THE DALLES OREGON

THE SURPLUS GIRL.

Better for Her to Work Than to Be Thrown Into the River.

The tendency of an increasing population is nearly always to an overproduction—or at least to what is generally considered an overproduction—of girls, and the result is a problem which has been the cause of much vexation and unsatisfactory thinking in all ages, says the St. Louis Republic.

The Chinese have a solution which they look on as final, but in many other countries there is such objection to the idea of throwing surplus girl babies into the river that it can hardly operate with the same success which attends it in China.

As they are not thrown into the river they grow up and then they must get a living in some way. This has occurred to Lady Emily Dilke, and has moved her to make an investigation of their condition.

The picture she draws in the Fortnightly Review is a gloomy one. She concludes that the secret of England's manufacturing supremacy is the cheap labor of women and girls, and she is also of the opinion that the results of setting the women and girls to work to eke out the earnings of the head of the family "are simply suicidal."

It is no doubt true that the success of English manufactures depends largely on the cheap labor of women and girls, and we venture to say that it is to some extent true of every successful manufacturing country. It is certainly true of the New England states, which are notorious for their overproduction of girls.

It is not necessary to dwell on the evils incident to any industrial system which relies mainly on such labor. They are apparent. But the assumption that they outweigh the benefits is rash indeed.

The increasing employment of women and girls in production means that through the advance of civilization, resulting in the invention of highly improved machinery, work can now be done by women that was formerly far beyond their strength. When one girl can operate a machine that will do the work of five fully developed men it is useless to expect that the five men will be employed in place of the one girl and the machine.

It is also illogical and short-sighted to look on the improvement in machinery which increases the demand for female labor as an evil in itself.

The English or the German peasant girl who works on the farm does much harder and more brutalizing labor than the girl of the factory. Many evils attend the employment of girls in operating machines. No father who can support his daughters should allow them to go into a factory. The girl is most fortunate who can afford to grow up with no other business than that of "housewife." But as all are not so fortunate it is well to recognize that what may seem an unmitigated evil may be really a minor benefit.

It is better for girls to work in factories and stores than to be thrown into the river, as happens to them in China, or to be obliged to use the mattock and spade in the fields, as they are in Europe.

We are not doing nearly as well as we might in this matter or in any other, but still we are doing a great deal better than professional pessimists are capable of understanding.

PERSONAL MENTION.

The czar is amused, it is stated, at the spectacular reception accorded to the Russians in Paris. Czardonic smiles, no doubt.

The family with the longest known pedigree is that of Confucius, which forms the aristocracy of China. Confucius lived 550 years B. C.

When the duke of Monmouth was executed for treason his duchess ordered every oak in the park to be cut on the fateful morning. The new growth, belonging to Lord Ebury, is one of the finest forests in Britain.

Prof. Blackie, of Edinburgh, is eighty-four years old, but he has never worn glasses, and, in spite of his white hair, is as lively as a school-boy. It is said of him that he quotes Greek to his friends one minute and Highland dialect the next.

A Million Friends.

A friend in need is a friend indeed and not less than one million people have found just such a friend in Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs, and Colds.—If you have never used this Great Cough Medicine, one trial will convince you that it has wonderful curative powers in all diseases of Throat, Chest and Lungs. Each bottle is guaranteed to do all that is claimed or money will be refunded. Trial bottles free at Snipes & Kinereley's drug store. Large bottles 50c and $1.00.

About a year ago I took a violent attack of the grippe. I coughed day and night for about six weeks; my wife then suggested that I try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. At first I could see no difference, but still kept trying it, and soon found that it was what I needed. If I got no relief from one dose I took another, and it was only a few days until I was free from the cough. I think people in general ought to know the value of this remedy, and I take pleasure in acknowledging the benefit I have received from it. MADISON MUSTARD, Otway, Ohio. The Land of The Setting Sun

Is still a mysterious and unexplored country to many a resident of the cyclone-ridden East and the barren Rocky-mountain region, but who, though possessed of a desire to see the great Empire of the Pacific, has up till now failed to muster the necessary energy to make the trip. It seems to them like a great journey, that along the way still linger the pitfalls and dangers of border days. But this Empire has made gigantic strides since 1849. It is not now alone the land of gold and glorious sunsets, but a stretch of country given to mellow fruitfulness, comprising all products from the luscious fig and orange of the tropics to the mammoth red apples of colder climes.

Wasco County, Oregon.

There is still thousands of acres of Government land left in Wasco county, capable of raising apples, peaches, grapes, prunes, and small fruits. Three hundred dollars clear money has been made from an acre of prunes, and $1,000 an acre from the humble strawberry. It will pay those who imagine that Uncle Sam's domain is exhausted, to make a trip to the "golden west" and see for themselves all that is to be known. There is no excuse for putting off this trip till a later time. An attraction is presented which of itself will pay for the trip. This is the California Midwinter Fair.

After taking in the Sunset City, visit Wasco County. Indian Summer is still in her glory, the thermometer still ranges in the 50's up till this writing, January 2d, and our citizens will endeavor to make your stay pleasant and profitable.
