Further increase in the hoard of money piling up in New York banks is indicated by the weekly statement published Saturday. It shows another increase of $2,877,000 in the reserve, $1,796,000 in years later. In 1891, the last year for specie, $2,979,000 in legal tender and of $7,800,000 in deposits. The banks now have $80,814,000 in excess of the 25 per cent of legal requirements. The total is over $3,000,000 more than the previous week. This great working force in dollars cannot remain idle and unprofitable much longer. When it is released from bondage by confidence that is now steadily returning, large amounts of it will seek western investments.

Wm. L. Wilson, chairman of the ways and means committee, in the January Forum, writes: "It is mockery to talk many millions of hungry people to feed and so many millions of ill-clad people to clothe." This statement applies of course to wheat and wool. As for wheat the price is lower than it has been for forty years, which would hardly signify scarcity of the article; and any of our wool-growers, all of whom have all or a great share of their clip still undisposed of for want of a price, can testify that there is an over-production of wool and a vast over-production, too. Mr. Wilson had better confine himself to truths. "It is not a theory but a condition which confronts us."

If prize thumpers were possessed of any self respect they must realize that their occupation (?) is very low in the scale when they have so much difficulty in finding a spot of ground where they can fight and not be molested by officers. fighting except a few which but a short time ago were territories, and the miner amounted to 8270 per annum. amount of intriguing which these worthies have to do to engage with each has been taken by the department other is equalled only by the vigilance of labor to collect trustworthy intaken by an absconding cashier or a formation as to the amount of phospair of eloping lovers. It is well that phates which may reasonably be exthese encounters are unlawful, and that the governor of Florida is so earnest in the mines. The quantity in sight in the governor of Florida is so earnest in South Carolina is computed at 14,000, trying to prevent them within the conto every civilized country, and the day will be hailed with joy when, in order to fight without molestation, these bruisers will have to embark for the Fiji islands or some other barbarous locality, more in keeping with native customs.

The motto of the Hood River Glacier is: "It is a cold day when we get left," and is singularly appropriate. The undismayed John don't get enough patronage to properly feed Mrs. Cradlebaugh's canary bird, yet the Glacier appears on time each week with its usual quota of caustic comments upon societies and classes of the town, religious, political and otherwise, with as little artfulness and about the same indifference as the mythical Arizona Kicker, which the Hood River journal much resembles in its straight-from the-shoulder utterances. Hood River could not get along without its Glacier any more than a confirmed morphine fiend could dispense with his favorite drug, and if the community should some day awake and find the office closed it would be productive of general lamentation and a generous bonus for its resurrection. But such a contingency is not dreamed of by the inhabitants of that section, and they will look for its customary issuance with the same assurance as Elijah did to the daily advent of the ravens.

OUR PHOSPHATE MINES.

A Newly-Developed Industry of Much Importance.

Destined to Become a Source of Great Profit to American Agriculturists -Some Valuable Information

We find in a special report of the commissioner of labor the latest statistics relating to the phosphate industry of the United States. The report, says the New York Sun, not only shows the actual output of our phosphate mines, but estimates the period during which the industry may be expected to continue.

Carroll D. Wright, the commissioner of labor, points out in his introduction that the value of the discovery of phosphates, from an agricultural point, cannot be overrated. Previously to 1841 the principal commercial fertilizer had been bone dust, but, in the year named, guano was introduced from the Chincha islands of Peru and, owing to the greater solubility of this commodity, the demand for it rapidly increased. As time went on, however, the inadequate and rapidly decreasing supply of guano and bone dust led to the active development of the phosphate industry in South Carolina in 1867 and in Florida some twenty-one which statistics are complete, the quantity of phosphate produced in the United States was 757,133 tons, much the larger portion of which came from South Carolina, where at present the mines are most vigorously worked. The next largest producer of the fertilizer is France, which, in the year named, was credited with 400,000 tons, after which should be placed Belgium with 200,000. The entire output of the world in 1891, outside of the United States, was $80,000 tons.

The home consumption of the fertilizer takes place chiefly in the southern, eastern and western states. It is conspicuously in demand for the cotton of over-production as long as there are so crop of the south, for the fruit and vegetable crops of the east and for the grain crops of the west. As regards the situation of the principal deposits, we learn that there are in South Carolina twenty-three land mines and seven river mines; that there is one land mine in North Carolina, while Florida. The number of acres controiled for mining purposes in Florida is 175, 48: in North Carolina, 2,500, and 25% at acres. The total capital invested in plant in Florida is $2,149,582, and in land 311,346,937; in North Caroline the plant is represented by $2,000 and the land by 3100,000; in South Carolina the plant is worth 82,563,200 and the land $3.929,000. The total average number of employes engaged is the production of phosphates is 9,175, but this does not include all the labor in one mine or the skilled labor in two mines, the facts in relation to which All the states have laws against prize | are not reported. The total amount of money expended for labor was £4,473.-515, and the average earnings of a

We are assured that great pains 000 tons; in this state the industry, at fines of that state. They are a disgrace the present rate of production, will extend over twenty-eight years from 11. The quantity of phosphate visible in North Carolina, Georgia and other states is put down at 1,000,000 tons, while Florida is credited with the enormous quantity of 133.056,116 tons. Taken together these estimates show a total of 148,650,416 tons of phosphate in sight, and enable us to measure the future opportunities for the employment of labor in this industry.

Amusing German Bulls.

A German newspaper man, evidently jealous of the Irishman's reputation as a maker of bulls, took the trouble some years ago to look up the German record in this line. Among others he found in the published works of certain Teutonic writers the following curious examples: "Among the immigrants was an old blind woman, who came to America once more before she died to see her only son." "After the door was closed a soft female foot slipped into the room, and with her own hand distinguished the taper." "Both doctors were unable to restore the deceased once more to life and health." "The Ladies' Benefit association has distributed twenty pairs of shoes among the poor, which will dry up many a tear." "I was at the table "I was at the table enjoying a cup of coffee when a gentle voice tapped me on the shoulder. I looked around and saw my old friend once more.

Elevators for the Queen.

Since Queen Victoria met with an accident at Windsor castle eleven or twelve years ago, when one of her knees was injured, she has found it very troublesome and sometimes painful either to ascend or descend a staircase. This difficulty has lately increased so much that an elevator has just been placed in the private apartments of Windsor castle for her majesty's use, and another is to be fitted up at Osborne. The queen has a greater number of steps to ascend at Osborne than at any other of the palaces, as her own They read The Chronicle to get the latest and apartments are in the pavilion near the top of the house. Geographical Joke.

The Japanese are a very polite peo-ple, but they sometimes like to play a joke, in a roundabout, oriental way. upon the men of the west. In the days of the second empire Baron Gros was sent to Japan to demand the opening of certain ports to French commerce Among the rest he named to the Japanese ministers a certain city.

The Japanese functionaries smiled so broadly when he preferred the request that the French ambassador asked them to tell him what gave them so much amusement; but instead of answering, the Japanese ministers said:

"We will open the port in question, my lord, if France, in her turn, will open a certain port to us."
"What port is that?" asked the Frenchman. "The port of Liverpool."

"But, your excellencies," laughing, Liverpool is not a French port, but an English one." "Yes?" answered the Japanese.

'And the port you named to us is not in Japan, but in Corea!" The French ambassador was compelled to admit that the joke was upon him. - Youth's Companion.

Even doctors must have recreation, and perhaps a certain physician at a summer resort, whose servant recently made a somewhat queer response to a caller, was humanly right in the orders he had given her. Some one called at the doctor's cottage in the evening and began a speech to the servant: "I want the doctor to come over right off-"He can't do it!" answered the serv-"He left orders that he was so busy that unless it was absolutely a matter of life and death, he couldn't go out at all this evening." "But," said the caller, "it isn't sickness at all."

"What?"

"We want him to come over and take hand in a game of whist." "Oh, that's different. You're Mr. Brown, ain't you?"

The servant disappeared and reappeared a moment later., "The doctor says he'll be right over," she said. - Youth's Companion.
