A DEED OF HORROR

A Terrible Tragedy Caused by a Fiendish Man.

FOUR PERSONS BURNED TO DEATH Further Particulars of the Omaha Crime of Saturday Night—Other News.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 31.—On the marble slabs at the city morgue lie the charred remains of the family of John Cummings. Father, mother, baby and grandmother are there waiting the outcome of the inquest which the coroner began this morning. Nothing in Nebraska's annals approaches the deed for horror. Cummings had been in ill-health for some time, and deliberately set fire to his own house and caused the death of his mother-in-law, wife and 1-year-old baby, as briefly stated in the dispatches late last night. Little Tommy, when asked how the fire originated, said Cummings was sitting on the edge of the bed in the rear room, where Mrs. Cummings also was with the baby. Another person in the room was Mrs. Fox, mother of Mrs. Cummings. There was a fuss about something, and Cummings upset the lamp and closed the door, compelling all the inmates to stay there. They cried, but he refused to let any of them out. When Philip Nathan, a next-door neighbor, first saw the flames he noticed Mrs. Cummings trying to open the shutters to the window of the bedroom. He heard her cry out and say, "My baby is already asphyxiated." Soon thereafter he saw the woman enveloped in flames.

PERNAMBUCO, Dec. 31.—The cruiser America is reported off this port, and it is said that so soon as she is ready to put to sea again, both she and the Nitheroy will sail southward. During the last few days the Nitheroy is said to have completed her crew and made all other arrangements necessary to sail. It is rumored that the two cruisers will be reinforced by other vessels, and that the fleet will then sail for Rio, and upon arrival there the ships and forts will make a combined attack upon the insurgent vessels and endeavor to end the rebellion with one determined engagement.

Opening of the Midwinter Fair SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31.—Tomorrow will be a double holiday in San Francisco. The informal opening of the midwinter exposition will take place at 8 o'clock in the morning. There will be no special feature until 10 o'clock, when a concert will be given at the central court by the Midwinter Fair band.

NEWS NOTES.
Congress reconvenes tomorrow. The senate will do comparatively little until the house sends over the tariff and appropriations bills.

William Richardson, the railway magnate, died in Brooklyn December 31st from congestion of the brain and an attack of bronchitis.

The Continental Oil Company, the Standard's western adjunct, on account of competition, has cut the wholesale price of illuminating oil to 7 cents a gallon and the retail price to 10 cents.

It is reported that the Brazilian rebel, Admiral Mello, has been seriously wounded. It is surmised that a fragment of a shell must have struck him when the Aquidaban was escaping from the harbor of Rio and had to run the gauntlet of the loyal forts at the entrance.

The body of Lucy Stone was incinerated Saturday in the crematory at Forest Hill, Mass. It was the first cremation in this resort or in the state. It was just 2:30 when the remains were placed in the retort. At 5 o'clock nothing but a pile of ashes remained. The ashes will be placed in an urn and delivered to Dr. Blackwell, the husband of Mrs. Stone.

The house of commons contains one member six years older than Gladstone, Hon. Charles Villiers, who has sat now 58 years for a single constituency. But when, on rare occasions, he visits the club, he can only go as far as the hall, owing to the stairs, and friends cluster around, ears close to his mouth, to catch his whispered mumbblings. Even older till is Admiral Jones, of the Greenwich hospital, who actually bore part in the stupid and criminal Walcheren expedition of 1809. Surely there is no other country where men live like this.

Karl's Clover Root, the new blood purifier, gives freshness and clearness to the complexion and cures constipation. 25c., 50c. and $1.00. Sold by Snipes & Kinerly, druggists.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

The President's Dread of Being Killed—Senator Voorhees Aspirations.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29, 1893.—It is no longer denied by those occupying positions which give them an opportunity to know that Mr. Cleveland is a badly frightened man. He fears that some man made desperate by loss of employment or failure in business will attempt to kill him for revenge. It is because of this fear that Mr. Cleveland has tried so hard of late to prevent the publication in advance of his movements outside of the white house. Some weeks ago servants were sent to Lakewood, N. J., to put the Cleveland cottage in order and an invitation was sent to Mrs. Perrine, Mrs. Cleveland's mother, to join the Cleverlands there several days before Christmas and to spend the holiday week with them. Somebody leaked, and the newspapers published the proposed programme. It was then abandoned, the cottage closed and notice given that the Cleverlands would not go to Lakewood at all this winter.

It was then arranged that the Cleverlands should quietly steal away Christmas night and occupy for a few days the suite of rooms which had been engaged for them at a Lakewood hotel. Somebody leaked again and the publication of the plan broke it up. Then a new trip was arranged and carried out so quickly that no advance publication could be made. But mark the sneaking manner in which the president of the United States left the white house, and compare it with the idea of how a courageous man would have done it. The arrangements were perfected in Mr. Cleveland's private office, only those who were to be his companions on the duck-shooting expedition—Secretaries Gresham and Carlisle and Commander Robley D. Evans of the navy—being present. The three gentlemen named strolled carelessly out of the front door of the white house and entered a carriage without being specially noticed. At about the same time a carriage drove to the rear of the white house and a man heavily armed stepped out and held the door open while another man enveloped in an immense ulster with a storm collar coming well up under the brim of a big slouch hat stepped hurriedly inside. The first man was one of the body guards who never lose sight of Mr. Cleveland when he goes outside of the white house, and the other was Mr. Cleveland himself. The carriage was then driven rapidly to the wharf and Mr. Cleveland joined his companions who were in the first carriage, aboard of a light house tender which steamed away in two minutes after he stepped on its deck. If anything could be more absurd or more indicative of cowardice than these acts of the president your correspondent is at a loss to name it.

A new candidate has entered the race for the democratic nomination in 1896, in the person of Senator Voorhees, of Indiana. It would seem to ordinary minds that his course upon the silver repeal bill, which angered both the silver and the anti-silver democrats, would have been sufficient to have destroyed any hopes entertained by him, but the mind of Senator Voorhees is not an ordinary one, and he doesn't see it that way. He thinks his bill for the coinage of the seigniorage in the treasury and the purchase and coinage of $2,000,000 worth of silver a month will make friends for him in the west; he has a scheme to catch the south by favoring the repeal of the tax on state bank currency, and he expects to get solid with the wage-earners of all sections by opposing the Cleveland tariff bill. Representative Martin, of Indiana, chairman of the house committee on invalid pensions, is chief wet nurse for the boom in the house, and he will as far as possible second the efforts that Mr. Voorhees proposes making to bind the soldier vote to him by opposing the pension policy of the administration. He calculates that his opposition to civil service reform will make friends for him among the practical politicians of his party. In short, he proposes to utilize all the methods known to an experienced demagogue to get the nomination.

Senators Sherman and Frye, the republican members of the sub-committee on foreign relations which this week began the investigation of the relations of this government to Hawaii, under authority of the Morgan resolution, will insist upon the production of the important documents withheld by Mr. Cleveland from congress, and, as the investigation is to be conducted behind closed doors and nothing made public until the investigation has been finished and the recommendation of the committee agreed upon, it is difficult to imagine any good reason for the documents not being given to the committee. It is certain that one of the democrats on the sub-committee—Senator Gray—is familiar with those documents, and probable that the other two—Senators Butler and Morgan—also know their contents; and there is good ground for the belief that Senator Morgan, chairman of the committee, will join with the republicans in demanding that they be sent to the committee. The administration men are showing signs of uneasiness about this investigation, and well they may.

Harney county's artesian well is down some 320 feet and is spouting, but it will be bored deeper in hopes of obtaining a greater flow of water. The contractor was to receive $2.75 per foot for boring 800 feet, and everything furnished him. If plenty of water is found within 400 feet, he will sink another well somewhere in the valley.
Wool scouring mills are soon to be established at Pendleton, a company having recently been incorporated with a capital stock of $12,000, the object of which is to erect mills for scouring and sorting wool. Such an institution is needed in Crook county. There is no sense in our wool growers paying freight on the grease and dirt there is in wool in its natural state.
Saturday last Mr. J. L. Hallett, once prominently identified with the construction of the Northern Pacific railroad under the Villard management, died at 91 North Ninth street, in Portland. He was attended by his wife and two sons. Besides the members of the family who were at his bedside when death called him hence, he has a daughter, married to one of Villard's nephews, residing in St. Louis, Mo. The funeral will not take place until Thursday afternoon, presumably to give the daughter an opportunity to be present at the obsequies. The interment will be at Riverview cemetery, in a subterranean concrete vault, with vaults 14 inches thick.

La Grippe.
During the prevalence of the grippé the past seasons it was a noticeable fact that those who depended upon Dr. King's New Discovery, not only had a speedy recovery, but escaped all of the troublesome after effects of the malady. This remedy seems to have a peculiar power in effecting rapid cures not only in cases of la grippe, but in all diseases of throat, chest and lungs, and has cured cases of asthma and hay fever of long standing. Try it and be convinced. It won't disappoint. Free trial bottles at Snipes & Kinerly's drug store.

The persistent cough which usually follows an attack of the grip can be permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mr. W. A. McGuire, of McKay, Ohio, says: "La Grippe left me with a severe cough. After using several different medicines without relief, I tried Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which effected a permanent cure. I have also found it to be without an equal for children when troubled with colds or croup. Fifty-cent bottles for sale by Blakely & Houghton, druggists."

Settlement Requested.

During my absence, all who have unsettled accounts with the undersigned are expected to call and settle with Mr. Geo. Kraus, who has my books and accounts. An early settlement will greatly oblige. Yours truly, LEBLIE BUTLER.

Shiloh's cure, the Great Cough and Croup Cure, is for sale by Snipes & Kinerly. Pocket size contains twenty-five doses, only 25c. Children love it. Sold by Snipes & Kinerly.
