to stock his ranch with this kind of animals.

Misses Gertrude and Bessie French and Frank French came up from Portland to attend the funeral of Walter French. Others from abroad in attendance were Mrs. Meredith, Miss Jeanette Meredith and Mrs. Legg of Salem.

BURN WHEAT SAMPLES.

Those Obtained at Chicago Permeated With a Dangerous Pest.

The following telegram needs no explanation:

WORLD'S FAIR, CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 4.—Warn all farmers who have returned from the fair with samples of grain for seed, to burn them immediately. A dangerous pest permeates the whole exhibit in the department of agriculture.

Chrysanthemum Club.

The first social hop given by this club was held last evening in Schanno's hall. An unusually pleasant time was had, and it is hoped that these young men will give a good many more of these pleasant gatherings, during the coming long winter months. Those present were: C. J. Crandall and wife, H. S. Wilson and wife, C. W. Dietzel and wife, W. E. Garretson and wife, Mr. Schutz, Mrs. L. B. Cushing, Mrs. J. Marden, Misses E. Story, E. Stanley, C. Booth, G. Sampson, L. Sampson, M. Cushing, May Cushing, D. Fredden, A. and E. Schmidt, L. Rowland, C. Davis, A. Schanno, E. and B. Glenn, A. Henry, P. Drews, P. and B. Baehler, G. Lauer, M. Sterling, Messrs. E. Sterling, J. Bonn, G. Bonn, W. Fredden, R. Rowland, C. Fritz, J. Weigel, F. Weigel, V. Marden, W. Gentry, L. Schanno, E. Drews, C. Clark, V. Schmidt, W. Vogt, F. Dietzel and F. Garretson.

A Narrow Escape.

This afternoon, as Mr. A. Bettingen was coming down through the cut on Union street a large body of rock slid off the cliff just in front of him. If he had gone a few yards further he would have been crushed to death. This is another argument for the placing of the rock crusher where it would do double purposes, open the street and crush rock for filling up holes.

HER BABY.

I have a friend of schoolgirl days,
Those days of joy,
Who owns a most entrancing creature
Her baby boy.
She plans his future fortune's prize,
Leaves his youth,
And shows me with exultant eyes,
His latest toy.
She cares no more for novels new:
With mamma's bland
She calls my kind attention to
His dimpled hand.
She asks me what I really think
About its pose,
And should they be so very pink,
The baby's toes?
I tell her of the latest play,
Her eyes grow dim,
She interrupts me far to say
It looks like "him."
She puts the bluff upon its head
And gets a scarp—
It surely can't be growing red—
The baby's hair!
Of all I speak, she looks away
With hurt surprise,
For are they blue or are they gray,
The baby's eyes.
And if I venture to suggest
That he's all right,
She'll clasp him tenderly to her breast
So close and tight,
And then, in that superior way
That tries me so,
She'll frown and smile at me and say,
"That's all you know."

Effects of Cave Air.

The remarkable physiological effects of cave air are well known. A traveler who visited the Mammoth cave in Kentucky says that on emerging the sense of smell was intensified to such an extraordinary degree that most common objects such as trees, plants, animals and even people had strong individual odors, mostly unpleasant. One tree could be easily distinguished from another by its characteristic odor. The effect lasted about half an hour and then passed off. The guides say that this is a usual experience. Other writers have noticed a similar effect from the sudden change from the peculiar oxygenated air of the cave to that of the outside world. The sense of smell is greatly intensified in almost every case. This intensification of olfactory perceptions is explained by the rarity of olfactory stimuli in the cave. On emergence, in accordance with a physiological law, the perceptive powers for these particular stimuli, having rested, are intensified, so that odors too delicate to make an impression under ordinary circumstances are powerfully felt.
