TROUBLE IS CERTAIN

If Cleveland Attempts to Restore Monarchy.

SENTIMENT AGAINST THE QUEEN

Will Have to Be Kept on the Throne by Force—Next Issue in Hawaii.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—Hawaii in San Francisco are wondering how the royal faction obtains its inside news. From the day the queen was deposed she and her supporters have never lost confidence in their cause. They have made predictions as to the action of the United States that have invariably been verified, and the annexationists in Honolulu, when they heard the queen had ordered new uniforms for her retainers, hardly knew what to think. It is the opinion of those who came up from Honolulu on the China that the annexationists will make no resistance if the United States orders the queen put back, but this government will have to keep a force of men constantly on shore to maintain her on the throne, and that will practically amount to annexation, with the singular anomaly of a territory of the United States being governed by a woman who calls herself a queen.

In the Next Campaign.

New York, Nov. 13.—A correspondent at Honolulu says the provisional government expects to be able to perpetuate itself till the next presidential election in the United States, when it is expected annexation will be an issue and will win.

Tragic Fate of Three Parties Who Were Concerned.

DOUGLASSVILLE, Tex., Nov. 13.—Julius Larnsky, a wealthy Pole, had a beautiful daughter. She loved Nothan Sorowski, who was poor. Trinidad Romer, a Mexican who was rich, fell in love with her. The girl's father favored the rich man's suit. Recently he told Romer that if he could get rid of Sorowski he could have his daughter. The poor suitor disappeared. Romer won the daughter and Saturday night he married her. There was a big wedding feast and the happy Mexican drank too much. He made a speech, in which he said he had killed his rival and done so at the suggestion of Larnsky. He had no sooner spoken than the bride seized a knife and attacked him. Her father caught her arm and drew her back. Then she cut her own throat, dying in a few minutes. Larnsky then got a shotgun and shot the bridegroom, killing him instantly. In the confusion, Sorowski, the poor suitor, arrived. He explained that Romer had given him $1,300 to go to Eddy, N. M., to transact some business for him with a man there. He searched all over Eddy and finally found that no such man existed. Larnsky, the father, is now a maniac.

The State of Idaho Lost.

The steamer State of Idaho, which plies between Bonner's Ferry, Idaho, and Kaslo, B. C., connecting with the Great Northern at the former point, sank near Ainsworth, E. C., and is a total loss. The passengers were saved. The State of Idaho was a fine steamer, and cost $23,000. She was owned by Captain S. B. Shaw, who was in command, Capt. H. F. DuPuy of Spokane, C. S. Rutter of Spokane, and the Great Northern railway. The accident was caused by collision with a rock in the darkness. Only a portion of the bow was visible above water at last reports.

Look at the size of the ordinary pill. Think of all the trouble and disturbance that it causes you. Wouldn't you welcome something easier to take, and easier in its ways, if at the same time it did you more good? That is the case with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They're the smallest in size, the mildest in action, but the most thorough and far-reaching in results. They follow nature's methods, and they give help that lasts. Constipation, indigestion, bilious attacks, sick and bilious headaches, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels are promptly relieved and permanently cured.

"If we can't cure your catarrh, no matter how bad your case or of how long standing, we'll pay you $500 in cash." That is what is promised by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Doesn't it prove better than any words could, that this is a remedy that cures catarrh? Costs only 50 cents.

Shiloh's cure, the Great Cough and Croup Cure, is for sale by Snipes & Kinnersly. Pocket size contains twenty-five doses, only 25c. Children love it. Sold by Snipes & Kinnersly.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

The Democrats Had Umbrellas, But No Life-Preservers.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10, 1893.

Panic-stricken is the only expression that will correctly describe the condition of the administration and the democratic congressmen in Washington. Private John Allen, as one of the Mississippi congressmen is jeocularly called, puts it epigrammatically: "We had umbrellas, but no life-preservers; were prepared for a considerable shower, but not for a cloudburst." The democrats from Mr. Cleveland down know that the feeble explanation of an "off year" is ridiculous when compared with the terrible rebuke which the intelligent voters in what have been regarded as pivotal states have just given to the democratic administration and congress. They feel and they cannot hide it that the grand republican triumph is but the shadow of another triumph in '94, when the people will protect themselves and all they hold most dear by electing a republican majority of the house of representatives, and of the grander triumph of '96, which will restore the government in all its branches to the republican party, the only party that believes in legislating for the prosperity of Americans first, last and all the time, in a sound financial policy and in taking care of the men who took care of the country in its hour of need—the old soldiers, who have been so shamefully treated by the democratic administration.

Gov. McKinley's name is on the tongue of every jubilant republican you meet, and they are all jubilant. Gov. McKinley has always been popular with republicans in congress and in Washington, and predictions are heard on all sides—some even from democrats—that the unprecedented majority the Ohio republicans have given him will make him the next president of the United States, if he lives and keeps his health. McKinley and Reed is already a favorite ticket, and that they would make a strong, typical and a winning ticket is certain.

Speculation is rife as to what effect the great republican victories will have upon the democratic tariff bill. Your correspondent does not pretend to enjoy the confidence of the democratic bosses who are directing the construction of that measure, but he knows there is consternation among the democratic members of the house ways and means committee; that Chairman Wilson has been in almost constant consultation with Mr. Cleveland since the elections, and that prominent democrats who favor limited protection are confident that the result of the elections will do what all of their pleadings have hitherto failed to do—curb the free trade propensities of Mr. Cleveland, and prevent the new tariff bill being as hurtful to American wage-earners as it was originally intended to be. Indeed, some of them say that the bill would have been reported before the adjournment of congress had not Mr. Cleveland been persuaded to have it held back until after the election, to meet the very contingency that now exists.

Hon. Patrick Egan, who so creditably filled the position of U. S. minister to Chili under the Harrison administration, was in Washington this week. His knowledge of South American conditions and politics would make his opinion of the present status and probable result of the revolution in Brazil both valuable and interesting, but he positively declined all invitations to talk for publication on any subject. I was informed by a gentleman who is a warm personal friend of both men that Mr. Egan was invited to Washington by Secretary Gresham in order that the administration might get the benefit of his opinion regarding the Brazilian situation.

The administration must have had a sort of premonition of the republican landslide, as Secretary Carlisle was sent to New York by Mr. Cleveland before election to try to get the Wall street men to promise to aid in carrying out the financial policy of the administration, whatever that may be. That was certainly a proceeding that was characteristic of the democratic party, which has always tried to be all things to all men. It will be remembered that only a few short weeks ago the democratic press was ringing with praise of Secretary Carlisle and Mr. Cleveland, for having, as they alleged, snubbed the delegation of Wall street men who came to Washington to tender the administration some financial advice. What will they say now about Secretary Carlisle having been sent by Mr. Cleveland to humbly beg for the advice which they praised him for having once indignantly refused? But it doesn't matter much what they say; intelligent voters will not get their information from democratic papers.

DARING BANK ROBBERY.

Three Robbers Secure $1,000 From the Milton First National.

PENDELTON, OR., Nov. 13.—The bank at Milton, 30 miles north of this point, was robbed by desperadoes about 3 o'clock this afternoon. Three men, well mounted, rode into Milton during a dense fog and dismounted near the First National bank. One held the horses while two entered the bank. The president, A. Hopson, the cashier, N. A. Davis, and assistant cashier, Chas. Hopson, were in the bank. They were covered by pistols in the hands of two of the robbers, who demanded money. The bank officials hesitated and Hopson attempted to reach a pistol. The robbers fired immediately three shots, one of which struck Hopson in the arm and another in the side. One wound was both serious and painful. Cashier Davis was missed by the bullet, but had his face badly powder-burned. Hopson and Davis kept quiet, while Chas. Hopson, the assistant cashier, handed one thousand dollars in gold from the till. The robbers quickly backed out of the bank, mounted the horses and were out of sight in the heavy fog before an alarm could be given. The deputy sheriff, with a posse of five men, started in pursuit shortly after the alarm was given. Poses also left Athena and Weston and the alarm is now general. Poses sent out by Sheriff Furnish of Pendleton are ordered to take the robbers dead or alive. One of them is middle aged and stout, the two others are young, one tall and the other medium. They had good horses, one black, one gray and one bay. They started toward Linkton mountain, but it is believed they doubled and were seen going toward Wallula.

THE TOLEDO WEEKLY BLADE

And Book Containing all the Nasby Letters for One Dollar.

In answer to a general demand from all parts of the United States, the Toledo Blade has published in one volume, cloth bound, all of the "Nasby Letters" ever written by the late D. R. Locke, omitting perhaps a few unimportant letters on local or forgotten topics. Only a few of these letters were ever published in book form. Everybody has read some of them, but who has read all of them? The book contains over 500 large pages, and all the Nasby Letters written during a period of twenty-five years; also a portrait of D. R. Locke from his last photograph. It would sell at one dollar or more, but will never be placed on sale. One hundred thousand copies are now being printed and bound, and one copy will be sent postpaid by mail free to every person who this winter remits one dollar for the Weekly Blade one year. Everybody invited to send for a specimen copy of the Weekly Blade, which will give a full description of the book "The Nasby Letters."

The Toledo Weekly Blade is the best and most popular weekly newspaper published in this country. It has the largest circulation of any weekly newspaper, and goes to every state, territory and nearly every county of the union. Only one dollar a year, including the above mentioned book free. Send postal to the Blade, Toledo, Ohio, for a free specimen copy of the paper. Send the addresses of your friends also.
