OCTOBER OLIO.

A Savory Mess From Miscellaneous News Bits.

Mr. and Mrs. Collins were pleasantly serenaded by the Mandolin club last evening.

All the business houses will close up tomorrow afternoon, from 1 to 5 o'clock on account of the fair.

Campbell Bros. have made a deal whereby they control the ice business formerly handled by Chas. E. Allison.

Senator Mitchell arrived in Portland, on account of the illness of Mrs. Handy, his daughter, which has reached a critical point.

Teachers and children of all the schools—public and private—of this city, will be welcomed tomorrow, Friday, at the fair.

Don't miss seeing the "Ferris wheel," which is made of shoe strings and run by electricity in the show window at Pease and Mays.

Public schools will be closed tomorrow, Friday, as it is children's day at the fair. Instead of the usual half day it will be all day with them this time.

Mr. J. Haines of Tygh Ridge has on exhibit an English shire stallion colt that is 17 months old and weighs 1,324 pounds. At 13 months it weighed 1,130.

The display at the pavilion of The Dalles District Fair surpasses anything exhibited east of the Cascades and will put to blush that of the state fair exhibit of like characters.

The case of R. L. Sabin vs. Martin Johnson and others of Hood River was tried in banc before Judge Bradshaw this morning. Judgment is reserved until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

It was erroneously stated last night that the Amold concert would be given in the court house. It will be at the Methodist church and reserved seats may be had without extra cost at Snipes & Kinersly's.

The man with the "nigger" dolls is violating the laws of the state and is subject to arrest. Boys 10 years old throw at them and if they win are rewarded with cigars or cigarettes, which they smoke, in defiance of the law prohibiting the furnishing of tobacco to minors.

The Rowe saw mill is an assured fact, and Mr. Rowe himself will arrive in The Dalles this evening. A lease has been obtained from the Union Pacific company for five years' time and construction of the mill building at the mouth of Mill creek will begin at an early day. About 3,000 logs have been got out near the mouth of Wind river and a boom formed and the Regulator has received a proposition to tow a load of them, with the object of ascertaining how many can be handled at one time in this way.

A very singular thing happened the other day at the Rowe log chute at the mouth of Wind river. The chute, by the way, is 500 feet up on an incline and 400 feet farther when reaching the top, and there is timber enough accessible to last 20 years. The chute is bordered on both sides all the way by large trees. When chuting the logs one of them when near the bottom veered off, the end of it striking and penetrating a monster pine for two feet. The loose end swung around the chute, and the workmen, quick to perceive an advantage, braced and fastened it for a bearing and now the chute at this point is more substantial than any in the world.

Do not forget the Amold concert tomorrow night at the Methodist church. There are many in The Dalles who have heard him before, but their appreciation will find no better expression than the following item from the St. Paul Globe when he played there in 1889: "To hear Herr Amold at his best, when inspiration thrilled his every move, and the soft sweet notes floating from his instrument in unconscious accord with the executor's thought, is to lose one's self to all things earthly and live, if but for the moment, in the imagery of the most beautiful. In the programme he was announced to appear but twice. When he appeared his first "Nocturne" (Chopin), he had delivered but a prelude to the enthusiastic demands of those present. Responding to an encore he was encored, and would have been responding to encores to this moment, but he was compelled to desist from sheer weariness."

Today's Races.

Rockland Boy won the 1/2 mile and repeat this afternoon; time 52 seconds. It took three heats to decide, as Little Joe won the second. In the gentleman's 1/2 mile roadster race, J. P. McNerny's John Day took three straight heats; time 1.31. One of the judges was clearly at fault in telling Mr. McNerny to start while telling Malcolm Moody not to go. The race was given to Mr. McNerny without protest, but Mr. Moody had good cause for grievance.

Burchett the Winner.

The following was the score made in yesterday's pigeon shoot:

ORANGE BLOSSOMS.

The Nuptials of Iva Catharine Brooks and Eugene J. Collins.

The Methodist church was filled to its utmost seating capacity last evening, friends present at the wedding of Miss Iva Catharine Brooks to Eugene J. Collins.

The interior decorations of the church were varied and beautiful. The choir rail was banked with flowers and potted plants. Sprigs of asparagus with their beautiful carmine-hued berries draped over the whole, giving it the appearance of a veil. Fronting this was the bridal arch, covered with the brilliantly hued leaves of the Virginia creeper, and hung with wedding bells, while in the center was suspended a dove.

Promptly at 9 o'clock the organ struck up with Wagner's Lohengrin, and as its beautiful tones swelled out in their divine harmony the bridal party entered and in the following order: ushers, Mr. N. Sinnott and J. S. Winzler; groomsmen, Mr. H. H. Riddell; bridesmaids, Misses Laurina Henriksen and Auburn Story; the two little maids of honor, Misses Anna Pentland and Ziporah Harris; followed by the bride on the arm of her father, Mr. E. S. Brooks. Arriving at the altar the party were met by the groom and Mr. Fritz W. Wilson, best man, Rev. Mr. Whisler, coming from the vestry room, and the impressive service began. Soft music was played throughout the ceremony, the voice of the minister raising solemnly above its measured tones, and the responses made by the bride and groom, in a firm and distinct voice, were plainly audible in all parts of the church. At the conclusion of the ceremony the grand strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march rang out joyously, and the bridal party filed out of the church. The grand pipe organ, responsive to the practiced touch of the performer, Mrs. J. W. Condon, filled the air with a harmony impossible to describe and only to be realized by stating it was the universally esteemed masterpiece of Mendelssohn, played by a skillful hand upon a sublime instrument.

As the party stood around the altar the scene was worthy the brush of a Rafael. The bridal pair standing with bowed heads, devoutly listening to the sacred words, the maids in their rich garments, and ushers in black attendant upon them, and the little maids of honor in softly-tinted vestments, formed an artistic grouping pleasing to the eye, as well as indicative of the sacredness of the passing event.

The bride was attired in white silk, cut en train, trimmed with sea pearls and white lace; corsage ornamented with bridal roses and smilax; veil of silk molene fastened in place with a bunch of bridal roses; she carried in her hand a bunch of white rosebuds.

The groom was dressed in the conventional black.

The little maids of honor, Misses Ziporah Harris and Anna Pentland were dressed alike, in pink silk wateau gowns trimmed with lace and pink ribbon, and carrying baskets of pink and white roses.

Miss Auburn Story wore pale blue India silk, profusely trimmed with white lace, and carrying a bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Henriksen of Portland was dressed in cream crepon, trimmed with lace and satin ribbon. She carried a bouquet of white anemones and lemon verbenas.

After the ceremonies a delicate spread was served for the bridal party at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Brooks, with whom their nuptial feast was held since childhood.

Many beautiful and costly presents arrived last night and today, and telegrams of congratulations are pouring in upon the newly-made pair. Thus closes the most auspicious event in the lives of two of our young people, whose host of friends wish them long life, prosperity and continued happiness.

LADIES' DAY.

Exhibits Still Arrive--The Attendance Today Was Quite Large.

The races yesterday afternoon were not over in time for THE CHRONICLE to print the result. Three heats were run and four horses contested. Rockland Boy was the favorite in the pools, selling first choice every time. He was principally backed by his owner. There was little second choice and the field included Siretta, Champagne and Little Joe. Rockland Boy took the first heat easily, Siretta second, Champagne and Little Joe following. For the second heat the odds given before continued the same. This heat Champagne won, Rockland Boy second. The third and deciding heat was run by only Rockland Boy and Champagne as the others were ineligible, not having won a heat. There was little betting on the heat and there was evident dissatisfaction among the crowd in the way it was run. Rockland Boy took a big lead from the start, and held it to the finish, winning in 38 seconds.

The race today will be the gentleman's roadster and great interest is manifested in the result. Malcolm Moody enters Pet. J. S. Schenk enters Pearl Knox, J. P. McNerny enters John Day, Robt. Mays, jr., enters Bonner and John Rhodes John L. The purse offered is $50 and each gentleman named will drive his own horse. The "financial stringency" has eased sufficiently that two of our bankers can take a day off and seek trophies on the race track.

Today is Ladies Day and the fair sex is expected to attend in large numbers.

The Dalles band was on the grounds yesterday and the music rendered was very fine. The boys play exceedingly well and praise for their work was prolific. The pavilion was attended by a larger crowd yesterday than the day before and everyone seemed pleased with the exhibits.

Exhibits still arrive for the pavilion. We venture the statement that no city in Oregon outside of Portland could make as fine a display of native skill as The Dalles has done in this instance. The hand fancy work, oil and water color painting and crayons will bear rivalry anywhere and it is due to the exhibitors that a large crowd view their displays. Miss Bees Lang has made a pretty display of china painting. The work is exquisite. Miss Mabel Mack has some lovely hand embroidered doyleys and table scarfs. Some crazy quilts and worsted patch work by Mrs. S. B. Adams are a new exhibit and take up the space of the northwest corner of the pavilion.

Among the new displays that have arrived today is one of cut flowers arranged in large bouquets by Mrs. Chas. Stubing. All varieties are represented besides different kinds of plants and palms.

Joe Southwell keeps adding to his exhibit, which is already the largest in the pavilion. His addition today is different varieties of dried fruit.

Mr. Jenkins of The Dalles corset factory has a case full of corsets made in The Dalles. The workmanship is good and Mr. Jenkins' trade is fast reaching to distant points.

Geo. Snipes has a limb of a pear tree, 3 1/2 feet long which has hanging to it 42 large well formed pears.

Another exhibit was a branch of Hungarian prunes and egg plums from this year's growth and which were only in blossom when the other plums were ripe. Geo. Snipes has a fine Jersey thoroughbred bull in the stock exhibit, also 3 graded calves and 3 mules.

NOTES.

Mr. Frank Sharp has his "Tillamook goat" on exhibition.

The judges yesterday were Hons. F. P. Mays, A. S. McAllister and C. M. Cartwright.

W. H. Butts is the auctioneer of the pools and his frequent admonitions for everyone to get in and pick the winning horse are hearty enough to nearly drown the band.

The CHRONICLE reporter made an error in crediting the very large display of Mr. Southwell. It should have been Ben Southwell instead of Joe. We hasten to correct the error.

The betting yesterday was of a curious order. One man won all the money and he had to give odds of 3 to 1 to do it. Most every one took the field against Rockland Boy and their money was "gone like a wind that blew a thousand years ago."

On some accounts it is a pity that the names of the exhibitors couldn't be attached to their exhibits. Of course this can't be done till the awards are announced, but those who look at the different displays like to know the names of those who make them.

The accustomed accompaniments of a county fair are with us this time. The chance to throw at "de nigger babies" is freely offered at five cents a throw and the cane ringing game is along side of it. The merry-go-round, which is a very elaborate affair, is not upon the grounds, but is situated down in town.
