NEWS OF THE STATE.

The Ashland schools have been closed on account of scarlet fever.

Several Crook county horse men are shipping horses to North Carolina. J. H. Crooks of Prineville recently returned from that state, where he disposed of two car loads of horses. This was his first shipment, and he says his experiment was highly satisfactory. J. Carmichael, of Prineville, shipped two car loads of horses to North Carolina this week, from Grants.

F. D. Smith formerly of Wagner, who drew the big Examiner prize last year died recently at Lakeview from the effects of amputation of a broken limb. The broken leg was received in a runaway, and from exposure grangrene set in. Smith never lived on his orange farm, but sold it soon after he won it for $8,000. This he managed to get rid of by dissipation in a few months and he died penniless. He was in his cups when the accident happened which resulted in his death, and what he thought to be his great good fortune proved to be his undoing.

Albany hunters with their big game stories should learn a lesson from the following from the Wolf Creek correspondence of the Grants Pass Courier: Mike Maloney went out the other evening to hunt up a stray bovine. He found it within a quarter of a mile from his house dead, with a panther coming in from an opposite direction. He fired on the feasting beast and his cracking rifle started up a band of five full grown panthers, which scattered in, as many directions, while what few hairs Mike has left on his pate ascended heavenward with their tingled points snapping like a Leland osculatory smack. The bovine was a two year-old; the panthers now number four and Mike is building a high picket fence around his house.

TWO DOMESTIC TRAGEDIES.

Two Noble-Hearted Girls Who Faced the Horrors of a Murder.

They were sisters, these two, at the moment in awful peril, and they were alone in the house in their extremity, says the Free Press.

"Here," said the elder one, handing her sister a deadly-looking dirk, "is a knife. Bethink you you can use it?" "I bethink me I can," replied the younger girl with chattering teeth, "but oh, Celeste, is there no way but this?"

"She had read 'Virginia.'" "None; methinks I hear him move." "S'God I. He is struggling to escape."

"Open the cellar door cautiously. I have oiled the hinges. I will stand here and hold the light. Courage, brave girl! Hiss! I can hear him stir."

"Now may the fates defend us," whispered the girl with the knife, "and save me from a death ignoble. What vital part shall I strike, Celeste?"

"Give it to him in the neck, sister. But soft, is yonder light the jowled orb of day, and has the night faded into tomorrow?"

"Nay, that is the electric light on the corner which has just showed its hand. I go now to kill him. Yes, I have said it, to k-k-kill him!"

The brave, heroic, beautiful girl plunged down the stairs into the opaque semi-darkness, and in a moment a terrific shriek—Celeste at once recognized the brand—told that all was over.

"Are you bringing him up?" asked the girl at the head of the cellar stairs in a voice alike on both sides.

"Yes—by hand," came the ghostly whisper.

The next moment he was dropped on the floor, and the sisters threw themselves into each other's arms, while shriek after shriek clove the purple distance of the night.

They had murdered a mouse.

During the coming year there will be an immense number of matters of the most vital interest to farmers dealt with by Congress and the Executive Departments at Washington. It is highly important that the farmers be kept promptly and fully informed as to what is being planned and done affecting them at the National Capital. They should all, therefore, take THE AMERICAN FARMER, which, being on the ground, has better facilities than any other papers for getting this information, and devotes itself to this duty. They will find in it constantly a great amount of valuable information that they can get in no other paper.

FEBRUARY FARRAGO.

Minor Events of Town and Country Briefly Stated.

The McKinley club meets tomorrow evening.

F. W. L. Skibbe will appear before the recorder at a preliminary examination Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Wheat reached the lowest figure ever known in Chicago today, being 60%. The previous low mark, many years ago, was 62%.

An elocutionary contest will be held on Wednesday evening, Feb. 14th, at the Congregational church by the Juvenile Temple. Admission 10 and 25 cents.

A telegram was received in this city this morning that Judge Hallett at Denver, granted the injunction of U. P. employes against the proposed new wage schedule. This means there will be no strike and no reduction of wages.

The condition of Watson is much the same as yesterday. There is no decided improvement, neither is there any change for the worse. His ultimate recovery will entirely depend on the range of the wound, and at present this is not known.

The Oregonian announces that the birds of spring are beginning to make their appearance and frogs are commencing to croak. The robins have been with us all winter and the aggravating music of the frogs has been heard at irregular intervals all through the wet season.

The Arlington Record announces a coyote roundup for Saturday, the 10th instant. The lines will be the Columbia on the north, Willow creek on the east, Alkali canyon on the south. The roundup will be on the old Hicklin ranch on Eight-mile, where everyone is expected to meet about 12 m.

School Clerk Jacobsen started in yesterday taking school census, which comprises children between the ages of 4 and 18 years. It will require two or three weeks to complete the work. This work is important because the more children that can be shown as belonging to the district the more school money can be drawn from the state.

The case of the State of Oregon against Miss Bell Lewis was called in Justice Schutz court at 10 a. m. today. Both sides was represented by able counsel. Several witnesses were examined and cross examined with considerable bitterness. Logical arguments were produced by attorneys and the case was submitted to the jury for their consideration, with what result will be told tomorrow.

There was a very large audience at the Christian church last evening to hear the story of "Jonah and the great fish." One confession at the close of the sermon. The subject for this evening is: "An interesting account of the experience of Solomon." Don't fail to come and bring your friends.

THE MARKETS.

FRIDAY, Feb. 10.—The markets are unusually quiet, partially on account of bad roads. Low prices for staple products continue. The only kinds of farmers produce that are looking up are good keeping apples and choice potatoes. The tendency of the egg market is downward, also butter.

The feeling in the wheat market is more depressed than at any time known. Reports from Chicago today state that the bears pushed the market down to 60%, the lowest point ever reached in history. European advices chronicle a corresponding low figure. Reports of increased acreage of fall and winter corn for 1894, together with the known surplus on hand of the grain-producing countries, has had much to do in this great decline in the markets. The depression of the past eight months, with nothing of an encouraging nature for an outlook, is foreboding of low prices for 1894.

The wool market is lifeless. The Wilson tariff bill knocked the last prop out from the market when it passed the house. The attitude of the senate appears to be in harmony with the lower house, presuming Senator Voorhees voices the prevailing sentiment of the law makers.

Fruit Men Are Welcome.

No pains will be spared in Spokane to make the visiting fruit growers welcome when they reach that city next week. The reception committee have completed arrangements for the comfort and well being of the guests. A committee of ladies will serve luncheon at the reception, and other sub-committees will meet the incoming trains at various points on the road. One feature of the reception, which will be continued through the days of the convention, will be a display of home-grown fruit. O. B. Nelson of Spokane has charge of the collection, which has made a good beginning and is growing day by day.

A Funny Item in the Wilson Bill.

In the Wilson tariff bill we find that Section 273 reads as follows: Collars and cuffs and shirts, and all articles of wearing apparel of every description, not especially provided for in this act, composed wholly or in part of linen, and linen hydraulic hose, thirty-five per cent. ad valorem.

This is the first time we ever heard that "linen hydraulic hose" is an article of wearing apparel.—Walla Walla Statesman.

Chas. Bodman Dead.

A Spokane dispatch of yesterday says: Charles Bodman died tonight of typhoid fever and worry. The remains will be taken to Portland for interment. A month ago he was arrested on a charge of smuggling opium. His attorney, J. B. Jones, said tonight: "His arrest was an outrage. Keen disgrace drove him into fever, which carried him off. The prosecution is responsible for his death, as he was, to my knowledge, an innocent man."

Bodman is very well known in this city, having worked at the U. P. shops here several years.

The fact of Bodman's death caused considerable comment in Spokane. A month ago he was arrested on the charge of smuggling opium. The preliminary examination was held before United States Commissioner Kenyon, and, although the evidence was not sufficient to convict, the commissioner remarked that he considered it his duty to hold Bodman to the grand jury in order to give the government officer a chance to fortify his case. The government's witness was a woman from Nelson, who it was claimed was devoid of character. Subsequent to the woman's testimony her hotel in Nelson was burned and it is said she left the country.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. J. M. Elliott of Mosier is in town today.

Mr. Fred V. Wilson of Mitchell is in the city.

Deputy Sheriff Phirman left for Dufur today on business.

Mr. A. J. Dufur and wife of Dufur went to Portland yesterday.

Mrs. Kate Rosch, nee Merther, of Walla Walla is in the city, the guest of Mrs. Ella Sharon.

In the Country.

The clergyman mounted on a lank, raw-boned animal, asked a dirty urchin the nearest road to town.

"Who be you, anyway?" asked the boy.

"I am a follower of the Lord, my son," replied the clergyman.

"Well, it don't make any difference which road you take, mister, you'll never catch him with that horse."
