Minorities have rights, it is true, but they abuse all patience in so long obstructing legislation in the senate. They have the right to vote, but they the will of the majority indefinitely.

It cannot be very pleasant to old England to be beaten year, after year by America for the world's cup. This year great hopes were centered in the Valkyrie because it was constructed especially for sailing in American waters. but the Yank's centerboard proved too come forward, as the roll will be pubmuch for the lead keel of the Valkyrie, lished on the 21st of this month. and disapointment has again followed disappointment.

All things come to an end, and adopting the example of precedent, so will the present session of the senate. The present terrific struggle gives promise of a speedy termination of the financia question, and now that we have waited question, and now that we have waited the skin clear. They also produce a so long, a week or so longer of doubt is good appetite and invigorate and not material. At first it seemed the strengthen the entire system by their height of nonsense for the house to allow two weeks for the debate of the question. The senate has consumed two Houghton. months.

There is no fight in congress against tionery store. silver. The majority of the senate. three-fourths of the house of representatives and the greater number of the people of the country are friends of silver. and for that reason do not want to continue the present policy of over coinage, thus debasing it. There is more silver in proportion to gold already in the United States than there is in France, and those in favor of bimetalism should agree that we must shut off on silver or we will have silver monometalism.

Those two young "theologu " Union Theological Seminary whose to sell Dr. King's New Discovery for cases were "hung up" by the New York Consumption, Coughs and Cod upon presbytery are not worrying half so this condition. They have observed that ever since Andover became suspected of unorthodoxy the e have not been Andover graduates enough to go around.

The burning question in London whether women may smoke is being publicly debated with great energy. Lady Colin Campbell comes out defiantly in favor of the privilege in the last number of an English illustrated magazine. She declares that the finer clay of woman has more need of tobacco than man's. It is the cigarette, of course, that Lady Campbell would like wood. to see more often between her sisters' lips. Mrs. Lynn Lynton's reply, sums it up, however, in saying: "The core of this movement is not special love for tobacco, pure and simple, but the de- Fraternity hall next Monday evening at termination of modern woman to ignore 7:30 sharp for the purpose of making arthe limitations, the apportionments, the conventional proprieties, as well as The club will be regularly entertained elemental differences of sex."

The long expected blow has fallen in that the Union Pacific road has gone into the hands of a receiver. There is no doubt that the road has had a hard struggle for the last several months in making ends meet. Horizontal cuts have been made in wages until the danger point was reached, rendering further proposed reductions hazardous, and the inability to meet their maturing obligations precipitated the failure. One thing must be said in favor of the company, and that is that only dire necessity would compel them to reduce wages, for it is well known they pay their workmen accordingly higher wages than is allowed by any other road. The Burlington is an example of the low wage system, and while they have been successful and enterprising, it was at the expense of the poorly-paid toilers who were compelled to introduce European frugality into the management of their homes to keep out of debt. The birth of the Union Pacific was during a period of fictitious values throughout the west; everything commanded a high price, and the management of the road has been in line with the same policy ever since. For years they did a thriving trade, until other transcontinental lines have been pushed to completion, operated by men who counted the pennies, and the pioneer Union Pacific gave way before advanced business methods.

NORTHERN INSECTS.

Animal and Vegetable Life Found Up Near the Pole.

It is a matter of surprise to all who for the first time, have any experience in high northern latitudes, to note the great abundance of insect life in Alaska. The writer of this paragraph was especially interested in noting the large amount of larve and other low conditions of animal life which was carried down from the melting glaciers into the rivers and streams which flowed from them. It is to this that we have to attribute the great abundance of the higher forms of animal life which prevails. Fish especially are in such quantity near the coast, attracted by this abundance, that it seems like repeating the tales of Baron Munchausen to the listener. The young son of the writer, who was with him in this expedition, was, with a couple of Indians in a boat, able to drive salmon into narrow creeks in such abundance that the boat could be driven against the fish in their endeavors to escape. They could have been dragged up in shoals by any strong and ordinary net. In the earlier history of Colorado very much stress was laid on the fact that Fremont saw a bee on one of the high elevations while crossing the Rocky mountains. Lieut. Pearv, in his recent expeditions to North Greenland found a bumble bee on the north coast of Greenland-the highest point of land yet reached by a human being so far as known. This explorer states that not only bees but other insects abound as soon as the spring fairly opens. Flowers of many kinds are particularly beautiful and abundant. affording a good chance for honey and pollen-collecting insects to lay un rich stores in advance of their long arctic winters.
