

The Daughters of Eve Inherited Curiosity and many are the questions that have been asked us about the

Handkerchiefs

which we displayed Saturday evening. To satisfy their curiosity, we state that early in the summer we placed a generous order with the New York representative of a Swiss manufacturer, and these are the goods that called forth so much admiration.

OCTOBER OLIO.

A Savory Mess From Miscellaneous News Bits.

Mr. Chas. Frazier is putting up a fine residence in Thompson's addition.

Owing to the death of Dr. Rinehart the meeting of the whist club will be indefinitely postponed.

A lady friend tells us this cold weather is deadly to the prospect of the chrysanthemums.

A typographical error yesterday made us say dollars' worth instead of ounces in the leading editorial.

Mr. F. A. Seufert brought in a box of fine Salway peaches this morning, of excellent flavor and without blemish.

The civil case of Martha Perkins vs.
A. Wilson was tried in Justice Davis' court yesterday and continued till Friday.

The city council will meet tonight to elect a mayor from their number and appoint another councilman to fill the vacancy.

A party recently arrived from Youngstown, Ohio, a town of 35,000 inhabitants, says that at the present time 4,000 people are being fed daily by the people there.

The fair grounds near The Dalles are to be sold at public auction on the 6th inst. This is to satisfy a mortgage and the grounds will be sold intact with all improvements.

Last evening was cold and blustery and a light film of snow fell at Vanbib-ber's and on the hills, while a few flakes came drifting down in the city to remind us of winter's near approach.

There is a report out that the cow ordinance is a dead letter and that is the reason the cows are foraging in the door yards after night. The council ought to look into this matter this evening.

Mei Dustin, who was arrested for rape and not a true bill returned by the grand jury at the last term of the court at Canyon City, and William McCoy have been arrested and placed under $1,000 bonds for carrying tools to the jail to aid Moore and Ritter to escape, who were sentenced to eight years for robbery.

A new clothing store will be opened in the Miller building, No. 166 Second street, by Mr. Honywill, who evidently believes printers' ink is the first requirement for a successful business, as evidenced by his advertisement in another column, before he has even received his goods or opened up. Success to Mr.
Honywill.

The ladies of the First Christian church have made some nice homemade comforters, which they have placed in the store of C. F. Stephens, which he will sell at reasonable prices.
The ladies are very desirous of obtaining money for charitable purposes and it is hoped the citizens will help them in their laudable endeavor.

On account of the death of Dr. W. E.
Rinehart, which occurred yesterday at Summerville, the Mignonette Dancing club will postpone their masquerade, which was to be given Friday evening, till a week from that date. The executive committee will issue invitations for dancing to the first four names which are handed to them. A limited number of spectators will be invited.

SOLDIERS' HOME CASE.

Injunction Set Aside and the Trustees
Can Go Ahead.

A dispatch from Salem to the Oregonian states that the Soldiers' Home is in exactly the same position it was prior to the injunction suit brought before Judge Bennett last spring—that is, the trustees named by the governor can now proceed in the matter of locating the institution. This condition of things was brought today by a decision handed down in the supreme court by Associate Judge F. A. Moore. The title of the case was: D. C. Sherman, respondent, vs. A. J. Fellows, James Byron, J. W. Mullan, Charles Nickell and S. S. Train, as trustees of the Oregon Soldiers' Home, appellants; appeal from Linn county. Judgment of lower court reversed, demurrer sustained and cause remanded for such further proceedings as are necessary. Then follows the opinion, which is too lengthy to reproduce.

This case has been the precedent to decide for us the location of the Eastern Oregon insane asylum, and there is now nothing to hinder the decision being announced and arrangements begun at once for its erection.

Surprise Party.

A surprise party was given Archie Barnett last evening, at which were present: Masters Frank Chase, Eugene Chrisman, George Ruch, Clyde Riddell, Harry Fredden, Gay Chase, Rowland Wiley, John McNeil, Misses Lizzie Martha and Berna Schooling, Fannie Cheesman, Nettie Fredden, Rachel Morgan, Edith Fisher, Clara Nickelsen, Hilda Beck, Katie Sargeant, Susie Chase.
The evening was pleasantly passed with games, lunch and the usual features of a surprise party.

Dr. W. E. Rinehart's Death.

The sad news reached this city last evening of the death at Summerville, of Dr. W. E. Rinehart, mayor of The Dalles. The disease which robbed him of his life was appendicitis, from which he has been suffering but a short time.
His death will be a blow to the community in which he lived, and his place in the city government, in medicine and in society cannot easily be filled. He discharged his duties to the municipality with a single-heartedness fortunate for its interests and highly commendable to himself. His mission, cut short by the decree of fate, was to place The Dalles at the highest point of sanitary perfection and to this he gave an energy and thoughtfulness which can never be effaced. In society he was an ornament and leader, and the several societies to which he belonged will keenly feel his loss. As a physician and surgeon, he was not excelled in The Dalles, and had he lived his allotted three score and ten, would have had a state reputation, for he was a successful practitioner and an indefatigable student.

His demise must have been very sudden, but owing to the meagre telegraphic service, Summerville being located fifteen miles from the railroad, nothing further can be learned at this writing. Only the day before his death he wrote a letter to a friend here stating he had suffered terribly, but felt better that morning, well enough indeed to write, and that his physician said he would recover.

Dr. W. E. Rinehart was born in Benton county, Oregon, in 1860, and was educated in Salem in both the literary and medical departments. He then attended eastern schools, graduating from the Jefferson Medical college, Philadelphia and Bellevue Medical college, New York, and arrived home to practice before he was 20 years old. Practicing medicine in Union county seven years and Portland three years, he came to The Dalles, where he has now been for four years. During his residence in Portland he was professor of anatomy and clinical surgery in the Willamette Medical college and chief surgeon of Portland hospitals. He has been the president of the Oregon State Medical association, all of which honors for so young a man shows the high esteem in which he was held by the medical fraternity. He also pursued business successfully in Union county in the milling and land interests.

On March 15th, 1882, Dr. Rinehart was married to Miss Belle Cooper, at the First Congregational church of The Dalles. Since that time four children have been born to them, all boys. Less than a year ago the deceased completed his fine residence on the bluff, where he has lived up to the time of his illness.
He leaves his family well provided for, having carried a large insurance on his life.

A telegram received this afternoon states that his body will be brought to this city on Friday, and he will be interred in Sunset cemetery.

Pretty Near Gone.

Mrs. Lizzie Loryea McCalla is, according to report, at about the end of her career. Being a confirmed user of liquor and morphine, she is now a helpless wreck. It is reported that some one has money belonging to her, but that she cannot get it and is therefore compelled to live in abject poverty in a room in the Gilman block. She took the cure at one time, but it did not cure. A doctor or some other person visits her every afternoon and gives her a hypodermic injection of morphine, without which she would become a raving maniac.
The daughter of a rich father, the wife of a prominent physician in her time, surrounded by the luxuries of splendid homes, she now finds herself before the portals of the poor house, with the potter's field awaiting her. If life is worth saving here is a chance for the philanthropic to exert themselves.—Dispatch.
