NOVEMBER NUGGETS.

Our Daily Clean-up From In and About the City.

The turkey, bird of promise. 'Tis sure to say he'll have his wish 'Till his neck's Thanksgiving.

Regular city council meeting tonight. Sweets to the sweet. Read Herrin's ad this week. It explains it all.

Herrin has the sweetest ad. in town this week. See Garretson's window.

The Epworth League will meet at their room this evening at 7:30. A full attendance is requested.

A dime social will be given by the Good Intent society next Wednesday evening at the Methodist church.

The public schools were closed this morning, as well as the stores, in respect to the memory of Dr. W. E. Rinehart.

M. Honywill regrets that, due to delays of timber and goods, the opening of his store will be postponed till Tuesday next.

Do you like candy? Go to Herrin's gallery Saturday night, Nov. 11th, at 7:30 o'clock. The candy in the jar will be distributed after the guessing contest.

The case of F. M. Splawn vs. The Dalles and Rockland Ferry Company, which has been on trial in Goldendale, ended yesterday by the jury giving the plaintiff a verdict of $600. The damages claimed were $3,000, but the jury thought the former sum would cover the injuries.

Some unknown marauder broke into Mr. S. B. Adams' barn last night, turning a valuable stallion loose which was tied inside. Opening an inner door and leaving it open he stole part of a sack of wheat and some chickens. The horse finding his way to the grain through the door, ate so much of it that he foundered.

Guessing on Candy.

Mr. D. C. Herrin, the photographer, has placed in Mr. W. E. Garretson's show window a jar of candy containing 1,000 pieces (more or less) and the one who guesses nearest the number will be rewarded by a life-size crayon, in the artist's best style. The window contains a beautiful picture of Mr. Herrin's little girl, and Mr. Frank Garretson attracts further attention to it by focusing a transit glass and kodak upon it from different directions, with dolls looking through them. The guesses count nothing, the privilege being granted to every one who ever had Herrin take their picture, and this means everybody, of course. The contest will close Saturday night, November 11th.

Pasturage.

Moore's ranch, about three miles south of The Dalles, has unexcelled pasturage and any one who desires to avail themselves of the fact can secure reasonable terms upon application.

She Was Tugged Out.

An Indian woman who keeps up with the style of fashions was a passenger on the Regulator this morning for White Salmon. She was noticeable for her fine wearing apparel, which might well excite the envy of some of her white sisters. Her dress was of green silk plush, cut in the latest style, and as she caught it up in one hand with perfect nimbleness of a coquette, she exposed to view the embroidered edge of a white skirt, while her kid shoes shown with pristine lustre. She carried a chenille shawl of purple hue, and her head was adorned with, as the ladies would say, "a love of a bonnet." A back view of this elegant creature was pleasing, but when looking at her copper-hued face and coarse black hair, the impression was irresistible that she would look far more natural in a brilliant red and green blanket, her legs encased in leggings, with a pappose slung on her back. The Indian is not designed by nature for a society swell.

An Important Measure.

A petition, liberally signed by the property owners of Second street, will be presented to the city council tonight. It is worded as follows: We, the undersigned, your petitioners, would respectfully represent and ask at your hands as follows: "That Second street is in need of repairs and that if we are allowed the privilege of placing the rock crushed on said street, that we will place the same at our own expense, provided that the city will furnish said rock so prepared free of charge." It will doubtless receive favorable consideration.

THE BEST PLASTER.—Dampen a piece of flannel with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bind it on over the seat of pain. It is better than any plaster. When the lungs are sore such an application on the chest and another on the back, between the shoulder blades, will often prevent pneumonia. There is nothing so good for a lame back or a pain in the side. A sore throat can nearly always be cured in one night by applying a flannel bandage dampened with Pain Balm. 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.

WOOD, WOOD, WOOD. Best grades of oak, fir, and slab cord wood, at lowest market rates at Jos. T. Peters & Co. (Office Second and Jefferson streets.)

Good Job Printing. If you have your job printing done at THE CHRONICLE you will have the advantage of having it done with the most modern and approved type, with which we keep continually supplied. All jobs under the direct supervision of one of the most successful and artistic printers in the Northwest.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. R. R. Hinton of Antelope is in the city calling on old friends.

Mrs. J. R. Taylor of Bellingham Bay is visiting Mrs. G. F. Beers of this city.

Mrs. Smith French was a passenger this morning on the steamer Regulator for Dalles.

Mr. D. W. Claypool of Prineville arrived last evening and will remain in the city several days.

Mrs. E. C. Warren and daughter, Miss A. Godfrey, both from Dufur, left on the Regulator for Portland, to visit relatives and friends.

Mr. J. H. Rinehart of Summerville, father of Dr. Rinehart, and Miss Lulu Rinehart, a sister, were present at the deceased mayor's funeral this morning.

Dr. J. Sutherland, a former resident of The Dalles, is in the city. He has just returned from Goldendale, where he was a witness in a case before the court.

Mrs. Urquhart, who lives on the hill, was stricken with paralysis Wednesday, or something closely resembling it. The affection was the result of an attack of diphtheria some time ago, but up till the day named had not assumed a serious phase.

NEWS OF THE STATE.

The Herald is agitating the question of raising money for a brass band at Antelope.

George Harper of Georgia has been nominated for Indian agent at Umatilla agency, Oregon.

Antelope and Prineville baseballists are "talking" of playing a matched game for the championship of the bunch grass hills of Eastern Oregon.

Testimony brings out the fact that the officers of the steamer Emore are subject to censure for not checking their speed, which probably was the cause of death of two of the electric car disaster. Bert Odell, Will Hutchison and Ralph Smith of Union did not return to their homes Tuesday and no trace of them has yet been found. They are each about 17 years of age, and have probably run away.

According to a disciple of Mrs. Williams, there will be an ascension some of these days that will be a starter. Her followers, located in various parts of the city, says the Telegram, are daily working on their new white robes, which are made something like a Mother Hubbard with wing attachments and their slippers are also made of white material. The disciple further stated that this ascension had long been anticipated, that they were prepared for it, and that their seat would just as surely go up bodily at the proper time as the sun would shine.

FUNERAL OF THE MAYOR.

W. E. Rinehart Consigned to Earth. Attended By a Large Concourse.

One of the saddest funerals The Dalles has ever seen was held this morning. Dr. Rinehart had not lived many years in this community but the outspoken expressions and hidden evidences of sorrow at his death showed the affection and esteem with which he was regarded by those who knew him and to whom he had been a source of comfort and ministrations. At five o'clock last evening his body was placed in the Masonic hall where friends took their last leave of him. The Masons, of whose order Dr. Rinehart was a cherished member, held their services at half past eight this morning. Kind hands had decorated the Congregational church with flowers and many who wished to show in some way their feeling of loss had sent floral offerings till the casket was covered with a mantle of white. There were offerings from those who felt that they had received their lives at his hands. At an early hour the church was filled by persons of all walks in life, gathered for a common purpose—to show their respect of the dead. The city council and officials, the Masons and the Workmen, to which lodge Dr. Rinehart also belonged, occupied the center of the church. As the casket was borne up the aisle, followed by the mourning friends and comrades, the writer thought he had never seen a more sympathetic audience nor a sight more affecting the emotions. There were those in the church who felt towards Dr. Rinehart as only those can who have placed their reliance in the skill and sympathy of a tender physician. Others who had not perhaps so intimate an interest in him still thought of how a bright, young, ambitious and promising life had been cut down ere it had fairly started. At the age of thirty-three years Dr. Rinehart has ceased his work—a work in which his whole attention was absorbed and one not bounded by selfish interests but devoted to relieving pain wherever found. It seems as though, knowing how soon the sands of his life were to run out, he had compressed a large and useful life into a brief space.

The Congregational choir sang two touching selections, followed by an earnest prayer by Rev. Mr. Jenkins. The service was brief and impressive. Rev. Mr. Jenkins spoke of what a shock to the community the death of Dr. Rinehart had proved. He spoke of the man who no longer lived, and said that three things had made up his successful life—accuracy, skill and fidelity. These were Dr. Rinehart's to a marked degree.

The procession to the cemetery was probably the largest ever in The Dalles, over fifty carriages being in line. The firemen in uniform led the way while the Masons conducted the ceremony at the grave. The pall bearers were Chas. Hiltton, T. A. Hudson, Geo. Gibbons, Dr. Eshelman, Dr. Snedaker and Geo. C. Blakeley. During the forenoon all the business houses of the town were closed and the quiet was only broken by the tolling of the fire bell as the city's mayor was carried to his grave. The mayor is dead—a patriotic and enterprising citizen, a good, kind doctor is dead! Dr. Rinehart has left his impress on the life of The Dalles and now that he is gone the city mourns.

Mr. W. M. Terry, who has been in the drug business at Elkton, Ky., for the past twelve years, says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any other cough medicine I have ever sold." There is good reason for this. No other will cure a cold so quickly; no other is so certain a preventive and cure for croup; no other affords so much relief in cases of whooping cough. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.

GENTLEMEN—I am subject to periodical attacks of sick headache of the worst possible type, and commenced taking Krause's Headache Capsules last summer. They cure it in every instance, and since that time I am enjoying splendid health and have gained ten pounds in weight. Yours very truly, F. M. DANIELS, Col. 4th, Iowa.
