"She's my 'lady,
I'm her 'guy,
She's my sweetheart,
I'm her beau,
Soon we'll marry,
Never to part,
Lili-ko-ku-le-ki
Is my sweetheart."

Ralph Gibbons' valuable dog was poisoned by strychnine Saturday afternoon.

"Crystal's Cross" was played last evening at Wingate hall by the Stuttz company.

The Stuttz company left this morning on the boat for Vancouver. The band played a lively air when departing.

Take the children to the Kris Kringle party tomorrow evening at Wingate hall. It will be the event of the year.

The King's Daughters will not meet this week, but will hold their next meeting at the home of Mrs. J. W. French a week from Tuesday.

Only one bid was received for opening the Lincoln street sewer, at the special meeting of the city council Saturday night, and the time was extended.

The drawing at Pease & Mays Saturday night resulted in first prize of $35 for the Episcopal, second prize of $15 for Catholic, and third prize of $10 for the Methodist church.

Great pains have been taken to make the Kris Kringle party a decided success tomorrow night. A splendid program has been prepared (see another column). You are certain to be delighted. Wingate hall Tuesday evening.

It is a settled fact that Ex-Queen Lilivokulani, nor President Dole or Cleveland will be guests at the Kris Kringle reception tomorrow evening, but Samantha of the Midwinter fair will.

Only three persons attended the called meeting of the Mignonette club Saturday night, so the three, after passing various kinds of remarks to and fro, adjourned. There seems to be an apathy amidst dancing circles that the best efforts of a few enthusiastic ones cannot dispel.

The ladies of the Good Intent society will give their annual New Year's entertainment and supper on Saturday evening, Dec. 30th, at the M. E. church. A good program is being prepared and a warm supper will be served after the entertainment. Further notice will be given of the event.

Shared Alike.

The quiet of the recorder's office was broken today by the trial of two persons for fighting. Marshal Maloney swore out warrants against J. H. Warren and W. H. Brown, and charged them for disturbing the peace. Brown and Warren are both runners for the Columbia hotel and had some dispute while going to the boat Saturday evening concerning their respective merits. The testimony showed that Warren was drunk and called Brown names, which most men will resent. Warren threw up his arm as if to strike, and then Brown knocked him down promptly. Warren lay unconscious for some time. Brown told a straightforward story which was uncontradicted, while Warren refused to take the stand. The recorder seemed unable to make any distinction and fined them each $15. Warren paid his, but Brown had no money and will have some spare time thinking that the man who takes the trouble to defend himself shows poor judgment. H. H. Riddell appeared for the city and J. Walton for Brown, while Warren conducted his own case much to the amusement of the spectators.

Settlement Requested.

During my absence, all who have unsettled accounts with the undersigned are expected to call and settle with Mr. Geo. Krauss, who has my books and accounts. An early settlement will greatly oblige. Yours truly,

A CHARMED LIFE.

The Pursuing Fate which Follows Clemens Wetle.

Some grim genius of disaster pursues the person of Clemens Wetle, and the several narrow escapes he has had from death can scarcely be counted on the fingers of his hands. He commenced by breaking his leg in three places. Shortly afterward a horse stepped on his foot, cutting off his big toe as neatly as a biscuit cutter could have done it. Last summer he was badly powder-burned, while investigating its explosive power, with other children. A few days ago a mule kicked him in the abdomen. Yesterday morning at 9 o'clock he was shot in the stomach with a 32-caliber bullet, and still lives. Nicholas Krier and Wetle were playing with a rusty pistol, which would not work, but supposed not to be loaded. The boys doctored it up with coal oil and it finally worked. Krier had the weapon, and of course the best place to point it was at Wetle. It was a self cocker and Krier was surprised to see a little wreath of blue smoke follow the pulling of the trigger, while Wetle was equally surprised at a sharp sting in the stomach. The bullet fortunately struck exactly in the center of the sixth rib, glancing and coming out within two inches of where it entered. Dr. Hollister, who does the surgical work for the family, was hastily summoned. He had his surgical instruments already to start, having caught sight of the familiar figure of Wetle frantically riding his gray horse for the doctor, and the latter knew just what to expect. The father says he has grown used to these things now, and could not be happy unless some horrible thing happened every little while. The boy seems to bear a charmed life, and he would hardly get wet if he fell in the river.

The Better Way.

The Dalles is said to be the liveliest town in the Northwest today. There is more cash in circulation and more business done every day than in cities ten times its size. The reason is that the town has never overbuilt. The Dalles never was a "boom" town, and now while bankruptcy stares Tacoma, Seattle, Spokane and other Pacific coast towns in the face, The Dalles pursues the even tenor of its way. The city has a prosperous country around it, which increases yearly in wealth and population. Perhaps The Dalles has not kept pace with the country, but if this is an error, it is on the safe side. After the fire, no blow was made about the town arising "phoenix-like" from its own ashes, that the fire was "a blessing in disguise" and all that. The fire hurt the town, hurt it like everything, but instead of borrowing all the money possible and mortgaging what was left, property owners pursued a course of moderation and today, after over two years, it has not fully regained all that it lost. It has improved a great deal, to be sure, but not on borrowed capital. It has been paid for with money since earned. There has never been a legitimate business failure in The Dalles. Neighbors study what this means. Property values never reached a fictitious figure. Is not this better than to rise to fancy figures in a fever of boom, and then relapse when the bubble bursts? The Dalles is prosperous even in these times of depression. It is sure to grow, but may it never make a mushroom growth. We do not need any magic city building. When the pressure of increasing business from river traffic and country farms crowds the present channels, business men with the necessary experience and capital will erect more stores and public buildings, and the business will be ready for them, without any artificial stimulant.

Kris Kringle Party.

The ladies of the Congregational church will give a Kris Kringle party at the Wingate hall Tuesday evening, Dec. 19th. A program has been prepared, which will prove a rare treat to all who attend. Articles of fancy work, both ornamental and useful, will be placed on sale. Especial attention is called to the twenty-five cent articles. The following is the program:

- Quartet—Mrs. Bradshaw, Miss Schmidt, Dr. Botkin, Mr. Johnson.
- Recitation—"Green Mountain Justice"—Miss Jennie Russell.
- Comic Quartet—Mrs. Huntington, Miss A. Schmidt, Dr. Boone, Mr. Crandall.
- "Allegory on Women's Rights"—Josiah Allen's wife.
- Solo—Miss Marie Williams.
- Male Quartet—Messrs. Jameson, Snowden, Johnson, Patterson.
- Character song—"We'll Have to Mortgage the Farm."
- Duet—Kris Kringle and wife.

At the conclusion of the programme Kris Kringle and wife will endeavor to entertain their guests in a manner that all will be charmed who attend their party.

Lunch will be served during the evening free of charge. A cordial invitation is extended to all. Admission 25 cents; children under ten years free. Doors open at 7 o'clock. Program commences at 8 o'clock sharp.

In Great Britain and many other European countries there is a widespread belief in the superstition that the common white pigeon is a herald of death. A bird of this species alighting upon a chimney or flying against a window is said to be a sure token of a speedy death in that house.
