Originally Fresno was one of the "cow counties," says Kate Field's paper in an article on California, and cattle and sheep still form an important industry, but its greatest wealth lies in raisins, which may be called its raison d'etre. In 1889 the income of its people amounted to $10,000,000; $1,000,000 of which came from cattle, wool and sheep and $1,500,000 from raisins. Not more than ten years ago Miss Austin, a New England school teacher, transplanted to Fresno, become possessed with the idea of turning Freeno grapes into raisins. She lived long enough to carry out an inspiration which has so fructified that today 440,000 acres are devoted to raise and has a large assortment of Foreign and American Cloths, which he can think To Order for grapes that this year will be worth those $3,000,000 to packers and producers.
