

Gentlemen's Neckwear.

We will exhibit in our Corner Window on SATURDAY, February 24th, a line of Neckwear, which we are now opening up.

The Silks are extremely handsome, and many of the Ties should have been marked to sell for 50 cents; but we have so far successfully resisted the temptation to do so, and will place them on sale at the uniform price of 25 cents.

They are good enough for anybody, at any time, and at any price.

ALL GOODS MARKED IN PLAIN FIGURES.

FEBRUARY FARRAGO.

Minor Events of Town and Country Briefly Stated.

The weather secretary will please get out of the way, and now let February march, so that April May.

The cold wave still waves. Today will be yesterday tomorrow.

The fruitgrowers will hold their regular monthly meeting tomorrow at the city hall.

Mr. M. M. Waterman of 8-Mile yesterday received a fine imported Chester White pig, which he proposes to use for breeding purposes.

M. A. Davis who left here last fall for Windsor, Missouri, writes that they are having some very bad weather there, and that he longs for the bright skies and green hills of Oregon again.

We want weekly correspondents in all populous country precincts, and to the first who applies in each we will send the daily CHRONICLE, and postage and paper necessary to cover the expenses of mailing.

Owing to the cold weather, work at the Locks is suspended, except the pumps, blacksmith and machine shops and the wood cutters. The coldest it has been there though was about 16 below freezing.

The many friends of Wm. J. Beezley will be sorry to learn that he is in a very precarious condition with la grippe at his home at Newbridge, Baker county. Mr. Beezley was an old resident of Wasco county.

A very pleasant afternoon whist party was given at the home of Mrs. H. Glenn yesterday. The score cards were very artistic, having on one side an admirable portrait of George Washington painted by Mrs. Glenn herself and on the other a gilt hatchet. The first prize was won by Mrs. Bradshaw and the second by Mrs. Garretson.

Freight No. 21 was wrecked last night three miles this side of Troutdale. Only meager particulars can yet be learned, as the track is not open and no one has come up who knows. It is known that a number of carloads of cattle were a part of the train, which were thrown from the track. It is believed, also, the caboose followed the cattle cars, but whether anyone was injured or not and how bad is the wreck cannot yet be learned.

INDIAN DESPERADOES.

Two Warm Springs Indians Get Wine by Force.

A few days ago two burly Indians went to the house of Mr. Becht, the California wine maker, living in Thompson's addition, and finding only Mrs. Becht at home, commanded her to give them some "whisky." The lady replied that they could not have it, whereupon one of them drew out an ugly-looking knife. She became alarmed and ran out the back door and did not return for some time. The Indians helped themselves to what they wanted and left. As it is quite probable they will do the same thing again, Mr. Becht is alarmed, and does not know exactly the best thing to do. These Indians belong to the Warm Springs reservation and can be identified by Mr. Becht. He hesitates to use force or endeavor to have them punished by law for fear of revenge. The Indians really have no right of the reservation, unless permission is granted by the agent. This law, however, has not been enforced for years. A few such events as the one related, may, however, direct attention to the beauties of the law, resulting in its enforcement.

A Beautiful Spectacle.

The heavens presented another beautiful sight last evening to all those who were fortunate enough to observe them. The Northern lights brilliantly illuminated the sky, and the atmosphere was so surcharged with electricity that the telegraph instruments would not work between this point and Helena. An arc of magnificent proportions was described, with the horizon for the base, its outer extremes being in the northwestern and northeastern sky. The top of this arc arose to about 45 degrees, and the entire segment shown with the electrical brilliancy of the arc light. Above the arc and serving as a background was a large expanse of lurid crimson. Streamers or banners of bright white arose from the outer edge of this vast circle, reaching at times almost to the zenith, which alternately paled and glowed, producing grand effects. Language is inadequate to properly describe the beauty of the scene, and is one of those rare sights which "beggars description."

The Wettle Case.

Circuit court convened at 9 o'clock this morning, and after the usual notices and motions by attorneys, the case of the state against James Wettle, indicated jointly with John Krier for the crime of larceny in a dwelling, was taken up. Eighteen jurors were called and examined before the panel was completed. The jury being then sworn to their duties as jurors, W. H. Wilson in a brief manner, outlined to the jury what the state expected to prove in the case, and A. S. Bennett in a carefully worded speech gave the jury an insight as to what the defense would be. Several witnesses for the state were called and examined by District Attorney W. H. Wilson and minutely cross examined by defendant's attorney. Court then took recess until 1:30 p. m.

"Hearts."

As a pleasant variation from the general rule of whist the Misses Williams entertained their friends with a heart party last evening, complimenting to their cousin, Miss Marshall. Not alone when diamonds were led were hearts captured, but in the endeavor to get rid of as many as possible, they were thrown alike on spades, and even in the face of clubs. A very novel way of keeping score was introduced, by providing each guest with a wire girdle, on which was hung a tiny bell, of different shades, for every heart taken, making a pretty souvenir when the games were finished. Mr. Lonsdale and Miss FitzGerald were the champion heart gatherers, and took the second prizes, while Mr. Reid and Miss Besse Lang succeeded in giving the largest number away and winning the first prizes. The lunch was "delicious," "palatable," etc., and cannot be described even in newspaper parlance. As is usual when these young ladies entertain, nothing was forgotten which would add to the guests' pleasure.

The Republican Demurs.

The Union Republican contains the following demurrers to the injunction suit:

The Salem hog will keep at it till it roots the capital to Portland.

If the injunction holds it will hurt Umatilla county severely. It will kill the branch supreme court and remove the state support of her normal school.

The state of Oregon, through their legislature, said it needed a branch asylum in Eastern Oregon. The Salem hog says it does not. Which is the biggest, the state or the hog?

While a man by the name of Taylor poses as the plaintiff in the case, it is generally believed to be only another instance of Salem's hoggishness to secure the benefits of all state appropriations.

The people of Eastern Oregon are justly indignant at the Salem people for enjoying the location of the asylum. It seems to be well enough for the state to appropriate money for public institutions at Salem, Albany, Corvallis, Eugene, Roseburg and Portland, but when it comes to putting state money in Eastern Oregon it is unconstitutional. Wonder if Eastern Oregon isn't a part of the state anyway?

The Arlington Record has decided views on the asylum question:

"An injunction has been brought to prevent the purchase of land and the building of a branch insane asylum provided for by the last legislature as a plum for Eastern Oregon in lieu of an appropriation for building a portage road between The Dalles and Celilo. The whole scheme was born in corruption and deserves a death that will make it so dead that no trump will ever blow loud enough to resurrect it. Is it not about time we were hearing of aspirants for the legislature on the portage road question?"

Married not Mated.

Another American girl seeking notoriety has found it. Mrs. Chaska, nee Cora Bell Fellow, who was married at the Cheyenne River agency three years ago to a Santee Sioux named Chaska, has found life with her dusky spouse unbearable and is now living apart from him in a small town in Southern Nebraska. Several months ago Chaska and his family went to reside on the Santee reservation a short distance up the river from Yankton. Chaska is a Santee Indian and, in company with his children receives a fat government subsidy every three months. After three months' life on the reservation Chaska suddenly disappeared, and it was discovered he had eloped with a young and buxom squaw. Mrs. Chaska, after waiting for his return for a week, left the reservation with her half breed children, vowing she would never live with Chaska again; and, two weeks after she left, Chaska returned to the agency and is living there with the woman who accompanied him in his elopement. He is happy and wants no more to do with his white wife.

NEWS OF THE STATE.

Parties going from La Grande to a dance at Elgin by the branch road were compelled to return by team, on account of a snow blockade.

The populists of Sherman county held a meeting in Moro last Saturday and elected Geo. Meader their county chairman for the ensuing year.

Work has commenced on the Pendleton wool-scouring mill. The main building will be 40x100 feet, with engine-room and warehouse annexed.

An Easterner writes to know if there is any game around Prineville, and the Review says: We should say so—faro, tap, poker—in fact almost any game a man wants.

The taxpayers of Gilliam county are urging the county court to extend the time for paying their taxes until November next. They say that should the sheriff be compelled to force collections before that time it will ruin the farmers and everybody else.
