WEDNESDAY, NOV. 1, 1893

Gov. Penoyer is reported to have said that he will stump the state in the next state campaign for the populists and hopes that they will control the next legislature.

The home of ex-President Garfield, a farm in Mentor, Ohio, is to be cut up into lots and made the nucleus of a town to be called Garfield. The project is a worthy one, provided the location calls for something of the kind, and will perpetuate the name of Garfield. It is about twenty miles from the center of the city of Cleveland, and wealthy citizens of that place are said to be interested in the project.

The Connecticut women suffrage association introduced to the last legislature the bill which resulted in granting to women school suffrage. A large number of women took advantage of the new law by voting at the recent town elections, thus giving promise that with systematic action in the future, the majority of the women in the state could be led to exercise this right.

Four years out of five, says the Scientific American, the ice packs in so heavily between Point Barrow and the mouth of the Mackenzie that it is impossible for vessels to penetrate it, but more frequently there is an open sea off to the northeast from Point Barrow. This direction, however, is regarded as a death trap by the whalers, and is religiously avoided. It is such a trap as De Long deliberately went into after being cautioned in the strongest terms by whaling masters not to be enticed into it. There have been seasons during the past twenty years when this northeastern ice entirely disappeared, and about ten years ago one whaling master, who was determined to find whales, if any were to be found, took the risk and went in this direction some two or three hundred miles, as he estimated. Even then he did not reach any barrier. The water was free from ice, and from whales, too; hence he returned rather than risk going farther and stand the chance of the ice closing in on him from behind. But he reported finding considerable driftwood and seeing land birds. This led him to believe that land yet unknown and unexplored was not very far away.

Mark Twain's Latest Romance of an Esquimau Maiden.

A magazine is usually satisfied with one strong feature for the month. The Cosmopolitan, however, presents for November no less than five very unusual ones. William Dean Howells gives the first of the letters of the traveler, who has been visiting this country from Altruria. We have read Mr. Howells' impressions of the Altrurian; but in this first letter we have the Altrurian's impressions of New York, with some comments upon our government and society, calculated to awaken the most conservative minds. The second feature of the Cosmopolitan is the portion of the magazine given up to color work, no less than ten superb color illustrations being presented for the first time in magazine history, accompanying an article by Mrs. Roger A. Pryor on "Changes in Women's Costumes." The third feature is "American Notes," by Walter Besant, who was recently in America and is doing the United States for The Cosmopolitan a la Dickens. The fourth feature is an article by General Badeau on "The Forms of Invitation Used by the English Nobility." The article is illustrated by the facsimile cards to the Queen's drawing-room, to dinner at the Princess of Wales, and to many leading houses of England. Finally, we have a new and very curious story by Mark Twain, called "The Esquimau Maiden's Romance." It is in his happiest vein and is illustrated by Dan Beard. The November number presents the work of many artists, among whom are: C. S. Reinhart, Otto Guillonnet, J. H. Harper, G. Hudson, Franz von Lenbach, George Wharton Edwards, F. Schuyler Matthews, Dan Beard, W. L. Sonntag, Jr., F. G. Attwood, C. Hirschberg, J. Habert-Dys, August Franzen, Louis J. Read, J. N. Hutchins and Hamilton Gibson.

IBSEN'S deepest regret is that he does not speak English, and cannot, therefore, reach the hearts of the people. Nearly all the other dramatic writers seem to be trying to reach their pockets.

ODD CORNERS.

NORWAY men cannot vote unless they have been vaccinated.

AUSTRALIA'S summer is said to be so hot that matches accidentally dropped on the ground often become ignited.

IN Turkish Asia Minor such is the condition of the roads that the freight of a ton of grain one hundred miles would be over forty-five dollars.

THE Eskimo Bulletin is the only journal published in the arctic circle. It is printed at Cape Prince of Wales, Alaska, and is issued only once a year.

THE inhabitants of Thibet are the dirtiest people on earth. Not only do they never wash, but when once full grown has been attained they never take off their clothes. When the garments they wear become old others are put over them.
