The weather in the Middle Northwest is phenomenally cold for this time of year. The mercury touched 20 below zero at St. Paul yesterday morning, while thermometers in exposed places marked as low as 38 to 40 below.

In his annual report, Secretary of the Navy Herbert shows that the total number of serviceable war vessels now in the United States navy is 41, 15 of which are armored. In addition, there are 64 vessels on the list, mostly wooden cruisers, tugs and antiquated monitors that are set down as unserviceable for war purposes. The United States is now seventh in the rank of naval powers.

Electricity in Spain.

Spaniards, although slow in the adoption of many improvements, are decidedly not so in regard to electric lighting. A large number of the principal towns, as well as many very small ones, have insulations of their own. The latest venture is on the part of the owner of some water power near the two very limited towns Elgalbar and Eibar, in the Spanish province of Viscava. These towns will shortly be supplied with electric current for both lighting and power purposes. The necessary working power will be furnished by the water of the Illver Dova
