KILLED FOR A NICKEL

Two Men Fatally Cut By an Ex-Convict.

CAMERON WILL PROBABLY DIE

A Woman Also Badly Slashed—An Unsuccessful Attempt to Wreck an Express Train.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—A cutting affair occurred here last night. James Murry, an ex-convict, and Allan Cameron, a bartender, had a dispute in a saloon about 11 o'clock, over payment for a glass of beer. Murry thereupon attacked Cameron with a knife, stabbing him twice, also rushing upon Juan de Succi, a Portuguese bystander, and cutting him severely. He then ran out, and, colliding with an old woman named Hattie Bird, he cut at her, inflicting a deep wound in the thigh. He was then arrested. The victims were taken to the receiving hospital, where Cameron and Succi were found to be in a critical condition. Cameron will probably die.

Attempt to Wreck a Train.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 30.—An attempt was made last night to wreck No. 6 on the Auburn road, due here at 9:25 p. m. The train, which is an express, was going at a high rate of speed at the time. Charles Breeze, a one-armed tramp, discovered a pile of railroad ties on the track at Railroad Mills, who took a lantern and ran down the track just in time to signal the train. No one was found in the locality, although a number of tramps have been seen in the vicinity within the past few days. The passengers were greatly terrified, and at first thought an attempt was to be made to rob the train. Many hid their valuables in all sorts of convenient places, one man hiding his money between his head and wig. At the point where the attempt to wreck the train was made is a sharp curve with a steep embankment, and had the train struck the obstruction, the result would have undoubtedly been very serious.

The Murderer of Harrison.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Prendergast, is beyond doubt a lunatic, pure and simple. He had studied and read cranky economic theories until his mind gave way. He imagined that he was a reformer. He had schemes for the betterment of all mankind. He was especially interested in the welfare of Chicago, and imagined that he alone could reform the abuses from which the city is suffering. He was especially bitter in his denunciation of the railroad grade crossings, which are responsible for many deaths every year; and the idea became fixed in his mind that if he were made corporation counsel he could solve the problem of elevating all the railroad tracks within the city limits. Long brooding over this subject created the delusion that the mayor had promised him the office. He insisted upon the fulfillment of the imaginary promise. He haunted the municipal building and denounced the city officials. Finally he determined that the mayor was acting in bad faith. This idea grew upon him and he thought of it day and night. His diseased brain was incapable of entertaining any other idea, at least so it seemed. At last he determined to demand from the mayor himself satisfaction for his imaginary wrongs. He had now reached the homicidal stage. He bought a cheap second-hand revolver and called at the mayor's residence. Mr. Harrison, accustomed to the vagaries of all sorts of cranks, treated his demands lightly. Prendergast killed him. That is the story.

Even the Earth is Burning.

FOUR DODGE, Ia., Oct. 30.—Several hundred acres in Humboldt on which this summer was raised the biggest hay crop in Iowa are burning away to ashes. Two years ago the land was several feet under water and was known as Owl lake. It was drained by a big ditch and dried up, leaving a very rich soil. A few days ago when a prairie fire swept over it the soil itself took fire, burning like turf. Any number of interesting fossils remains are exposed to view where the fire has burned out.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Cleveland Has it Worse Than Ever—Troubles of Democrats.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27, 1893.—Circumstances, aided by the toddlers who constantly surround him, have this week greatly aggravated the "big head" with which Mr. Cleveland has for a long time been afflicted. He thinks that it was himself alone who caused the sudden collapse of the opposition to unconditional repeal in the senate and he is in consequence disposed to be more autocratic than ever. The sudden change in the tactics of the senators opposed to the Voorhees bill, while seemingly almost a miracle, is in reality easily accounted for on common sense grounds. It must be remembered to start with that no senator has been at any time opposed to the repeal of the purchasing clause of the silver law. It was the unconditional repeal of that clause that the silver senators opposed, because they thought they could thereby secure a compromise in the shape of an amendment that would provide in some way for the continued coinage of silver money. After Senator Sherman served notice on the democrats, in his great speech, that the republican senators who were committed to unconditional repeal would not aid the democrats in arriving at any compromise the democrats tried to patch up a compromise among themselves, but Mr. Cleveland succeeded in preventing it. It being then plain that no compromise could be reached there was no longer any reason for prolonging the fight; hence the present situation.

To all appearances at this writing the passage of the Voorhees bill by the senate is only a question of a few hours, although there is still a possibility that another dead-lock may be brought about before the final vote is taken.

There are several things that may bring about another dead-lock, chief of which is the belief on the part of many senators that the Voorhees bill should be amended so as to provide for an issue of bonds not only for the purpose of strengthening the gold reserve, but to provide the money to pay the current expenses of the government, the policy or lack of policy, of the democratic administration, and congress having resulted in reducing the receipts of the government from all sources to an extent that is unquestionably alarming.

Senator Sherman has informed the democrats that the republicans considered such an amendment to the bill necessary. The democratic leaders are in a quandary; they know that it will have to come to an issue of bonds sooner or later, but because of the almost solid opposition of the southern senators they fear to propose an amendment themselves and fear to allow the proposition to come from the republicans lest the honor of preserving the credit of the nation should be given by the people to the republicans. They wish to pass the bill without amendment and in the usual democratic style, to allow the question of preserving our national credit to drift along as long as possible.

The government is already, taking Secretary Carlisle's own figures, practically carrying a floating debt that is increasing at the rate of $5,000,000 a month. This is an injustice to the creditors of the government that is absolutely indefensible, from an honorable business point of view.

There are other proposed amendments to the Voorhees bill that may make trouble before they are disposed of, and every one of them will have to be voted upon before the vote upon the original bill can be taken.

Should the Voorhees bill get through the senate all right, and according to present indications it will, it will then have some trouble in the house. But the trouble in the house will be principally that of securing a quorum of repealers, the silver men having served notice that they will not help make it. An attempt is now being made to get the numerous absentees in their seats by Monday. Should it succeed the bill can be put through the house in short order, owing to the existence of cloture.

The democrats of the house do not fancy the idea of having in circulation 4,000 copies of the recent tariff hearings before the ways and means committee; the arguments presented in favor of protection are too nearly unanswerable to suit them.

The house committee decided that only 2,000 copies of the book should be printed for the use of the house, it being tacitly understood that the democrats should suppress as many of those as possible. The senate committee, however, it is said, of a democratic senator who thinks protection a good thing, notwithstanding the Chicago platform's assertion to the contrary, amended the resolution so as to raise the number to 4,000, one-half to be for the use of the senate, and it has been so adopted.

Little opposition will come from any quarter to an immediate adjournment of congress as soon as the silver question shall have been disposed of. There is a general disposition on the part of senators and representatives to go home and talk it all over with their constituents before the beginning of the regular session. And it is more than probable that some of them will hear some unpleasant things when they get back home.

43 TO 32.

The Vote on Repeal—Stocks Take a Temporary Tumble.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 31.—The silver repeal bill which passed the senate last night will not be laid before the house until tomorrow. The vote in the senate was as follows: Ayes 43 (20 dem's, 23 rep's); nays, 32, (18 dem's, 9 rep's, 5 populists.) Stocks in New York and wheat in Chicago have fallen flat in spite of the passage of the repeal bill.

NEWS NOTES.

The grand jury have recommended that Prendergast be held for murder.

The president has nominated E. F. Uhl, of Michigan, assistant secretary of state.

The house committee on territories has been busy several weeks perfecting a bill for the admission of Utah.

It is generally understood the senate will pass the Chinese exclusion bill while the house is considering the silver bill.

The closing day of the world's fair is made gloomy by Mayor Harrison's death and flags are floating at half mast all over the white city.

A crank walked into Edwin Gould's office and demanded $5,000 immediately. He was detained until the police arrived, and was arrested. His name is Andrews. He was once a telegraph operator.

Perhaps some of our readers would like to know in what respect Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better than any other. We will tell you. When this remedy has been taken as soon as a cold has been contracted, and before it has become settled in the system, it will counteract the effect of the cold and greatly lessen its severity, and it's the only remedy that will do this. It acts in perfect harmony with nature and aids nature in relieving the lungs, opening the secretions, liquefying the mucus and causing its expulsion from the air cells of the lungs, and restoring the system to a strong and healthy condition. No other remedy in the market possesses these remarkable properties. No other will cure a cold so quickly. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.
