A Merry Christmas.

The days are the shortest of the year. Charles Chester was placed under $200 bonds to appear before the grand jury for larceny in a dwelling.

Many beautiful Christmas trees have been hauled into the city, which will make glad the hearts of the children.

The next issue of THE CHRONICLE will be upon Tuesday evening, as Christmas will be observed in the time-honored manner.

The public schools will close for the customary two weeks' Christmas holidays. The next school day will be January 8th.

The assignee sale of the Vogt dry goods today is meeting with good success. We are informed that there will be three sale days next week.

There will be a Christmas concert at the M. E. church tomorrow evening, to which all are invited. Everything will be of the most sacred character.

King Frost has killed many of outdoor annuals, but grass and native plants still look fresh and green, and chrysanthemums make beautiful the festive Christmas time. The hill sides are robed in green, and when the sun shines it seems like spring time. Of course we will have four to six weeks of winter. A little cold weather is needed for purifying purposes. Our climate is as near perfection as can well be made.

If conditions are favorable the fruit yield next year in Wasco county will be fully a third greater than the year previous.

There was an immense crowd at Pease & Mays Christmas tree sale today. Old Santa Claus kept his word and was on hand as promised.

Prune raisers of this state claim to be closing sales a little above 7 cents, while California papers say recently that the prune crop of that state is selling for 5 cents.

Don't miss the opportunity of subscribing to the WEEKLY CHRONICLE and avail yourself of a choice of clubbing with popular papers and magazines. See Clubbing list.

Mr. H. Glenn has sold to parties in Seattle a portion of the machinery which was in the defunct shoe factory in what was called North Dalles. He is packing and shipping it today.

Sensible southern Oregon farmers are storing their big red apples away to meet the demand sure to be created later on by the Midwinter fair. It pays to look ahead and provide for the future.

The land office in this city is receiving numerous letters of inquiry about this country, its resources, climate etc. almost every day. Our real estate dealers ought to make themselves known through an immigration or intelligence bureau, which should be organized at once, as there never was as much of an inquiry about this section of country as now, by persons in the east who are seeking homes in the far west.

The M. E. Sunday school are to have a donation social in their Sunday school room this evening, December 23d. Each member is expected to bring something that will be placed in the hands of a committee and by them given to the needy. All are asked to make the children's effort a success by helping the children to contributions of vegetables, flour, rice, groceries, meats, clothing or anything that can be used to make life enduring and comfortable. The committee for receiving and distributing are Mesdames Willerton, Fowler, D. M. French, Bills, Miss Ursula Ruch and Nellie Michell.

Everybody is looking for bargains, and at E. Jacobsen & Co.'s you can find them. All prices of holiday goods reduced.

Campbell Bros., of the Columbia Candy factory, are showing the finest line of candies and Christmas ornaments ever brought to The Dalles, and prices to suit the times.

INTO A SLIDE.

Extra Freight No 21 Precipitated Down an Embankment.

Extra freight No 21 was wrecked early this morning two and a half miles below Mosier by running into a land slide. The first reports that arrived stated that no one was injured, all hands saving themselves by jumping. The engine was thrown down a 50 foot embankment, followed by several cars, and others were twisted and broken and lying in various positions on both sides of the track. This train left The Dalles about 4 o'clock this morning, following the early morning passenger west-bound. The passenger went over in safety, undoubtedly saving the lives of all the passengers on board. The freight engine which went down is No. 533, of which Chas. Whipple was engineer and Peter Lienhart, fireman. The slide occurred at one of the most dangerous places on the road, there being a steep wall of rock on one side and the river a few feet below. A wrecking train went down this morning as soon after receipt of the news as possible.

MAKERS OF NEWSPAPERS.

LORD DENRYVEN was the correspondent of the London Telegraph during the trouble between England and Abyssinia, and also in the Franco-Prussian war.

MATTHIAS MULL, who went to India forty-odd years ago to superintend a printing press establishment and remained there until his recent death, was the founder of the Times of India.

EDITOR McCLENE, of the Philadelphia Times, continues to make a slight improvement. While he was still dangerously ill his condition encourages more hope than has been felt for some weeks past.

MR. GEORGE W. CHILDS DREXEL, the new publisher of the Philadelphia Ledger, is but twenty-five years of age. He is a son of the late A. J. Drexel, who was long Mr. Childs' associate in the ownership of the paper.

Annual Session.

The state teachers' association meets this year on December 26th, and will be in session three days. Heretofore the meetings have been held in the summer time, but owing to the absence of so many teachers at the world's fair this year it was decided to postpone the meeting until December. The fare to teachers has been reduced to one and one-fifth fare and the hotels will also extend cut rates.

All we ask for holiday presents are hard-time prices. Do not fail to call at E. Jacobsen & Co.'s if you need holiday goods.

CAUGHT ON THE WING.

It is believed that the fly can make six hundred strokes a second with its wings.

The vanity of the sparrow is so great that it will gaze into a mirror by the hour if not disturbed.

A SWARM of flies will make their appearance at a car window and easily keep pace with a train, even though it be rushing across the country forty miles an hour.

A FLOCK of geese is used by Dr. McBride, of Orange, Va., as a team. In winter they are attached to an ice-boat and draw him over the ice at a speed of a mile in forty-eight seconds.

The condor soars higher than any other known species of bird, spending nine-tenths of its life floating above the rarified atmosphere at a height of over three miles above the level of the sea.

The British cuckoo and the American crow blackbird were never known to build nests as other birds do. They content themselves with depositing their eggs in the nests of others, usually choosing that of some smaller representative of the feathered tribe.

A Letter from Santa Claus:

SANTA-CLAUSVILLE, Dec. 18, 1893.

PEASE & MAYS,

The Dalles, Ore.

Gentlemen:

I have yours of the 10th inst. asking if it would be possible for me to visit The Dalles this Christmas-time. I have had most excellent reports of the behavior during the past year of the children in your City, and have finally decided to pay you a visit. Shall endeavor to reach your store, where I intend to make my Headquarters while in The Dalles, by half-past two Saturday afternoon. It is possible that, owing to the bad condition of the roads, for we cannot travel nearly as fast as if the ground were covered with snow, and also because I have had the misfortune to lose two of my pet Reindeers, Comet and Vixen, I may be a little late. I am disappointed in not being able to have a present for all that I may meet while in your city, but I will send on some Candy and Pop Corn for the children, and a more useful present for their mothers. You may say to all the children of The Dalles, who have been good boys and girls for the past year, that I will be in your store Saturday afternoon and evening, to shake hands with them and wish them A MERRY CHRISTMAS.

Yours Truly,

SANTA-CLAUS.
