

Gentlemen's Neckwear.

We will exhibit in our Corner Window on SATURDAY, February 24th, a line of Neckwear, which we are now opening up.

The Silks are extremely handsome, and many of the Ties should have been marked to sell for 50 cents; but we have so far successfully resisted the temptation to do so, and will place them on sale at the uniform price of 25 cents.

They are good enough for anybody, at any time, and at any price.

ALL GOODS MARKED IN PLAIN FIGURES.

PEASE & MAYS.

FEBRUARY FARRAGO.

Minor Events of Town and Country Briefly Stated.

He was learning to play the guitar. His mistress to serenade. But ere he could tinkle a bar. Another had married the maid.

Soiree tonight in Armory hall. The city presents a lively appearance today. A large number of our farmer friends are in town.

A merry party of skaters left this afternoon for Snipes lake to enjoy the afternoon on runners.

No. 1 arrived several hours late this morning, owing to a snow blockade near North Powder which delayed No. 2.

A class in vocal instruction will be organized at the Christian church on Monday evening next by Mr. Vine Phelps.

The members of the King's Daughters will meet with Mrs. S. L. Brooks on Monday afternoon, and are expected to bring their thimbles.

The cold wave has passed and the weather is pleasant. The mercury is registering above freezing and marks above the forty degree point.

Ice was brought into town yesterday 3 1/2 inches thick and today ice is being cut on the sloughs. It is of fine quality, being perfectly transparent and without air cells.

It is said the Russian thistle can never become a nuisance in any country where it rains in the late fall and winter. The seed will germinate and the least frost will destroy them.

Oscar Sandman, who at one time lived in The Dalles and made himself conspicuous as a thief, has been found guilty of the crime of larceny in a store in Portland and will undoubtedly go where he belongs—to the penitentiary.

Last evening a merry crowd of young ladies took advantage of the sleighing and spent a most enjoyable evening at the country residence of Mrs. Will Sharp. Among those present were: Misses Grace Sharp, Edythe Schmidt, Grace Marden, Laura Thompson, Etta Story, Alma Schmidt, Annie Thompson and Cad Booth.

Some picaresque individuals abstract newspapers and magazines from the free public library, instituted and maintained for philanthropic purposes by citizens. These contribute the reading matter in question for the good of society and it is quite exasperating to have them taken away by sneak thieves.

The steamer Regulator returned to her wharf last night, having failed to get through to the Cascades. Captain Sherman reports the river frozen over at Chenoweth landing and as the boat was not sheathed did not make determined efforts to get to her destination. She left her dock this morning for another trial to get through.

A Eugene paper mentions what purports to be a fact that that city has a book whose antiquity is greater than any within the state. Mr. John Bonn of this city has a Bible, which we have seen, that was printed in 1577. The print is very plain and the book is in a perfect condition. We believe the Eugene volume cannot be as old as the 1577 Bible, when the art of printing with movable types was in its infancy. The very first English book was printed by Caxton in 1474.

The freight train which was wrecked Thursday night near Troutdale ran into a tree which had slid 300 feet down the side of the mountain. The tree was pushed aside and the engine passed it, but was considerably damaged on one side and thrown off the rails upon the ties. Nine cars of wheat, flour and coal, which were next the engine, were thrown from the track by the tree and rolled down the embankment. No one was hurt.

Hood River News.

Correspondence of THE CHRONICLE.

HOOD RIVER, Feb. 23, 1894.

Our public school closed for a day's holiday on the 22d.

The hardest storm of the winter was on last Tuesday, a genuine Minnesota blizzard.

The snow is about six inches deep and it has been quite cool for the last few days, Wednesday morning being the coldest, at zero.

The young people and some of the older are having a good time coasting, this being the first time during the winter there has been snow enough and is likely to be the last, so they are improving the opportunity while it lasts. Feb. 19th being the 30th anniversary of the Knights of Pythias, Waucoma lodge, No. 30, gave a social and entertainment to its members and their families, it being one of the most pleasant given in Hood River for a long time. Those present were: Dr and Mrs Watt, Mr and Mrs Falkner, Mr and Mrs H C Coe, Mr and Mrs J H Cradlebaugh, Mr and Mrs O L Gilbert, Mr and Mrs Geo T Prather, Mr and Mrs J J Luckey, Mr and Mrs E Husbands, Mr and Mrs R Husbands, Mr and Mrs E Lyons, Mr and Mrs E S Olinger, Mrs W B Perry, Mr and Mrs John Nickelsen, Misses Bishop, Henry, E Cook, Irene Calison, Ida Fees, Mollie Olinger, Ida Nickelsen, Maud Gilbert, Messrs J W Wallace, Scott Peterson, J B Hunt, B Stranahan, Will Graham, C D Smith, C Wallace, G S Evans, S D Fisher, McGuire, H York, M H Nickelsen.

Prof. C. L. Gilbert, P Isenberg and Editor Cradlebaugh went to The Dalles on the train Wednesday night.

Mrs. Emily Thorne, who resides at Toledo, Washington, says she has never been able to procure any medicine for rheumatism that relieves the pain so quickly and effectually as Chamberlain's Pain Balm and that she has also used it for lame back with great success. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.

JACK HULL SENTENCED

Claimed He Was Innocent, and Was Visibly Affected.

His Attorney Gives Him the Benefit of a Kindly, Hopeful Talk—Judge Bradshaw's Words—The Wettle Case.

Jack Hull, murderer of Ben Cummings, was brought into court at 9 o'clock this morning to receive sentence. He was accompanied by both the sheriff and deputy. He took his seat among the chairs reserved for the grand jury, in one of which sat his counsel, Mr. E. B. Dufur. He shook hands heartily with the attorney and cast a nervous glance around the court room.

After entertaining one or two motions on behalf of attorneys in other cases, Judge Bradshaw ordered the prisoner to stand, and asked if he had anything to say before sentence was passed upon him. The prisoner in a firm voice said: "I am not guilty of the charge of murder. I am aware that Stewart is an enemy of mine and blame him as much as any other man for my conviction. I am aware that Cummings was an enemy of mine, and if he had any principles of a man I would not have been here and Cummings would not be where he is."

Attorney Dufur then arose and made a few remarks on behalf of the prisoner. It was evident that he strongly sympathized with his client, and as his words, spoken in a meek and sympathetic manner, reached the ear of the prisoner, the tears coursed down Hull's cheeks, though no sound came from his lips. "I am aware," said Mr. Dufur, "that nothing I can say could change or affect the judgment now about to be pronounced upon the prisoner, and it would seem like a waste of time to even refer to the circumstances. I feel that Mr. Hull has been tried by a jury of twelve men, every one of whom executed his duty conscientiously, and that no matter what I may think they have acted upon their best judgment. The only object I have in speaking is that if there is anything I can say that will give one ray of hope to the man about to be sentenced, I shall be more than repaid. It has very seldom happened in this state where a man sentenced for life has been kept for life. Much depends upon the future conduct of Hull himself, and if he is tractable and behaves like a man, and it is afterwards proven that he has been the victim of circumstances, if extenuating circumstances are shown, there is strong grounds for the hope of executive clemency. The pardoning power may come and he may be restored to citizenship. Meanwhile his comforts will be looked after, he will be treated humanely, and his bodily ailments will be looked after just as conscientiously within as without the prison walls, and when he is restored he may have the opportunity to satisfy all persons and this court that there were mitigating circumstances."

Judge Bradshaw said: "The statutes fix but one penalty for the crime of murder in the second degree, and the court has no option but to pass that sentence, which is that you be confined in the penitentiary for the remainder of your natural life. The verdict has been given by a jury of twelve men, who have patiently listened to the evidence, and have formed their judgment after great deliberation. I have also listened carefully to all of the evidence and am of the same opinion as the jury, and believe that it is a righteous verdict. I do not desire to harrow up your feelings, yet I feel called upon to say that this calamity has been brought upon yourself by yourself. It is due to your habit of carrying a murderous gun, for which there was no occasion in this country. The testimony showed no unpleasantness, and that the murder was unprovoked. I have listened to a great many trials of this kind, but none where there was so little provocation as this. Before one is justified in taking the life of his fellow man, he must be hard pressed, and it would seem that there is no other alternative. It is no light thing to take the life of a fellow man. Everyone is entitled to his own life, and it should not be taken by another, unless under the circumstances named. The judgment of the court is that you be confined in the penitentiary at Salem during the remainder of your natural life."

The Wettle case was again resumed. At the session last evening the defendant was placed upon the stand. His memory seemed quite defective at times, and he did not aid his case any, unless the fact that he is easily led into difficulty will have its weight with the jury for acquittal. Defendant's counsel summoned John Krier at 10:45 o'clock at night to appear as a witness. He was submitted to the jury in evidence as he sat in the chair. No question was asked him, and, somewhat disgusted, he returned to his cell. It should be remembered Wettle is indicted as accessory for the same offense that the jury found Krier guilty. This morning the attorneys consumed the time in reading law to the judge, including a speech an hour in length by the attorney for defendant. W. H. Wilson, attorney for state, concluded his argument this afternoon and the case was given to the jury.

At 4 o'clock the jury returned a verdict of guilty as charged and recommended the mercy of the court.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. O. M. Boland of Boyd is in the city today and called at The Chronicle office.

Mr. J. S. Schenk and wife returned today from a trip to the Midwinter fair and Los Angeles.

Mr. C. E. Lindsay has returned from Kansas City, where he has been looking up apple interests.

We are pleased to announce that news has been received that Mr. Alex McLeod, who is lying sick at Oakdale, is better and is improving every day.

Mr. Leslie Butler writes to a friend that he will return next week, and will remain. He said he will be glad to get back to Oregon, and don't want any more Kansas in his.

THE AMERICAN FARMER,

Oldest Agricultural Paper in America.

[ESTABLISHED 1819.]

To all cash subscribers of THE CHRONICLE paying one year in advance.

1729 New York Avenue, WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE AMERICAN FARMER, which is now entering upon its 75th year, is the pioneer farmer's paper in the country.

It is a large eight-page paper, and contains 56 columns of the choicest agricultural and literary matter, plentifully embellished with fine illustrations. It is

NATIONAL IN CHARACTER,

and deals with farming and farmer's interests on broad, practical lines. It

EMPLOYS THE BEST WRITERS IN THE COUNTRY, and everything that appears in its columns is of the highest character. Every department of the farmer's business is discussed in an earnest, practical way, looking to the greatest profit and benefit to the farmer and his family.

It appears on the 1st and 15th of each month, and is furnished at the low price of in advance. This makes it the cheapest agricultural paper in the country.

FARMER LEGISLATION.

During the coming year there will be an immense number of matters of the most vital interest to farmers dealt with by Congress and the Executive Departments at Washington. It is highly important that the farmers be kept promptly and fully informed as to what is being planned and done affecting them at the National Capital. They should all, therefore, take THE AMERICAN FARMER, which, being on the ground, has better facilities than any other papers for getting this information, and devotes itself to this duty. They will find in it constantly a great amount of valuable information that they can get in no other paper.

THE AMERICAN FARMER and THE CHRONICLE will be sent one year for $1.25.

166 Second Street.
