THE SUBJECT OF ROADS.

Writing on this subject, Prof. J. W. Spencer of Georgia says in a recent re-

In transportation a team cannot convey a load greater than it can draw over the worst part of the roads. It is not saying too much that the cost of bringing much of the cotton to market is double or treble what it should be if the roads were in good order. Indeed, the cost of these few miles of transportation is commonly greater than that of con-veying it from the market to the seaboard. Half of this cost, at least, could be saved with good roads, and thus one application of poor roads alone is seen to cost the state $450,000. In one county there were 10,000 horses, the feeding of which at twenty-five cents a day cost $70,000 for four weeks. During four weeks the roads were in such a condition weeks the roads were in such a condition that teaming was out of the question. The horses were idle in the stable. It cost the county at least this amount—tie bad roads.

Prof. Spencer favors the state government taking charge of the highways and working the entire convict force of the commonwealth upon them constantly. He concludes as follows:

It has been estimated that the loss occasioned by bad roads costs the United States no less than $350,000,000 a year. What people do not directly pay for they do not feel, but he who provides against losses is the thrifty and well-to-do man, and so with states; for extravagant wastes and the gloomy side of bad reads out to the proportion of the states. roads ought not to be perpetuated. The bright side of good roads is not merely in direct profits, but the increased value of lands and the increased comfort in traveling. A country without railroads is cheap today. A district from which it costs more to convey the product to the nearest market than from it to the markets of the world must also be cheap. The cheapness, is overcome by good roads.

We would earnestly desire that every farmer in Wasco county take the same view of this matter as Mr. Spencer. No worse roads exist anywhere than in Wasco county, and by merely repairing the bad places in them they can be made practically good. To let them remain as they are is the policy of losing at the bung hole more than is gained at the spigot. It would pay Wasco county to expend $10,000 on roads. A great amount of time, work and money is lost every year because of roads almost impassable in the winter time.

The Navajo Indians of Arizona own 1,500,000 head of sheep. There are 16,-000 Indians in the tribe. These have also sent a protest against the passage of the Wilson bill.

Representative Tarsney, of the ways and means committee, says there is a misconception regarding the income tax. "The bill exempts all incomes of $4,000 and less," he says. In other words, a man who has an annual income of $4,000 pays no tax. A man with an annual sncome of $4,100 pays a 2 per cent. tax on $100, which is the excess above $4,000.

Senator Vest secured a ruling from the chairman that hereafter petitions against the Wilson bill can only be read by unanimous consent. Both the senator and the ex-president are doubtless almost crazy by the continual din in their ears against the measure, and, as unanimous consent is a hard thing to obtain with a democratic majority for this purpose, it will probably end the reading of these petitions in the senate. The right of petition among the masses thus loses its potency and at democratic

The hundreds of hundreds of anti-Wilson bill petitions have had the same effect on the democrats in congress as a cat-o'-nine-tails possesses. They have been lashed and goaded by them until they are nearly desperate. With the supreme energy of a dying man they have refused to hear these petitions, and hope by stopping up their ears, and not listening to the wails of the people, the cry for bread, and the plea for work, to get through the Wilson bill with the least possible talk about it. To this end they annihilate their own sense of judgment, hush their own reason, and desperately trust to luck that the bill will prove to be not so bad as painted.

Intimately as the ruling families of Europe were allied by blood and mar-riage in the middle of the sixteenth century, when Mary I. was queen of England, the present day displays still more intimate and widespread connections between them.

Take the English royal family as the starting point. It is connected, first, with Germany by Empress Frederick. The present emperor is Queen Victoria's grandson. There are also George I., king of Greece; Ernest, duke of Schleswig-Holstein, the grand duke of Oldenburg, and Alexander III., emperor of Russia. Alexander III. again is a Romanoff. In other directions, again, the emperor of Austria enters into this royal family, and on his side also the grand duke of Baden, the queen regent of Spain and her little boy king. In fact, there is not a royal family in Europe at the present day which is not more or less intimately connected with the rest by kindred or by marriage.

The Gate City of the Inland Empire is situated at the head of navigation on the Middle Columbia, and is a thriving, prosperous city.

ITS TERRITORY. It is the supply city for an extensive and rich agricultural and grazing country, its trade reaching as far south as Summer Lake, a distance of over two hundred miles. The Largest Wool Market. The rich grazing country along the eastern slope of the Cascades furnishes pasture for thousands of sheep, the wool from which finds market here. The Dalles is the largest original wool shipping point in America, about 5,000,000 pounds being shipped last year.

ITS PRODUCTS.

The salmon fisheries are the finest on the Columbia, yielding this year a revenue of thousands of dollars, which will be more than doubled in the near future. The products of the beautiful Klickitat valley find market here, and the country south and east has this year filled the warehouses, and all available storage places to overflowing with

ITS WEALTH.

It is the richest city of its size on the coast and its money is scattered over and is being used to develop more farming country than is tributary to any other city in Eastern Oregon.
