Lord Dunraven was prominent in journalistic circles some years ago and was particularly well received by such American papers as the New York Times and World. For twelve years or more he crossed the Atlantic annually and travelled in the states, Canada, Nova Scotia and New Foundland. He tigate the Yellowstone region and wrote a capital book on the exposition called "The Great Divide," which met with a good reception, both in America and England. He hunted and shot with Buffalo Bill and Texas Jack long before they ever went east of the Mississippi, and his name was well known among the Indians, who allowed nim to travel about their territory without interrup-

Lord Dunraven's yachting may be said to date from his college days. Then he purchased a small sloop from a Cardiff pilot called the "Cripple," and very funny are some of the adventures which those on board met with from time to time. From this time till 1887 he took but little interest in yachting, but was again interested in it when he built the "Irex." The yacht was a tiveness torpid liver, etc. These pills failure, but he persevered. The next insure perfect digestion, correct the liver and stomach, regulate the bowels, yacht he built was the first Valkyrie. Lord Dunraven took her to the Meditterranean, where, after winning every good appetite and invigorate and race she sailed in, she was sold to the strengthen the entire system by their Archduke Carl Stephan. He then built tonic action. They only require one pill the L'Esperance, and then the present sold at 25 cts. a box by Blakeley & Valkyrie. While she is a great improvement on anything ever built in England she was easily outsailed by the Vigilant.

Lord Dunraven is very energetic and a tireless worker. He has held a high place in the house of lords and his casties and manor houses and old estates are very fine. He is given the name of the model landlord, being very kind and generous to his tenants, by whom he is sincerely loved.

The crisis is near at hand in the senate. Compromise is given up and we are assured that efforts will now be concentrated to force a vote as soon as possible. This means the passage of the repeal bill, and if so the country is to be congratulated. With the load of silver lifted from Uncle Sam's back he can gradually straighten up and assume all the prerogatives of manhood again.

One of the strangest of strange ideas held by the populists is that the existence of huge capitalists is detrimental to their interests. The belief is the legitimate outcome of envy. There is none of them who would not be willing to exchange places with the moneyed man and all are naturally striving to acquire the most they can. Capital is the only factor that will supply employment, and the more that is invested the more hands will it employ. Capital develops resources, makes machinery turn, employs all who are out of work, and is as necessary to any commonwealth as are the workmen themselves.

CONCERNING COINS.

Some of the early copper coins of Connecticut bear curious legends. One "Value me as you please:" another, 'I am good copper;" another, under the image of an ax, "I cut my way

Some of the later Massachusetts coins bore a rude device illustrating There are only two or three known to be in existence.

ALL coins minted at Charlotte, N. C., bear, in addition to all other marks, the letter C: those at Dahlonega, the letter D: those at New Orleans, the letter O; those at Carson City, C. C.; those at San Francisco, S.

THE first Maryland coins were minted in 1662, and were put in circulation by an act of council ordering every householder to bring in sixty pounds of tobacco and receive ten shillings of the new money in exchange for it.

THE earliest coinage intended for America was of copper and made in the Bermudas in 1615, and was called the "Hogge Penny," from the figure of a porker on the obverse. Only two pieces are known to be in existence.
