FEBRUARY FARRAGO.

Minor Events of Town and Country Briefly Stated.

It's oh to be a poet with a pull.
To have your paper or your magazine
In which you can be most profusely dull
And profit as a healthy brick machine,
You can write a sonnet to a muddy shoe,
Or a eulogistic epistle on a fool.
To a street car horse indite a line or two.

The snow is a foot deep on the higher mountains near The Dalles.

Charles Chester was arraigned this morning and pleaded not guilty.

A petition is being circulated to build a new school house in the East End.

Saltmarsh & Co. shipped four carloads of sheep this morning to Troutdale.

The school clerk has not yet finished his enumeration, but has already 930 names, an increase of 27 over last year.

Easter Sunday comes on the 25th of March this year, and the weather-wise are busily engaged in predicting an early spring.

School Clerk Jacobsen while working in Thompson's addition yesterday propounded the usual question: "Madam, how many children have you?" "Seven," she replied "and I will have two more next year." Of course the lady meant of school age. One of her children has just turned three years, and another lacks a month of being four years old.

"Ken" is bad medicine, as a former correspondent of THE CHRONICLE has likewise learned to his discomfort. We should advise the next correspondent who wishes to measure strength with him to load his gun with dynamite, and then follow it up with an earthquake. The dynamite will never explode, even if it strikes him, unless there is some tremendous external concussion.

We saw today at Saltmarsh & Co's. stock yards 11 fine fat hogs that were brought in from the Eastern ranch near Dufur for the young hogs were fine weathers. Their average weight was 315 lbs. We understand that they were fattened on wheat that was unsaleable on account of it being damaged by the rains last fall. Really, there is more profit in feeding wheat than in hauling to market unless the market price is 65 to 75 cents per bushel.

Wapinitia Whispers.

WAPINITIA, Feb. 14, 1894.

This is ground hog day. Hurrah for the whole hog family!

Fine winter and stock fat. Sheepmen will have more wool than some people have hay.

W. H. Davis is feeding about one hundred of the finest steers ever seen in this country.

We have been having church pretty much all winter. Rev. Warfield begins a revival tomorrow evening.

A splendid chance for someone to do well in the poultry business.

Mr. Frank Gordon has been very ill, having had a number of hemorrhages of the lungs, but is some better now, and his many friends hope to see him recover.

By the way, look out for news of a wedding, for R. A. says he believes in reciprocity, and so does M. A.

John C. is happy once more, but kicks if the mail sack is not full.

Deacon Farris and C. A. Smith went sleighing Sunday, but luck was against them, breaking their sleigh and both horses being unbroke to ride, the walking from Weber's home was very bad.

OLD SETTLER.

Brotherly Love.

Marshal Dan Maloney had a bout with his brother Frank about 9 o'clock last night on the corner of Court and Second streets. Dan struck him and knocked a cigar out of his mouth. Then both clinched and floundered around in the mud. They lost their hats and the marshal deputized a young man named Davis to assist him in arresting his brother. Davis' first duty was to gather up the hats, and while Dan was replacing his on his head, Frank broke and ran up Court street. Dan and Davis closely pursued him and rounded him up in the alley between the school house fence and Kinersly's. Being closely pressed, Frank scaled the fence and sought admission at Mr. Kinersly's door. He went in, and after a few minutes Mr. Kinersly called to Dan to come in. He did so, Davis went away, and it is probable a reconciliation was made, for nothing further has been heard of it this morning.

First in the Field.

Encouraged or reminded by the patent having expired on the Bell telephone, Maier & Benton have connected their two stores by a telephone of home manufacture which works to a charm. They have made receiving tubes from blocks of wood. The diaphragm is of the same substance used by the Bell telephone, and the tube is held to the ear and mouth alternately. Instead of a bell, they are at present using a telegraphic key and sounder to call with. These are the first merchants in the city to use a telephone, and their action will probably be contagious.

"What'll You Take?"

Mercury.

The Sunday Mercury is certainly under many obligations to its editorial friends for the many compliments paid it the past few weeks. The brethren, when they come to Portland, are invited to our den. When we get them here—it won't be our fault if the account is not quickly balanced.

If you wish to see a fine assortment of oranges, lemons and bananas just call and see the display at H. H. Campbell's, next door to the postoffice.

THE MARKETS.

Live Stock Market Fairly Active—No Assurance for Higher Wheat Prices.

FRIDAY, Feb. 15—The condition of trade has not changed materially since last report. Business continues quiet in all lines except the provision. Prices have not changed in anything, unless it is in sugar, which has advanced 1/4 of a cent per pound.

The produce market is fairly active. Potatoes are quoted at 50 to 60 cents per sack, according to quality and condition. Other vegetables are in fair demand at former quotations.

Flour is quoted at $2.75 per barrel wholesale, and $3 retail.

The egg and poultry market is steady at 12 1/2 for eggs, and poultry at $2.25 and $2.75 per dozen.

The butter market is weak at 35 to 50 cents per roll.

The live stock market is fairly active. Prices of stall fed heaves are quoted, cows $2, steers $2.50 per 100 cwt. gross.

Mutton sheep are freely offered at $2 to $2.25 per head. The hog market is dull and good porkers are quoted at $3.20 per 100 pounds live weight. Eastern markets report a stiffening disposition.

Omaha quotes $5.10 as top figures for extra good. Reports come in of some few lots of cattle that are being fed up for later markets. Present advices indicate a slight advance for choice heaves.

There are no expectations of a better market for mutton, as the demand is short of the supply.

The cereal markets at home and abroad are dull and evidence a weak tone. A slight advance was reported a day or two ago in Chicago and New York, but European markets were not affected in the least by the attempt of the bulls. Reports from Europe give out the impression that the outlook for better averages for 1894 much in excess of that of 1893. Late Argentine advices report a yield of double that of 1893.

While foreign crop reports indicate an excess for this year, our own country reports a falling off in winter wheat acreage of 14 per cent less than 1890, and some writers give the impression that America's product will fall short of last year's. However that may be, the surplus now on hand and the depressed condition of the country, with the favorable reports from abroad, producers can have no assurance of 1892 prices. July future deliveries are bought below the cost of production. This may seem pessimistic, but the facts must be accepted.

Great Calamities to Come.

A German professor in Vienna is credited with making predictions which are highly important if worth anything at all. He is alleged to have predicted that next July or August New York City will disappear under a tidal wave and Florida and California become islands as the result of a submarine earthquake; also, that a little more than five years later—namely, November 13, 1899, our earth will collide with the comet of 1866, the result of which will be "fireworks and darkness."

FINED $30.

Garrett Fullerton Found Guilty of Assault Upon Cooper.

Garrett Fullerton came up before Justice Davis last evening for trial for an assault upon D. J. Cooper. Mr. Cooper was represented by W. H. Wilson and Fullerton by "Judge" Walton. Walton presented a demurrer to have the case dismissed on the grounds that the complaint was illegally drawn, and second that the injuries said to be sustained by plaintiff were not sufficient to be entitled an assault. The justice's attention was directed to the statute by Mr. Wilson to refute the first point and a glance at Cooper's face by the judge himself knocked out the second point of the demurrer, and it was accordingly ruled out. Mr. Cooper, sr., Cyrus Cooper and John Brookhouse testified for plaintiff and Fullerton for defendant. In the cross examination of Cooper by Walton, the question arose about which hand he used to strike Fullerton. "My right hand," he said. "Don't you ever use your left hand," inquired Walton. "I am not paralyzed," said Cooper. Fullerton's testimony was given in a very straightforward manner. He was aggrieved on account of non-payment of wages due him, and said he secured the very bad advice of retaining forcible possession from a lawyer of this city. "Who gave you such advice?" inquired Walton. "I object," said Walton, and the gang laughed. His objection was overruled, and the defendant told where his office was, but did not know the name. Asked if he could show any injuries Fullerton said no, and being chaffed about it said, "Well, yes," and he exhibited a badly swollen fist, that had apparently come in contact with something. Arguments were made by both lawyer(?)s and the judge finally decided on a $30 fine for assault or 15 days in the county jail. The prisoner gave one despairing glance at his attorney, whose head was bowed, and then submitted himself to the mercies of the sheriff.
