A tax of $10 a year on bachelors be tween the age of thirty and sixty years is proposed by an eastern paper. Delinquents would be sold for taxes at a public sale and the old maids could bid them in.

The most startling bit of news that has been wafted westward by the wires for many a day is to the effect that John L. Sullivan is sober. The cause of Mr. Sullivan's sobriety is not given, but something awful must have happened to his throat.

In The Forum for February Mrs. Josephine Shaw Lowell and Dr. Lyman Abbott write of methods of relief for the unemployed-articles that grow out of their long experience in studying and working out plans that will not defeat the main purpose of charity.

The democrats want cotton protected and wool free. This at least is meant Br by the defeat of Henderson's amendment Saturday by a vote of 116 to 63 to substitute the existing rates on agricultural products for the agricultural schedule of the Wilson bill. The reason is obvious. The southern democrats believe in bolstering up their own in- kidney trouble. It is guaranteed to dustries at the expense of northern give you satisfaction. Price 74c ones, and there is no better way to do it than the republican policy of protection.

"No man ever refused the nomination for the presidency, and I would not. I am in the hands of my friends. Give me some soup." These words were uttered by Hon. Tom Reed. The exspeaker and leader of the republican minority in the house was seated in the house restaurant at Washington when he made the statement quoted. Two questions had been asked him; one, if he would make a fight for the presidential nomination, was put by a wellknown politician, and the other by the waiter, who inquired what the Maine man wanted to eat.

A bond issue of $50,000,000 sounds very strangely in a time of peace. The people, now suffering acutely from the long continued depression, and a great share of them out of employment, are to be further subjected to a direct tax on account of the incapability of the administration to run the government. The treasury is empty and it is proposed to further deplete it by reducing the national revenues nearly a hundred million dollars per annum in the matter of tariffs. Now, of all times, is the worst to meddle with the tariff. Business was satisfactory on present lines until this agitation was commenced. Wages were good and work plentiful, but when the threat contained in the Chicago platform bid fair to be realized, business became unsettled, as it always does under great proposed economic changes, and from a season of unparalleled prosperity came suffering and want, caused by mills shutting down and wages discontinued or reduced. These are undisputed facts. Let us get back to the prosperity of two years ago, which the American people abandoned for a theory and a baseless desire for change.

There are some queer specimens among the populists, says the Union Scout. In perusing the Union County Farmer we notice that several correspondents advocate boycotting all other papers and reading only their own kind of literature. We have had an impression heretofore that such narrowness only prevailed among the rigidly orthodox, but it seems it works in politics as well. If a majority of our people were built after that fashion the wheels of progress would turn backward and the minds of men stagnate for want of action. The advocates of that idea have already retarded the growth of the world at least five thousand years. But they have had their day and the old world "swings, triumphant, down the ringing grooves of change." Any man who cannot stand the arguments of an opponent is of no earthly benefit to mankind. The best thing these fellows can do is to start a little party of their own, and herd off to one side by themselves.

CARRIED HIS LUNCH.

A Snake That Made a Meal of His Own Caudal Appendage. "Talking about snakes," said the man who had worked as a telegraph lineman in South America, "you ought to see the sarpints they have down there. Me and my partner ran across a snake one day; we was working on the line and we thought at first that it was a log. It had just eaten some big critter, for there was a lump in its body, and it didn't show any more interest in us than if we were sticks. We got a big crate that had come to the village near us, full of dishes, and took it and a bottle of chloroform down to his snakelets.

"We knocked him out with the chloroform, and after a good deal of work got him coiled up in the crate. Then we carried the crate on a wagon to the station with us and took him into camp on the train. He waked up next day, but the cuss wouldn't eat. He just laid there and sorrowed, and nary a bite would he even take out of a lamb we gave him. In about two weeks he began to look thin, but he still kicked on eating, so we put him and his crate in an outhouse and left him for two weeks more. When we went to look at him again he had changed position and was now coiled around in such a way that he could get his tail in his mouth, and he had about a foot of it swallowed, just to keep his stomach braced, I suppose.

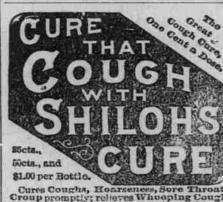

"We moved just after this, and we took Nero, as we called him, with us, The car was an old one, so we were allowed to run it off on a siding at the station that we made our headquarters, and here we left him while we traveled inland to run a line. It was a month before we got back, and we both made a break for the car, but gosh darn me, would you believe me, there wasn't more than a foot of that snake left. He had swallowed and digested about nine feet of himself, and he took off six inches more before he

The Gate City of the Inland Empire is situated at the head of navigation on the Middle Columbia, and is a thriving, prosperous city. ITS TERRITORY.

It is the supply city for an extensive and rich agricultural and grazing country, its trade reaching as far south as Summer

Lake, a distance of over two hundred miles.

The Largest Wool Market. The rich grazing country along the eastern slope of the Cascades furnishes pasture for thousands of sheep, the wool from which finds market here. The Dalles is the largest original wool shipping point in America, about 5,000,000 pounds being shipped last year.

ITS PRODUCTS.

The salmon fisheries are the finest on the Columbia, yielding this year a revenue of thousands of dollars, which will be more than doubled in the near future.

The products of the beautiful Klickitat valley find market here, and the country south and east has this year filled the warehouses, and all available storage places to overflowing with their products.

ITS WEALTH.

It is the richest city of its size on the coast and its money is scattered over and is being used to develop more farming country than is tributary to any other city in Eastern Oregon.

Its situation is unsurpassed. Its climate delightful. Its possibilities incalculable. Its resources unlimited. And on these corner stones she stands.
