HONOLULU'S ALIEN ELEMENT.

No part of the argument of Messrs. Gresham and Blount in defence of the revival of the Hawaiian monarchy is weaker than that which criticises those who overthrew the monarchy as a small minority of aliens.

This minority in numbers, says the New York Sun, represented then and represents today a remarkable proportion of the intelligence, the wealth, and the questions that at least the Americans and those born there of American descent are for the annexation of Hawaii and as long as when Daniel Webster was secretary of state, he found that "five-sixths of all the commercial intercourses of the islands is with the United States."

A few years since a petition to congress from our Pacific coast asserted that while the shipping interests of all other parts of the country were depressed, 95 per cent. of the Hawaii-Pacific commerce then amounting to $12,000,000 a year, was carried in American-built and American-owned ships.

Again, even in the matter of population the appeal to numbers is misleading. The natives not only are in a minority in the islands as a whole, but at Honolulu the census of 1890 showed 22,907 people, with only 8,562 of the native race, besides 2,603 half castes and 2,486 "Hawaiian-born foreigners," classed with the element.

But the essential fact is that the government has always been practically in the hands of foreigners, since constitutional legislation was established. The action of the leaders of the foreign element as if there were twice as many aliens in Hawaii. The native race owns less than five per cent. of the valuations of the islands; and to assume that the regulation of the great property interests should be left to such a minority is absurd.

All the civilization and all the good government of this hemisphere would have been put in jeopardy at its foundation by such views of "aliens" and "foreigners" as are indicated in the words of Mr. Gresham and Mr. Blount. Our countrymen have been the chief means of making Hawaii what she is today, and they did not propose that a reactionary queen should undo their work, destroy their property and take away their political rights.

"Town Topics," a New York sporting paper, nevertheless a careful and learned authority on finance and stocks, says: "January disbursements will amount to $93,000,000. Some portion of this must be reinvested. Money is already too abundant; watch speculative bonds and good stocks—both are going higher." From which we judge that times in the east are living up quite perceptibly.

An American woman, Mrs. Mary Virginia Treherne, has just embarked on a perilous enterprise, a pilgrimage through the desert of Syria to the Bedouins and lepers of that region, varied by a week's stay as an inmate in the most noted harem of Damascus and various points of interest. She is accompanied only by her son, a muscular youth of eighteen, except that she will have guides on entering the Holy Land. She has letters commending her to all the tribes in Syria, and expects to live in the tents of the Bedouins and follow their customs. Her journey will end in Beyrout.

carried the state, etc. Congressman Jerry is to be admired for the wonderful patience displayed in his collaboration, and for the subdued rosy tint which he has succeeded in imparting to the finished work. His hopeful vista is a bit of genuine political mosaic; and it might appropriately be preserved in some of the art museums as a souvenir of the ill-fated party of which in its day Mr. Simpson was par excellence a most worthy and exalted prototype.

A number of swishes have been hanging around town this week. They have just returned from the mountains and are endeavoring to barter the trophies of the chase for spondulix with which to purchase Christmas presents for their sweethearts. Among other merchantable articles are venison, deer hides, a few fox skins for which they ask $2.50, and arrow heads. Poor Lo is not finding as ready a market as of yore for his wares, and has learned to say "hold times."—Condon Globe.

A Good Word.

Mr. J. J. Keil, Sharpburg, Pa., writes: "Dear Sir—I am glad to say a good word for Krause's Headache Capsules. After suffering for over three years with acute neuralgia and its consequent insomnia, which seemed to hamper the efforts of some of our best physicians, you suggested this remedy which gave me almost instant relief. Words fail to express the praise I should like to bestow on Krause's Headache Capsules."

Gratefully Yours, Mrs. E. E. Holmes, Montrose, Pa.

CONGRESSMAN JERRY SIMPSON, of Kansas, has been analyzing the returns of the recent elections, and so far from being dismayed, he makes haste to proclaim that he has found much in the later returns "to cause the populist to feel that the future is very bright for them." According to the honorable Jerry, the greater part of the populist vote was cast in the country districts; whereas the first newspaper returns showed the result in the cities only.
