NOVEMBER NUGGETS.

Our Daily Clean-up From In and About the City.

Grover, take good care of that presidential chair. For William McKinley is to sit right there. —Spokane Review.

A carload of fruit trees arrived on the Regulator yesterday, for shipment to Spokane.

The Mignonette masquerade dancing party occurs tonight. The grand march begins at 8:30 sharp.

The ground is thoroughly saturated and any considerable rainfall from now on must raise the river.

The district convention of the Epworth League meets at Goldendale on the 20th to the 27th of the present month.

Work on the rock crusher was temporarily suspended today on account of a misunderstanding as to who may use the rock. Anybody is welcome to it if they will dispose of some of this muck on our principal streets.

Mr. H. Corson died last night about 5 o'clock at his residence. Deceased is about 55 years old, and has resided in the county some twelve years. He was recently stricken with paralysis, from which he never rallied, though hopes were entertained that he might by some good fortune pull through.

Mrs. Martin of Blalock, while on the bed with her child, had her shoulder bone broken. The child had learned while playing with other children to use its head as a weapon, and by butting its mother on the upper part of the arm broke her shoulder. Dr. Geisendorfer attended to the patient and set the broken bone. —Arlington Record.

The marshal was busy yesterday notifying expressman and hotel runners to pay their license. As a consequence the recorder received considerable money. The council evince a determination to enforce the ordinances. This is commendable, as it will purge us of the bad, and direct more respectful attention to the good ones.

A class in natural history was called up for recitation. The teacher talked to them about the relations of friendship between man and animals, and then asked a girl: "Do animals really possess the sentiment of affection?" "Yes, almost always," answered the little girl. "And now," said the teacher turning to a little boy, "tell me what animals have the greatest natural fondness for man." "Woman," said the boy.

It is stated that Theodore Liebe's recovery is only a matter of a few days. The German residents of Portland, says the Oregonian, are very much excited over the tragedy, and public opinion is divided as to where the blame lies. Many are inclined to sympathize with Hoes, who, they think, was persecuted. Others say that, although Mr. Liebe has the reputation of being a hard man, he has always proved himself a just one.

The Boston store, C. E. Roosevelt proprietor, was burglarized Wednesday night. The thieves effected an entrance through a glass door in the rear. Forty suits of men's clothing and 12 overcoats were taken, all of the best quality. To take away the plunder, a wagon was brought up near the rear entrance. Not the slightest noise was made, and the robbery was not discovered until the store was opened this morning. The robbery was skillfully planned and executed, and no trace of the robbers has yet been secured. —Oregonian.

A Shameful Act.

Another sanguinary fight between small boys occurred Wednesday near the school grounds. The youthful combatants pounded each other up until they could hardly see, and blood was streaming from many wounds. They would not have fought so long or so hard, but they were cheered and encouraged by those who call themselves men, but whose only claim to the distinction is their years. The little contestants were thus taught a demoralizing lesson that will help them on the road to the penitentiary, and perhaps rob some future law-abiding citizen of his life. Then there were numbers of little boys of all ages watching the contest, all of whom left with the idea that it is smart and manly to fight. It would have been a mercy to have arrested these boys and taught that it is disgraceful to fight, rather than encourage them in lawlessness. As the twig is bent the tree is inclined. A boy who will fight at every provocation makes a man who will kill another in the heat of passion. And since circumstances and education makes us all what we are, the crime really rests upon these thoughtless men who made the boys fight in childhood. Shame upon such conduct.

Deserted Her Family.

Mrs. R. D. White, who lived in Klickitat, Wash., a few miles from Arlington, left her husband and family of five children a few days ago and went out into the world. She is a woman of prepossessing appearance and more than ordinary intelligence, but seems to have become infatuated with the idea that she is worthy of a higher or more pleasant life than staying at home with her husband and attending to the duties incumbent on a wife and mother. All good people will pity her, but not one will say she did right. Her own conscience will continually upbraid her. She cannot go down on her knees and ask God to forgive and smile on her. None but the vicious will tolerate her, and they even will despise and scorn her. There is nothing possible for her to do but to return to her family, acknowledge the wrong she has done them, and by a life devoted to their happiness, place herself in a position so that she can be forgiven. —Arlington Record.

The Road to 15-Mile.

THE CHRONICLE is a friend of good roads—knowing that such are the greatest blessing that can be bestowed upon the country and towns tributary to them. Every dollar put in to remedy a bad road yields ten, and the dollar is left to start a second ten. A hill leveled or a depression filled in is not for a season, but forever. The present road to 15-Mile, which has been traveled so long that it seems to some of the farmers a fixture by nature never to be remedied, is a shame to Wasco county. A new one has been surveyed and some preliminary work done upon it, dispensing with the steep grades and shortening the distance. Half as much again can be pulled every load over the new route, which of itself is enough to double the value of every acre of tillable land, and make lasting prosperity. Not only this, but many of the roads and highways of the state are in such a wretched condition that the general prosperity of the country is actually impeded thereby. In the last half century improvements have been going on in every other way than the one to place the farmers on a prosperous footing. It is scarcely to be wondered at that there is an agricultural depression, when a practical embargo is thus placed upon travel. The county commissioners are now considering this road to 15-Mile, and they should have every encouragement. If they persevere to the end and finish this road in the allotted four years, there is none who will not rise up and call them blessed, however much dissatisfaction may exist at present. The precedents of the old brewery hill grade and the grading up of our principal streets should show this, which at the time these improvements were going on, were loudly decried.

A Prosperous People.

The richest peasants in Europe are found in a province in Schleswig-Holstein. These Vierlanders raise early vegetables for the great cities of northern Europe. They supply flowers to the courts of St. Petersburg and Berlin. Their costumes are one of the sacred traditions of the country and not to be modified, come what may. The women wear little caps with stiffly starched bows of silk, over this a straw hat which looks as if it were upside down. Their skirts are short, the aprons full plaited. The bodices are white with a sort of zouave jacket of bright colors. The silver jewelry is the pride of their lives. The men wear small clothes, long waistcoats trimmed with silver buttons, a long jacket and a quite ordinary looking cap.

MARKET REPORT.

Butter Declines Sharply—Wheat as Low as It Can Get.

FRIDAY, NOV. 10.—The markets are very dull in all lines, and the same can be said of business and trade. The merchants complain of a limited traffic, which is confined to a local or city demand for a home consumption. The provision and produce traffic, owing to the large supply, is very dull. The only thing noticeable is a decline in fresh butter and is quoted at 40 to 50 cents per roll. Eggs have declined a trifle, as the offerings are a little more free, and the market is better supplied at 25 cents per dozen cash, and 27 1/2 cents per dozen in trade.

Poultry is steady at former quotations. Our dealers in the city say turkeys are quoted at 7 and 8 cents per pound undressed.

The grain market is as near the bottom as it is possible for it to get. The Portland market quotation is 49 to 50 cents per bushel, a price never known on the coast since the discovery of gold in California. The European markets, from advices received, indicate a dull and sluggish condition. Russia is sending her surplus wheat into English and French markets, and the bears are using the influence of it, to their advantage, which controlled as it is, depresses American markets. Our own market is dull and lifeless in the cereal line. The mill is paying 45 cents per bushel for A1 grade of wheat.

Drake and others and "beginning at a point on the east boundary of Dalles City limits, five chains west and thirty feet north of the northwest corner of the R. R. The religious statistics of the census of 1890 reveal the fact that out of our total population of 63,000,000 there are 20,043,000 members of Christian churches. This is or is not a hopeful outlook, according to the point of view. If we look at the 40,000,000 of non-Christian people of the United States we may well feel appalled at the frightful momentum of paganism.—Hartford Religious Herald.
