"The lady of the house," he said, "This her I wish to see. She stood, this heavily serving maid. And smiled in quiet glee. To which av us do ye refer?" She had him at a loss. "The man av us that owns it, or The man av us that's boss?"

Only one bid was received for supplying the city with wood, and this was at retail price.

The store windows are devoted mainly to holiday goods. An inspection reveals many pleasing novelties. Now is a good time to advertise them.

The Chrysanthemum club will give their regular social hop next Friday evening. Invitations are requested to be presented at the door.

A rumor was current this morning that an appointment was made as register of the U. S. land office, but it was not verified by later reports.

The charges of not making official reports as required, against the Multnomah county clerk, treasurer and sheriff were dismissed yesterday.

Baker City claims superior fitness for the insane asylum location by publishing a per cent. of mortuaries. It claims less than 1 per cent. a year death rate.

Ed. Henderson was placed under $800 bonds for resisting an officer and attempting to kill. The required bonds were furnished by Van B. DeLashmunt and W. Lord.

Wm. Young and Jerome Laner are building a patent dump wagon bed, which will be tested, and if successful more will be constructed on the same pattern.

Take the children to see Pease & Mays' center window. It will seem like Fairyland to them, and the beauty of the dolls and their costumes will please older folks as well.

At the weekly meeting of the Union whist club last night Mrs. Lord scored 50 points, the highest number ever made in a series of 25 games. Mrs. J. S. Fish won the booby prize.

Mr. A. R. Thompson, the assignee of the W. E. Garretson stock of jewelry, has determined to sell off the entire stock and persons wishing to make holiday gifts will do well to look at his new ad.

The board of physicians have visited and left Baker City. The Democrat says: "The board secured all data within their reach and personally acquainted themselves as far as was possible with all facts based on sanitation and hygiene to be incorporated in the report. We do not believe that it is in the power of any other town in Eastern Oregon to present a like showing." We hope not, if they make as bad a record as the Democrat does on spelling.

About a score of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Phillips met last evening at their residence and were most pleasantly entertained until a late hour. This beautiful residence seems to be built with an eye single to hospitality. The parlors are spacious and prettily furnished, a wonderful conservatory fairly breathes with its wealth of perfume, and the picturesque grounds look almost as pretty in winter as in summer. Dancing and card games were the chief diversions, supplemented by a most appetizing lunch in an exquisite floral setting. None of those present will soon forget this Wednesday evening at Mr. and Mrs. Phillips.

A Wrong Impression.

EDITOR CHRONICLE:—Some misinformed persons in The Dalles are laboring under the impression that a private wire which runs from the Western Union telegraph office to several stores and offices about town is connected directly to the Western Union Commercial wires and that parties in these offices can hear all business going over those wires. This is an error. The wire is merely used for the convenience of customers who send messages to the Western Union office here, and there is no further connection. Very respectfully,

B. D. JOHNSON, Manager W. U. Tel. Co.

AFTER MANY DAYS.

Robbers Discovered Who Thought They Were Not Hunted.

Deputy Sheriff Jackson yesterday found another box of goods stolen by James Wedle and John Krier. Everything is now recovered except a carpenter's square and a lot of valuable oil portraits of Mr. Fournelle's French ancestors. These are of course invaluable. It is the opinion of Mr. Jackson that they are burned.

Crime is more often detected when the least disturbance is made about it. Six weeks ago when Mr. Fournelle first discovered his loss he had no clue to the robbers. He sought Justice Schutz, who advised him to pay no attention to the robbery, and to say nothing about it to anyone, and before long something would turn up to locate the thieves. As expected, they became careless, believing no attempt was being made to discover them, and a few days ago Fournelle observed a coat and vest of his own on the person of James Wedle, while both were aboard the Regulator. Arrived at The Dalles he gave Deputy Sheriff Jackson the information, and Jackson found and arrested the man. Wedle then informed on his comrade. A search was made of the rooms occupied by them, but nothing was found, until on searching over the roof of the house (a flat roof) most of the stolen articles were found. Wedle pleaded guilty and appeared as a witness against Krier.

This is a very good instance of where the less said about a crime, the details of which are not known, the better. The theory of Micawber is a correct one. Lionel V. Stagge, who has been national bank examiner, was Tuesday appointed receiver of the Oregon National bank. Stagge made his report to Controller Eckels, and, after going over the affairs of the bank, the receiver was determined upon. Eckels says the appointment was unsolicited, and was made because he believed Stagge was well qualified for the place. The Oregonian comments as follows upon Mr. Stagge, who is editor of the Pacific banker, and well known to banking circles of The Dalles: "He was appointed bank examiner last August by Controller Eckels, and placed in charge of the First National bank of The Dalles, which, by his rapid work, gained the honor of being the first of the suspended banks in the state to resume business. He is a bright young man, and under his direction the affairs of the Oregon National will doubtless soon be straightened out."

In Thorny Paths.

Two very gentlemanly appearing young men appeared at THE CHRONICLE office recently, and while the editor offered chairs and was preparing to reach for the subscription book, with that indescribable inward satisfaction every editor feels when he believes he is about to receive a new subscriber with a year's subscription in advance, he was somewhat startled and considerably surprised to hear one of them ask with cultured accent: "Have you engaged anyone yet to saw your wood?"

Eight cords of slab wood were piled at the edge of the sidewalk by the office and this the gentlemen wanted to work up. The contract was let for $8, and for two days and a half, with an 8-foot Dexter saw, they labored hard, working full hours, until the wood was all sawed. One of these was a book-keeper and the other a civil engineer. Both were "down on their luck" and were willing to do any honorable work to meet their current expenses. The engineer said that when he attended college civil engineers received the highest kind of wages, in consequence of so much railroad building, and the incentive of high salaries induced many to learn the art. The inevitable consequence was a surplus of them, and wages were reduced to about 40 per cent. of their original figure. He then found it more profitable to stake out mining claims for prospectors, but owing to the repeal of the Sherman act, the mines closed down in Colorado and left him again without an occupation.

They finished sawing the wood yesterday, and left this morning for Portland. There is good metal in these young gentlemen which will come to the surface again with the advent of good times.

Mr. J. P. Blaize, an extensive real estate dealer in Des Moines, Iowa, narrowly escaped one of the severest attacks of pneumonia while in the northern part of Iowa during a recent blizzard, says the Saturday Review. Mr. Blaize had occasion to drive several miles during the storm and was so thoroughly chilled that he was unable to get warm, and inside of an hour after his return he was threatened with a severe case of pneumonia or lung fever. Mr. Blaize sent to the nearest drug store and got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, of which he had often heard, and took a number of large doses. He says the effect was wonderful and in a short time he was breathing quite easily. He kept on taking the medicine and the next day he was able to come to Des Moines. Mr. Blaize regards his cure as simply wonderful. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.

A Good Word.

Mr. J. J. KELL, Sharsburg, Pa., Dear Sir:—I am glad to say a good word for Krause's Headache Capsules. After suffering for over three years with acute neuralgia and its consequent insomnia, which seemed to nullify the efforts of some of our best physicians you suggested this remedy which gave me almost instant relief. Words fail to express the praise I should like to bestow on Krause's Headache Capsules. Gratefully Yours, Mrs. E. R. HOLMES, Montrose, Pa.
