OCTOBER OLIO.

A Savory Mess From Miscellaneous News Bits.

Diphtheria is prevalent in the neighborhood of North Yakima.

The Regulator nowadays is kept very busy by reason of the wheat traffic.

Dr. Harmon shipped 47 head of cattle today from Saltmarsh's stockyards.

Balm air and clear skies—this for the information of our Willamette brethren.

To build the fire or let it build it, what is the question which cooler weather thrusts upon us.

The large quantities of wheat being shipped and placed in storage rather belie the reports of great disaster by rains.

The Mandolin club will amuse those who attend the counting of the beans and inspection of the geasses at Pease & Mays tonight.

Fall grain is being sowed at a lively rate throughout the country, the rains having fitted the ground in excellent condition for seeding.

Mr. F. W. L. Skibbe is the latest convert to the anti-Chinese agitation and has discharged all the Chinese employees of his hotel. He now employs white help exclusively.

The country press are mentioning Judge A. S. Bennett for gubernatorial honors. If there is another democrat in the state who can win on that ticket besides Penoyer it is Mr. Bennett.

About twenty ladies and gentlemen left on the train for Portland this morning. It was a long train, but was not crowded with passengers, like No. 1 yesterday. It left here at 7 o'clock.

Pease & Mays have sold over 1,000 tickets for the guessing contest which concludes Saturday night. On that evening the beans and pumpkin seeds will be counted by the judges in the presence of the contestants. No goods will be sold during the evening.

Mr. D. Burns was bitten in the hand by Mr. A. Buchler's dog this morning while trying to "shake hands" with him. The wound is quite deep, being bitten on the back and palm by the dog's incisors. The wound was cauterized and it is thought no serious injury will result.

The Wasco News is a convert to the hog plan. The News says: It would be a good idea to get a few thousand head of hogs to fatten on the spoiled wheat which is scattered so promiscuously around. If this could be done the farmers would come out on top in the spring. If the pigs cannot be had in this country ship them from some other state. It will return immense profits.

Reports as to the damage done by the unusually heavy and prolonged rains during the early part of the month are conflicting and while undoubtedly the loss in some isolated cases may reach as high as 50 per cent, yet the average loss will prove finally to be under 25 per cent, unless the rain should set in again and at once. Another week of dry weather ought to see the last of the wheat crop gathered.

Mr. George Williams' team took a lively spin down Main street this afternoon, with a load of 38 turkeys. The tongue broke and plowed along the street, but singularly enough did not catch. Turning at the corner of Court and Second they were stopped a block beyond by one of the horses falling down. No damage was done and no turkeys were lost.

Decrease of Tax Receipts.

Wasco county is loser this year some $1,800 in taxes, which have heretofore been uncompromisingly paid every year since 1884 by The Dalles Military Road Land Company. Through their attorney, Mr. Hudson of this place, they were apprised that there was no law compelling them to pay these taxes, since no title has been guaranteed by the railroad company in any case, so that the lands have never been listed.

Wasco county's loss is but a small share of the whole. Taxes have been paid to Sherman county amounting to $3,600, Grant county $1,400 and Crook county a small sum. Taking into consideration school, county, and all other forms of tax, the net saving to the company will be in the neighborhood of $10,000, while the several counties may mean a corresponding loss to their annual revenue.

A Yakima Aerolite.

Three years ago, on November 11th, an aerolite fell in this valley and was located by Richard Sisk on the Wenas. In its descent it threw off small globules of fire and presented a novel sight. The exact spot where it fell could not be located until Friday last, when it was taken out of the ground. A large crowd of curiosity seekers have been viewing it since it was brought to the city, it being on display at Col. Taggard's. The meteor weighs exactly 12½ pounds, and very strongly resembles a cinder. Imaginative spectators maintain that an angel's face is plainly outlined upon one side of the concave formation. The reporter, however, could not see it. The stone, or ore, or whatever it may be called, is quite magnetic, although it has been imbedded in the earth for three years.—Republic.

Six points out of many where Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are better than other pills:

1. They're the smallest and easiest to take—little sugar-coated granules that every child takes readily.
2. They're perfectly easy in their action—no gripping, no disturbance.
3. Their efforts last. There's no reaction afterward. They regulate or cleanse the system according to size of dose.
4. They're the cheapest, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.
5. You pay only for the good you get.
6. Put up in glass—are always fresh.
7. They cure Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, Bilious Headaches and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels.

HE DID THE SAME.

Bill Nye Gets Fooled for Once in San Francisco.

Here is a good thing on Bill Nye, which, we believe, has never before been aired by printer's ink. Our readers are aware of the fact that Mr. Nye visited this coast a few months ago on a lecturing tour. While in San Francisco he undertook to chaperon a Boston literary party and he put on considerable "dog" in doing it. He never lost any points in scoring his superior knowledge of San Francisco, especially in the way of domestic economy. The Bostonese, in fact, were educated in a few days to believe that Bill knew all about San Francisco hostilities, and they trusted him implicitly. The whole gang, Nye included, were stopping at the Palace hotel, where as most people are aware, the cost of existence is somewhat high. Sam Davis, the notorious wit and cheerful liar of the Carson, (Nev.) Appeal, approached Nye one day and said: "Look here, Nye, of course its business for you to stop at the Palace; that's all right enough, but if you knew how to live in Frisco, like us newspaper jockeys you could be saving a good many dollars every day. A few of us are going to dine this afternoon at a French establishment, and I would like to have you join us." Nye promptly accepted the invitation. Then Davis went to the Maison Riche and fixed things with the cashier. When the party set down to dine Sam, as host, asked the privilege of ordering the dinner, which was a most elaborate affair, even for a French hostelry, including from relishes to cigars, fully seventeen courses. When the dinner was concluded the little procession marched to the cashier's counter, where Sam very ostentatiously asked, "Well, garcon, how much do we owe you?" "Two dollars and fifty cents," replied the cashier.

When they gained the street Nye could hold in no longer. "Great Moses and Aaron, Davis, why that dinner is truly a revelation to me! Why, do you know that a good meal for myself alone at the Palace costs me as much as you paid for all of us." "Well said Sam quietly, "I told you you didn't know how to live in Frisco."

Nye did just what Davis expected he would do. He lost no time in saying to his Bostonese friends: "You people outside of the newspaper world don't know how to live in San Francisco. Dine with me tomorrow afternoon, and I'll show you how to get a superb dinner for a song." And the Bostonese dined with Nye at the Maison Riche. Bill selected item for item the same dinner that Davis ordered, and when it was over Nye, at the cashier's desk, asked in a tone louder than was necessary, "Well, landlord, what is your bill?" and the cashier suavely replied, "Eighteen dollars and seventy-five cents, Monsieur."

Nye paid the bill and never said a word about it to Davis, and Davis never told Nye that the dinner he ordered cost exactly the same sum.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving remembrance of our dear husband and father, G. F. Beers.

Farewell, dear father. Sweet thy rest, Weary with years and worn with pain, Farewell till in some happy place We shall behold thy face again.

Thine ours to miss thee all our years, And tender memories of thee keep: Thine in the Lord to rest, for so He giveth His beloved sleep.

Peaceful be thy silent slumber, Peaceful in thy grave so low, Thou no more will join our number, Thou no more will sorrow know.

Yet again we hope to meet thee When the day of life is fled, And in heaven with joy to greet thee Where no farewell tears are shed.

A precious one from us has gone, A voice we loved is stilled, A place is vacant in our home Which never can be filled.

When we leave this world of care We shall and our missing loved one In our Father's mansion fair.

THE FAMILY.

I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a specific for croup. It is very pleasant to take, which is one of the most important requisites where a cough remedy is intended for use among children. I have known of cases of croup where I know the life of a little one was saved by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy." J. J. THE MARKETS.

Prices Unchanged from the Quotations of Last Week.

The subsidence of the late panic has left prices low on all commodities, with a disposition on the part of consumers to buy sparingly. In consequence stocks are light, with careful regard to not over-replenish.

The wheat market may be said to be the most active, yet prices rule low, and an advance of a cent or more per bushel is not continued for any length of time, the tendency being to decline again to former quotations. The speculative tendency of the season is lighter than formerly, and offerings are reduced.

Quotations are substantially the same as last week, and there is no change in farm produce. Eggs bring 27c cash and 28c in trade and butter 50c per roll. Staple commodities are unchanged.

Wool has not yet shown a tendency of a reaction in price and rules as low as formerly.

Hides and pelts are likewise low and give little encouragement. Beef skins are quoted at $3.50; cayuse 50c@60c; sheep pelts $4@4.50; bear skins $6@8. In the grocery lines prices are unchanged from last week.

During my term of service in the army I contracted chronic diarrhoea, says A. E. Boneing, of Halsey, Oregon. "Since then I have used a great amount of medicine, but when I found any that would give me relief they would injure my stomach, until Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was brought to my notice. I used it and will say it is the only remedy that gave me permanent relief and no bad results follow." For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.
