A SLIGHT FORECAST
What Is to Be Expected This Week in Congress.

TO TRY FOR CONTINUOUS SESSIONS

A Proposition to Extend the Present Silver Law With Reduced Purchases Is Taking Shape.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The momentous event in the senate this week will be an attempt to secure continuous sessions of that body. That this attempt will produce important results can hardly be doubted by anyone familiar with the situation. There is a general belief in the chamber that the present week will bring a solution of the problem. The opinion is expressed that there will be a compromise of some character agreed to and put through. The proposition simply to extend the Sherman law for a definite period with reduced monthly purchases seems to be taking shape as the most likely of the various propositions to receive approval. The proposition to include bond purchases is also receiving attention, and the present indications are that while many democrats may not agree to such a proposition, it may be put through with the assistance of the republicans. Senators from the silver-producing states are constantly consulted and advised with as to the terms of agreement, but they will not be allowed to dictate in the matter of compromise.

It may be stated, however, that the silver party in the senate, including democrats and republicans, is not so anxious to secure a compromise as is supposed. The silver men appreciate the fact that they are in the minority and cannot dictate terms of capitulation, but feel that if they can make it clear they are able to go on with the debate indefinitely, they will be able to secure very liberal concessions. One point on which they still seem determined to hold out is against fixing the limitation of time silver purchases shall cease within Cleveland's administration, and the chances are that they will win in the matter. What the silver men would like best next to free coinage would be a continuation of the present bill. That would be a triumph, and not a compromise. Senator Manderson intimated yesterday that he considered this result possible, and, having canvassed the chamber very thoroughly to secure a compromise, Manderson is quite competent to pass upon the point. Such a result could be brought about by taking recess until the regular meeting in December, or by taking up some other bill. The general desire among the senators is to get away. If, therefore, the night session experiment should not bring about the passage of the bill, the possibility is that a recess resolution would secure a majority in its support.

Arrested for Sending a Challenge.
RICHMOND, Oct. 9.—Jefferson Wallace was arrested Saturday night on the charge of sending a challenge to fight a deal to Joseph Bryan, proprietor of the Richmond Times. Mr. Wallace is secretary of the city democratic committee, and Mr. Bryan is one of the leading churchmen in Virginia and also president of the Georgia Pacific railroad. The trouble grew out of criticisms made recently upon the press of the city by Mr. Wallace, and upon which the Times commented sharply. Mr. Bryan declined to accept the challenge and sent it with a note to the chief of police. Mr. Wallace was thereupon placed under arrest.

Bombarding Outside Ports.
RIO JANEIRO, Oct. 9.—The insurgent fleet again bombarded the outside ports today. There was also some firing on the other side opposite the city. It is believed the insurgents will attempt to capture the Estrada powder magazine, but the government will blow the magazine up if it seems likely to be in danger of capture.

There is no truth in the report that foreign warships are landing sailors to protect foreign subjects.

The insurgent admiral has issued a manifesto disclaiming any intention of bombarding the city.

WASHINGTON LETTER.
Mr. Cleveland Explains His Arbitrary Order—Republicans' Inaction.

From our regular correspondent.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5, 1893.—This week has been far from satisfactory to the administration. First came the dissatisfaction among democratic congressmen at the arbitrary order of Mr. Cleveland compelling them to submit their business with the president to Private secretary Thurber, who decides whether they may or not see the President. This dissatisfaction became so marked that an official explanation was given out from the white house, to the effect that the original order was issued because Mr. Cleveland had decided to accept the recommendations of members of his cabinet as to all appointments coming under their several departments and that it was therefore unnecessary for congressmen to see him concerning appointments. The next move of the administration was an attempt to stop the growing tendency towards a settlement by compromise of the silver deadlock in the senate, made through Secretary Carlisle, who announced to the democratic senators that no compromise would be countenanced by the administration, and that unless the Voorhees repeal bill was passed it would be kept before the senate to the exclusion of the bill for the repeal of the Federal election laws, the tariff and all other political legislation, the idea being that the southern senators opposed to the Voorhees bill would thus be coerced into supporting that measure. It seems to have had a contrary effect, as for the first time democratic senators have since openly advocated compromise on the floor of the senate and sharply criticized the administration senators for refusing to agree to it.

While nearly all of the republican senators believe that compromise is the only way out of the silver dead-lock, they are taking no part in bringing it about, feeling that the proposition for compromise would come from the democrats as long as that party is in a majority in the senate and responsible for legislation. The republicans also know that any proposition they might make for a compromise would be misconstrued. In fact the treatment of the republican senators who favor the repeal of the purchasing clause of the silver law has hardly been fair; while counting upon their votes to aid in passing the bill when it comes to a vote, if it ever does, and upon their assistance in any method that might be adopted to force it to a vote, Senator Voorhees has at no time taken them into his plans, or asked their advice. A natural consequence of this is that a number of republican senators who are from principle in favor of repeal will do nothing to help Senator Voorhees force a vote. As the case stands now the silver men are defiant and Senator Voorhees has publicly confessed his inability to get a vote.

The second week of the debate in the house on the bill for the repeal of the federal election laws has been, if possible, even more uninteresting than the first, the republicans allowing the democrats to do most of the talking, contenting themselves with interjecting a question now and then just to show the falsity of the democratic arguments.

The big sugar trust now has a lobby in Washington, for the purpose of seeing that the democratic members of the house ways and means committee do not weaken under the great pressure that is now being brought to bear upon them and leave sugar untaxed. The sugar trust can well afford to spend a million or two of dollars, if necessary, to get a tax put upon foreign sugar, as experts figure that such a tax would enable the sugar trust to pocket anywhere from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 the day the tax went into effect. The whisky trust also has lobbyists at work trying to get the revenue tax on whisky increased. This trust has an enormous quantity of whisky in bond and any increase in the tax would be just making it a present of so much money.

Representative Davis, of Kansas, showed the house committee on banking and currency how little he knew about sound financial methods by an argument in favor of this bill to issue $200,000,000 in fractional currency. His statement that the farmers were unable to pay their debts because of the scarcity of money was repudiated by every member of the committee, republican and democrat alike, so far as their districts were concerned, and he was several times cornered badly by questions from members of the committee. Mr. Davis is one of those who believe that all the government has to do is to keep on issuing money, without regard to its future redemption, in order to make everybody prosperous and happy.

The house committee on invalid pensions wants to know about those pension suspensions as well as about some other methods of the present management of the pension bureau, and at its first meeting, held this week, it authorized the reporting of a resolution to the house calling for detailed information from the commissioner of pensions, and later got it adopted by the house.

Cut His Throat.
TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 9.—William Goodwin, a prominent farmer of Riley county, committed suicide yesterday by cutting his throat with a razor. In company with his wife he was driving to Manhattan, and when passing a thick hedge stopped, and, asking his wife to hold the team, he jumped from the wagon and cut his throat. No cause is assigned.

Frank Ellison Sentenced.
NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Recorder Smythe this morning sentenced Frank Ellison, who was convicted last week of assault in the second degree, second offense, of having brutally beaten broker William Henriques, to five years in Sing Sing at hard labor. This is the extreme penalty. Motion for a new trial was overruled.
