LETTERS MARKED "RUSH."

An Attempt to Discover Why They Are Thus Treated.

It is a legend in the telegraph office that the sender takes a pile of messages, and, sorting out those marked "rush," puts them at the bottom of the pile. There is also a class of communicants that every newspaper office knows which marks its letters "rush." It will never be known just what these writers expect, says the Minneapolis Journal. Possibly it is that when the letter is received by the post office authorities the wheels of Uncle Sam's mighty engine for the distribution of mail will stop while the postmaster seizes his hat and rushes out to deliver the letter personally. If anybody sees the postmaster tearing across town, break-neck speed, he may know that the postmaster is delivering a "rush" letter. Usually a letter marked "rush" bears a message somewhat as follows:

"HASTY, Minn., Sept. 11.—John Q. Montgomery died yesterday of old age. He will be seriously missed in our beautiful village. John L. Johnson raised a potato on his lower forty this year that weighed eighteen ounces. Frank Williamson was taken to the insane asylum yesterday."

Sometimes a man will send a letter marked "rush" containing a check or a postal order. Then it goes to the business office and is not opened but sent to the news editor for the supposition that it contains news. The news editor grows at the chump that sent it and sends it back to the business office. And so a letter marked "rush" is usually delayed.

WINANS

THE NEW TOWN has been platted on the old camp ground, at the Forks and Falls of Hood river, with large, slightly lots, broad streets and alleys, good soil and pure water, with shade in profusion, perfect drainage, delightful mountain climate, the central attraction as a mountain summer resort for all Oregon, being the nearest town to Mt. Hood. It is unparalleled as a manufacturing center, being the natural center for 100 square miles of the best cedar and fir timber, possessing millions of horse-power in its dashing streams and waterfalls, easily harnessed. Where cheap motive power exists, there the many factories will center, surrounded by soil and climate that cannot be equalled anywhere for fruit and agriculture, and with transportation already assured you will find this the place to make a perfect home or a paying investment.

Address me on the ground, or address me at Hood River Wasco County, Oregon.
