LEGENDS OF MONSTERS.

A Possible Cause of the Tales That Survive in English Folk Lore.

Every reader of north-country lore and legend, says an English paper, is familiar with the stories of monstrous "worms," "dragons," "fiery flying serpents" and the like, which are said to have located themselves in various districts. Sexhow, under the shadow of the Cleveland Hills, Teesgirt, Stockburn and Lambton upon the Wear are instances. Men have laughed at the stories, calling them "old wives' tales," but forgetting that even these may—nay, must—have had, somewhere and sometime, some foundation in fact. The old stories of elves and fairies, which amused and frightened children in bygone days, may well, as Kingsley points out, have had their origin in memories of the feeble folk of the stone age who chipped flints into rude knives and arrowheads, and who lingered in out-of-the-way caves. It may be, long after the bulk of them had been slain or driven away into the far north by stronger and better armed tribes. So the stories of these terrible monsters may not be so foolish as they appear. Take, for instance, the legend of the Stockburn worm. The name of the man who slew it is preserved, and is that of a well-known north-country family. His tomb is pointed out in the ruined church of Stockburn, where also he lay in effigy with the "worm" at his feet until, the sacred edifice falling into decay, the monument was removed to Stockburn hall adjacent. There, too, is preserved the falchion or sword with which the monster was slain, and which was shown to every fresh bishop of Durham as he entered his diocese—a custom which only ceased in the days of Van Mildret, the last of the prince bishops. In a field close by the stone round which the "worm" coiled itself is still to be seen. This story, so circumstantial in its details, can hardly be entirely fabulous. How then did it rise? "The ichthyosaurus and plesiosaurus," says S. Lang, "gave Tennyson the 'dragons' of the prime." May not some descendant of these creatures have lingered in remote places, one here and another there, even in historic times?

GLADSTONE RESIGNED

The Grand Old Man Tired of Leadership.

HE WILL RETIRE ABOUT EASTER

Will Continue to Represent Midlothian in the House—Earl Spencer His Successor.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—The Evening News of Edinburgh announces on what it calls reliable authority that Gladstone has resigned as premier, but will retain a place in the cabinet and continue to represent Midlothian. Though following many contradicted rumors regarding the intentions of the great statesman, it meets a wide belief in well-informed circles and is causing the greatest excitement and hurried exchange of telegrams between the leaders and their intimate advisers. That he has actually tendered his resignation is not counted on so much as that he is expected to take such action within the present week. The reasons assigned are a cataract is forming in one eye, which must soon be operated on, and the criticisms of the liberal papers on him for not forcing the fight on the house of lords. To the Associated Press reporter Gladstone's private secretary would not deny the truth of the published rumor, restricting himself to the statement that it was unauthorized.

The News Confirmed.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—The Evening News this afternoon says the premiership has been tendered to Lord Rosebery, who declined. Later it was offered Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty, who accepted. It adds that Gladstone's resignation goes into effect at Easter.

Morell Held to Answer.

FRESNO, Feb. 27.—Ed Morell, Evans' partner, was held to answer before the superior court yesterday for assisting Evans to escape. Another charge of highway robbery was then filed against him. Several witnesses have been summoned, but only Sheriff Scott and Jailer Ben Scott were examined. The sheriff and jailer told the story of Evans' escape and Morell's connection with it. Justice Austin asked Morell if he had any witnesses to call, and on receiving a negative reply, held him to answer before the superior court with bonds at $5,000. The court immediately took up another complaint that had been brought against the prisoner, charging him with highway robbery in stealing Cochran's horse and cart. The complaint was read to Morell, who said he had nothing to say. His bail on this charge was put at $5,000 also. This makes the total amount of his bail $25,000.

Queen Lil was Drunk.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—In the recent investigation of Hawaiian affairs by the senate committee, the most racy testimony was that of Lieutenant Young, of the Boston. In it he gives a description of the ceremonies that attend a propagation of the Hawaiian parliament by the queen. He likens the ceremonies to a circus, and declares that after the propagation, when he entered the reception room, to pay his respects to the queen, in his official capacity, that the lady was drunk.

Question of Naval Defenses.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 27.—The comparative easiness with which the Brazilian insurgent ship Aquidaban moves in and out of the harbor of Rio, under the galling fire of the forts, has set congressmen to thinking, demonstrating, as it does, the uselessness of land fortifications to prevent warships from going in or out of a harbor at pleasure. Cong. Livingstone said today he believed that in case of war our main reliance would be on naval vessels of the Miantonomoh type, which could be readily moved about a harbor and would be able to fight on even terms with any warships.

Bland Will Force a Vote.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Fithian, of Illinois, one of Bland's active lieutenants, says positively that the silver men will block all legislation, including the appropriation bills, until the Bland seigniorage bill is brought to a vote.

On Trial.

That's a good way to buy a medicine, but it's a pretty hard condition under which to sell it. Perhaps you've noticed that the ordinary hit or miss medicine doesn't attempt it.

The only remedy of its kind so remarkable in its effects that it can be sold on this plan is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. As a blood-cleanser, strength-restorer, and flesh-builder, there's nothing like it known to medical science. In every disease where the fault is in the liver or the blood, as Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, and the most stubborn Skin, Scalp, and Scrofulous affections, it is guaranteed in every case to benefit or cure, or you have your money back.

To every sufferer from Catarrh, no matter how bad the case or of how long standing, the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy say this: "If we can't cure it, perfectly and permanently, we'll pay you $500 in cash." Sold by all druggists.

The Highest Inhabited Spots.

The two villages which have the greatest elevation above the level of the sea, or, in other words, the two highest inhabited spots on earth, are Arevichinary and Mucecapata, mining camps in the Andes. Each of these places has an average of 300 inhabitants the year round. The elevation of Arevichinary is exactly 17,050 feet; that of Mucecapata, 16,153. The observations which established these heights were taken by Arthur Pearce, the engineer, and are reliable.

The experience of Geo. A. Appgar, of German Valley, N. J., is well worth remembering. He was troubled with chronic diarrhoea and doctored for five months and was treated by four different doctors without benefit. He then began using Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, of which one bottle effected a complete cure. It is for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.

FOREIGN NOTES.

Japanese advices state that smallpox is ravaging Nagasaki, the disease being unusually fatal.

The London Globe says Emperor William of Germany is devoting great attention to bimetalism. He desires the government to take every step possible to prevent a further fall in the price of silver.

The secretary of state has received a cablegram from United States Minister Thompson at Rio, saying it was reported the insurgents had captured Lapa. This is supposed to mean the town of Sapo, eight miles below Desterro.

It is reported a battle has been fought on the frontier between Germany and Russia between Russian and German troops. Several on each side were killed. The affair is said to have grown out of the use by Prussian Ulians of a Russian eagle as a target for rifle practice.

A Trick of the French Shawl Trade.

The introduction of the perfume called patchouly was caused by the desire of French shawlmakers to deceive their customers. When shawls were first brought from India they were perfumed with patchouly, an extract of an Indian plant. The French soon learned to imitate the shawls to perfection, but the patchouly bothered them, as they could find no substitute for it, and this fact was used as the surest means of distinguishing the genuine India shawls from the French counterfeit. At last somebody discovered the secret and brought a quantity of patchouly to France. For a time the discoverers kept the matter to themselves and reaped a harvest; then some one gave away the secret. The perfume soon became popular and has never since passed completely out of use, though several times superseded temporarily by other perfumes.
