JANUARY JOTTINGS.

Minor Events Which Pertain to City and Country.

The trees will soon commence to wear their summer clothing, presumably packed in their trunks.

The 5th of February this year falls on next Monday. In the evening the firemen have a ball at the Armory.

Messrs. Wood Bros. of Durkee shipped four cars of beef cattle from the Saltmarsh & Co. stockyards last night.

Bell Lewis will be tried before Judge Schutz at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. She is charged by Sarah Woods with larceny by bailie.

T. Richardson will be tried before the recorder at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning for using obscene language. T. T. Nicholas is the complaining witness.

Mr. J. Carmichael, of Prineville, shipped two car loads of horses from Grants station yesterday, to be taken to North Carolina, where they will be disposed of.

In the show window of Messrs. Helm & Co. are two cuttings from a plum tree, which, under the influence of the warm sun and exclusion from the outside air, are blooming beautifully.

The recorder is busy taking testimony in the equity case of Eugene D. White, plaintiff vs. C. P. Heald, Mary F. Heald and J. H. Ferguson, receiver for defendants, referred to him from the circuit court.

Mr. R. R. Hinton, of Bake Oven, sold 1,750 head of mutton sheep a few days ago to J. W. Ketchum, who shipped them today from Saltmarsh & Co.'s stock yards to the Union Meat Co., at Troutdale.

Mr. W. H. Vanbibber made a misstep this morning while delivering milk and so injured his foot that he had to send for his son Will to help him make the delivery. It is thought that he has dislocated some of the bones of his foot.

The Examiner that reached this city today contained 60 pages of reading matter and illustrations, describing the Midwinter fair and the opening day. This stroke of enterprise puts Chicago to the blush, which suffers vastly by a comparison.

An Irishman in The Dalles said recently: "Faith, America has some great presidents. There was Abe Lincoln—he was a great president—he frayed the nigger; Cleveland is a great president, too—he frayed the laboring man. They are both fray from labor."

Mr. J. H. Crooks of Prineville returned from a trip with two cars of horses which he took to North Carolina to sell. His experiment was entirely satisfactory. Mr. Crooks is firmly persuaded that Oregon is ahead in everything and that he would not exchange situations with what he saw east of the Rockies. Oregon, while we complain of dull times and depression, is not a circumstance to the Eastern states.

Mr. E. Schanno has received a letter from Mr. Carpenter, a pioneer hop raiser of North Yakima, containing full instructions as to the best method of raising hops. Mr. Schanno believes that the Tygh Valley country is especially suited to hop raising, and being near to the reservation, there are always plenty of Indian pickers to be secured. At some future time we will perhaps publish Mr. Carpenter's letter. At present no one is engaged in raising hops near home.

The weather has been somewhat changeable during the past few days. Light rains have fallen at night and the days have been fair. The barometer has risen gradually and the general temperature has been near the freezing point. Today has been one of the bright and delightful ones, although it has a chilliness reminding one of the approaching frosty morning. This 31st day of January the hills are quite green with the new grass and in sheltered nooks the pussy willows are out. How is this for a latitude 45.36 north and longitude 1.21. 18 west?

The price quoted for prunes in San Francisco by Mr. Meins was a retail price. This explanation is made because some growers are of the opinion that Mr. Meins meant market price. Mr. Meins' real words were that he had only succeeded in finding Italian prunes for sale in one grocery store and the merchant asked 15 cents per pound for them. The Spokane markets are conceded to pay as high if not higher prices for fruits than any other coast market, and we are advised that a shipment recently made by Joles, Collins & Co. brought the following prices: 10 boxes @ 5 1/2 c lb; 1 box 6 1/2 c lb; and 74 boxes 8 c lb.

Priestess of the claret and cracker religion, Mrs. Williams, has recovered from her remarkable fast of nearly 110 days—70 days on the body and the blood, and 40 days on absolutely nothing but water—and has gone to eating again. In the regeneration of the body Mrs. Williams was asked by a Telegram reporter to describe her sensations. It was a graphic recital, but there was much in it that would floor the uninitiated. She described the magic change of the earthly clay into the spiritual body, and many of the pains and aches accompanying the leavening process were so strikingly and accurately portrayed that the unregenerated would recognize in them symptoms of la grippe.

Wants to Know.

An example of the prevailing ignorance concerning our country is found in the annexed letter from a real estate man in Sioux City, Iowa. The writer is certainly excusable for not knowing the information he seeks. Wasco county is sadly in need of a little advertising:

Sioux City, Iowa, Jan. 27, 1894. Editor Chronicle: Please give me information on these points: 1. Present population. 2. I understand navigation is obstructed in the river for twelve miles by rapids, rocks, etc. Where is the town located with reference to this obstruction; at the lower end, in the middle or at the upper end. 3. What are your prospects as to future growth? Do you expect to become a city or, are you properly classified as to the future with Eugene, Albany and Oregon City? 4. What is the lay of the ground as to town sites? Are you hemmed in by mountains so that you must build up the side hill if you build at all, or have you room to grow? 5. Is the river above The Dalles ever likely to amount to much for traffic or will that country depend mainly on the railroads? 6. Is The Dalles likely to become the point for loading and unloading boats for traffic or will that necessarily remain mainly at Portland, except your local needs? 7. Have you any advertising literature? Yours truly, L. S. FAWCETT.

A Drive Whist Party.

The Misses Schmidt royally entertained a few of their friends at their home last night by giving a drive whist party. The evening was one of the most enjoyable ones spent this winter. The game was an intensely interesting one. Three prizes were given and after a sumptuous lunch the guests indulged in dancing until a late hour. Those present were the Misses Alma and Edith Schmidt, Grace Marden, Cad Booth, Allie and Olivia Rowland and Etta St. Louis, Messrs. Vic Schmidt, Ed. French, Ed. Wingate, John and Fred Weigle, Ralph Rowland and Frank Garretson.

BOEN.

In The Dalles, January 31st, to the wife of A. Bettingen, a daughter.

BOEN.

In Dufur, to the wife of John C. Johnston, a son. All parties concerned doing well except George and "Hose" Johnston and M. J. Anderson, who being good republicans, dislike to see an increase of democratic population. The evening following the event they met in solemn council, and agreed that the little one should be named Penoyer Cleveland, and drafted a set of resolutions looking to the better protection of republican interests, and calculated to strike terror to the hearts of all democrats of family.

NEWS OF THE STATE.

A brace of burglars entered the Dallas postoffice early yesterday morning, drilled a hole into the safe, which they blew open and got away with $400 and $200 in stamps of various denominations. In the case of the State of Oregon vs. John Armstrong at Oregon City, charged with assault with intent to commit rape, the jury after being out twenty-four hours, returned into court with a verdict of guilty as charged in the indictment. John Hoffman, shot about a week ago by Neil Campbell, in Sullivan's gulch, while in the act of robbing a chicken roost in the night, died at Good Samaritan hospital at 2:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, despite the kind and careful nursing he received.

At Rome Do as the Romans Do. Ambrose, bishop of Milan in the fourth century, was once visited by Monica and her son Augustine, the celebrated bishop of Hippo, in North Africa. There was one point as to which Augustine was in some trouble, and he therefore asked Ambrose for his guidance in the matter. At Rome, he said, it was the custom to fast on Saturday, while at Milan they fasted not; what course was he, Augustine, to take? "Well," replied Ambrose, "when I am here, I dine as they are in the habit of doing, but when I go to Rome I do as the Romans do." This sensible saying has passed into a proverb, and means: "Fall in with the customs of those with whom you happen to be living."

COINCIDENTAL CAREERS.

The Queer Story Related of Two Congressmen. Hon. Joseph C. Hendrix, representative in congress from New York, and Hon. Richard Bartholdt, representative from Missouri, used to be fellow-reporters in Brooklyn years ago. Hendrix represented the New York Sun and Bartholdt the Brooklyn Freie Presse. The latter, in the course of time, drifted west and rose to be a prominent figure in local politics in St. Louis, where he now edits an influential German paper. Hendrix stayed in New York, but in a general way experienced the same disposition of a benevolent providence as his former colleague of the press. They turned up in Washington about the same time, and there was a cordial greeting as they shook hands. "What are you doing in Washington?" asked Hendrix. "That's a fair question," said Bartholdt, "but suppose you tell me what you are doing here?" "Why, I'm a member of congress," said Hendrix. "So am I," said Bartholdt. "How did you get into politics?" "Oh," said Hendrix. "I was elected a member of the school board." "So was I," said Bartholdt. "Then I was elected president of the school board," said Hendrix. "So was I," said Bartholdt. "Then I was elected to congress," continued Hendrix. "And so was I," exclaimed Bartholdt. "Well," said Hendrix, "you and I must have been born under the same conjunction of planets." Both had reached congress by precisely parallel lines, after separating in the reporters' room in the Brooklyn city hall building, and met after a term of years in which they had completely lost trace of each other.

THE SPANISH BULL.

How the Animal is Developed into a Fighter for the Public Arena. The bulls used for fighting purposes are a specially-selected, specially-cared-for class. They are all pedigreed. Andalusia is especially the district of the bull. Here, at the age of one year, the young bulls are separated from the heifers, branded with the owner's mark and turned out loose on the plains to graze with others of their own age. When a year older the young bulls are gathered together in order that their mettle and fighting qualities may be tested. One of them is separated from the herd and chased by a man on horseback, who, by the skillful use of a blunted lance, overthrows the escaping bull, whereupon another rider comes in front of the animal with a sharper lance to withstand the expected attack. If the bull, on regaining his feet, attacks the rider twice it is passed as a fighting animal; but if he turns tail and runs off then it is set aside to be killed or to be used in agricultural work. And so with each animal until the whole herd of two-year-olds has been tested. Each bull that has stood the test successfully is then entered in the herd book with a description of its appearance and receives a name—such as Espartero, Hamenco and the like. This process of careful selection goes on from year to year until the bull is five years old, when, should its mettle still prove true, it is ready for the arena, and flaming posters appear on the walls of Madrid or Seville announcing that Espartero (or whatever his name is) will, on such and such a date, make his first and final appearance. A good "warrantable" five-year-old bull for the fighting ring costs from $70 to $80.
